SECRETARY HAY SENDS MESSAGE OF SYMPATHY

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The state department upon learning of the death of the pope sent the following cablegram to Cardinal Rampolla:

"The president desires me to express his profound sense of the loss which the Christian world has sustained in the death of his holiness Leo XIII. By his lofty character, his great learning and his comprehensive charity he adorned his exalted station and made his reign one of the most illustrious, as it has been one of the longest in the history of the Catholic church.

AGED PONTIFF SUCCUMBS TO THE GRASP OF DEATH AFTER WONDERFUL FIGHT

Head of the Catholic Church of the World Obeys the Final Summons and Passes Peacefully Away.

SERENITY AND DEVOTION MARKED HIS LAST MOMENTS

Cardinal Oreglia Assumes Charge as Acting Pope Until Leo's Successor Is Elected—Gives Some Brusque Orders at the Vatican,

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

Rome, July 20.—Pope Leo XIII. is dead. The last flicker of life expired at 4:04 o'clock this afternoon.

The period of over two weeks that Pope Leo passed in the shadow of death was no less wonderful than his life. His splendid battle against disease was watched the world over with sympathetic admiration, and ended only after a series of tremendous efforts to conquer the weakness of his aged frame by the marvelous will power of his mind. The pleuro-pneumonia with which his holiness had been suffering was scarcely so responsible for his death as that inevitable decay of tissue which ensues upon 93 years of life. The tested steel which had bent so often before human ills was bound to break at last.

Tonight the emaciated and lifeless frame which held so brave a spirit lies on the bed in the vatican beside which almost all the world has prayed. The red damask coverlet rests lightly over the body, the cardinals' scarlet cape is about the shoulders, while on his head has been placed the papal hood of velvet, bordered with ermine, a white silk handkerchief is bound about his chin and in the hands which have blessed so many thousands has been placed a crucifix. So, Pope Leo will remain until tomorrow, watched by uniformed officers of the noble guard and rough clad Franciscan penitentiaries, who will keep a ceaseless vigil until the burial takes place.

Will Officially Announce Death.

Tomorrow the sacred college of cardinals will assemble for the impressive ceremony of officially pronouncing Pope Leo dead. After this sad function has been performed the body will be taken to the small throne room adjoining the death chamber, where it will be embalmed. The funeral ceremonies will extend over nine days, the remains being removed to the cathedral of St. Peters, where they will lie in state. The ultimate resting place of the dead pontiff will be in the magnificent basilica of St. John's.

Pope Leo's final moments were marked with that serenity and devotion and, when he was conscious, that calm intelligence which is associated with his 25 years' pontificate. His was no easy death. An hour before he died, turning to Dr. Lapponi and his devoted valet, Pio Centra, he murmured, "The pain I suffer is most terrible." Yet his parting words were not of the physical anguish that he suffered, but were whispered benedictions upon the cardinals and his nephews, who knelt at the bedside and the last look of his almost sightless eyes was toward the great ivory crucifix hanging in the death chamber. Practically all the cardinals now in Rome, kneeling at the bedside, watched the passage of his soul. Earlier in the day Cardinal Serafino Vannutelli had impressively pronounced the absolution in articulo mortis.

The Doctors Differed.

The condition of his holiness varied from agony to coma. Wishing to relieve him, Dr. Mazzoni suggested that morphine should be administered, but Dr. Lapponi did not agree, fearing that the end might be quickened. Of this supreme moment Dr. Lapponi gives an impressive description. He says:

"Death occurred through exhaustion, although in the last two hours Pope Leo made a supreme effort to gather together all his energies. He succeeded in recognizing those about him by the sound of their voices as his sight was almost entirely lost. Still he made a marvelous display of his energy and even his death was really grand. It was resigned, calm, and serene. Very few examples can be given of a man of such advanced age after so exhaustive an illness showing such supreme courage in dying.

"I approached a lighted candle to his mouth three times according to the traditional ceremony and afterwards declared the pope to be no more. I then went to inform Cardinal Oreglia, the dean of the Sacred college, who immediately assumed full power and gave orders that the vatican be cleared of all curious persons having no right to be therein. Contemporaneously the cardinal instructed Monsignor Righi, master of ceremonies, to send the Swiss guards from the Clementine hall to close all the entrances to the vatican and dismiss all persons from the death chamber, the body being entrusted to the Franciscan penitentiaries."

Church Not Interrupted.

Meanwhile, events of momentous importance to Catholic Christendom were occurring. The death of Pope Leo meant the passing of the supreme power into the hands of the sacred college of cardinals as its temporary custodian during the interregnum.

The perfect administrative machinery of the church provided against the slightest interruption of the governing authority. As the senior member of the sacred college, Cardinal Oreglia, to whom the pope today solemnly confided the interests of the church, has become the exponent of the cardinals until Pope Leo's successor has been elected. This has brought forth Cardinal Oreglia as the striking personality of the hour.

The cardinal is the exact antithesis of Pope Leo, having none of the late pontiff's sympathetic and benevolent characteristics. He came from noble Piedmontese stock and his nobility is shown in his haughty and austere bearing. He is not popular among his colleagues or the Romans and his brusque manner has earned him the title of "The Piedmont Bear." He is tall and robust and his 74 years are shown by the whiteness of his hair. His face has the tawny hue of old parchment and is deeply lined. Despite his austerity, the cardinal's learning and piety are universally recognized.

This is the man who for the time being is practically pope. It was he who issued the orders to clear the vatican from intruders and brought tranquility out of the confusion immediately following Pope Leo's death.

The death of the pontiff occurred at a time when all was singularly calm about the vatican as people had been so long expecting the final summons that their sensibilities were well nigh numbed. Outside St. Peter's the empty trolley cars swung slowly around the loop and across the square into the cool shade of the great colonnade which for more than two centuries has been the pride of Roman architecture. The clang of the car bells was the only noise which dispelled the traditional peacefulness of an Italian afternoon. Now and again one of those little open carriages in which all Rome rides, rattled across the baked Vesuvian stone with which the square of St. Peter's is paved.

President Voices Country's Regret

OYSTER BAY, L. I., July 20.—President Roosevelt was deeply touched by the death of Pope Leo. At his home on Sagamore Hill, on being informed of the demise of the venerable head of the Catholic church, he dictated the following for the Associated Press:

"The president expressed his profound regret at the death of the venerable pontiff, whose long career, no less than his exalted character, has commanded the respect of all Christendom. The president said that in uttering these sentiments he was giving expression to the feelings of all the people in the United States, wholly without regard to their religious faiths."

PHIPPS CHILDREN IN A RUNAWAY ACCIDENT

Heroism of Bicyclist Saves Them from Serious Injury at Denver.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

DENVER, July 20.—Dorothy Phipps, aged 6, and Helen, aged 3, children of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence C. Phipps of Pittsburgh, were saved from serious injury or death today by the daring of E. R. May, a hardware salesman, who sprang from his bicycle and caught the team which was running away. Little Dorothy was thrown from the carriage and received a cut on her forehead, but otherwise is not injured. Beyond the shock Baby Helen, who was with her nurse, escaped without harm.

The horses became frightened at a steam roller and got beyond control of the coachman. As they were running away the bicyclist grabbed the bridle of one and clinging to it brought them partially to a stop. The horses plunged wildly, but May clung to the bridle. The carriage tongue snapped and one wheel was smashed, thereby throwing Dorothy to the pavement, but allowing the nurse an opportunity to jump with the other child.

Mr. Phipps is in Europe and Mrs. Phipps is thought to be at Manhattan Beach.

ROMANCE OF ACTRESS BEGAN IN PITTSBURGH

Richmond S. Atno Wins Heart and Hand of Miss Grace E. Hayward.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 20.—A mild sensation has been caused in Brooklyn by the announcement of the marriage engagement of Miss Grace E. Hayward, a beautiful young actress. She is the fiancee of Richmond Sherman Atno, only son and heir of the late Richmond S. Atno, who organized the United States Leather Company. The marriage is set for the first week in September.

Mr. Atno is a resident of Morristown, N. J., but of late he has been stopping in Brooklyn. Considerable romance, it is said, was connected with Mr. Atno's suit. When he first saw Miss Hayward it was at a Pittsburgh theater about three months ago, and he was so smitten that he traveled about the Pennsylvania and New Jersey theatrical circuit to be near the object of his adoration.

Mrs. Anna Pinto, the widowed mother of the prospective bride, is admittedly overjoyed at the egagement, and her enthusiasm is shared by the prospective bridegroom. Cards formally announcing the engagement will be sent out in a day or two.

FOLLOWED THE POPE.

Archbishop Katzer Dies as Result of Worry Over Leo's Fatal Sickness.

FOND DU LAC, WIS., July 20.—Archbishop Katzer died tonight at St. Agnes convent after a sickness dating from September, 1902. He came to Fond du Lac for rest and treatment four months ago. A week ago he suddenly became worse and Saturday night his condition became critical. Since that time the end has been expected momentarily.

He will be buried in St. Francis cemetery, Milwaukee. It is said that worry over the pope's condition previous to the aged pontiff's demise had much to do with Archbishop Katzer's death.

PRINCE OF WALES WILL VISIT THE PRESIDENT

LONDON, July 20.—(Social Cable.)—The Standard of Portsmouth announced tonight that the cruiser King Alfred, after the completion of the maneuvers in August, will be prepared to take the prince and princess of Wales to New York. It is reported that they have accepted an invitation to visit President Roosevelt. Official confirmation of the report is not obtainable. In naval circles it is considered extremely probable. The Standard is the semi-official organ of the government.

GOVERNMENT DEFEATS THE REVOLUTIONISTS

Venezuelan Insurgents Driven from Ciudad Bolivar After Hard Battle.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

SOLEDAD, VENZ., July 20.—At 5 o'clock yesterday morning the engagement between the government forces and the revolutionists occupying Ciudad, Bolivar, began in two different directions. The revolutionists opened the battle. At 7 o'clock the government troops, after a hard fight in which they lost more than 100 men, captured the cemetery. At 8 o'clock the Venezuelan fleet, consisting of five men of war, shelled the government building at Ciudad.

At 10 o'clock the revolutionists flag had disappeared from the government building and at 11 all streets near that building were captured by the government forces and a charge on the city was ordered. The fight was general, but the movements could not be followed in consequence of the smoke caused by the fire of the artillery of the revolutionists, which seemed formidable. It was answered vigorously by the government guns and only a few shots reached the fleet. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon, a block of houses opposite the government building was captured by storm, the revolutionists resisting desperately.

General Rivas is waiting for a signal from Gen. Gomez, the Venezuelan commander-in-chief, who conducted the attack from Miraflares, to enter Ciudad Boliver with his reserves and 14 guns. There were over 200 dead revolutionists in the streets, not counting the wounded.

Clarence Andrews of Titusville, Pa., Died of Pneumonia as a Result of Exposure.

CARELESSNESS CAUSED BLAZE

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

Seattle, Wash., July 20.—The steamer Meteor, from Nome, Alaska, July 10, arrived here today with news of the burning of a hotel at Nome July 5 in which three Pittsburghers lost their lives, and also the news of the death by pneumonia, caused by exposure, of a Titusville man. The victims were:

ROBERT MCLAIN HAYS, aged 45, of Pittsburgh, suffocated to death.

JANE T. HAYS, aged 43, of Pittsburgh, wife of Robert M. Hays, suffocated to death.

SHERMAN D. GREGG, aged 26, of Pittsburgh, suffocated to death.

CLARENCE ANDREWS, aged 28, of Titusville, died of pneumonia as a result of exposure.

Nearly a block of charred and blackened ruins mark the site of what was the Golden Gate hotel and adjacent buildings. The fire broke out at 5 o'clock Sunday morning, July 5, when nearly all the guests were in their beds. The second cook, E. R. Burr, apparently poured half a baking power can of oil on the fire, which was smouldering in the kitchen stove. There was an explosion and Burr fled. Harvey Edgerton, the night clerk, turned in an alarm and hurried down the corridor to awaken the guests.

The hotel was a big three-story structure, a regular death trap, with no fire escapes or emergency exits, and it burned like a tinder box. Robert M. Hays of Pittsburgh and his wife were on the third floor, and it was thought that on reaching the corridor and finding a mass of flames they returned to their rooms and were suffocated. Their remains have been recovered, as have also those of Sherman D. Gregg of Pittsburgh formerly of Freeport, Pa.

Daggart & Harris, proprietors of the hotel, estimated their loss at $50,000. Various ware houses in the vicinity were badly damaged. The total loss will amount to nearly $100,000. The cook, Burr, has been held for manslaughter as the result of the coroner's inquest.

Friends Shocked by the News.

The news of the death of Robert M. Hays and his wife and of Sherman D. Gregg in the hotel fire at Nome was a shock to their many friends in this vicinity, as was the death by pneumonia at Nome of Clarence Andrews of Titusville. Mr. Hays lived with his wife and two sons at No. 220 Amber street, East End, and his office was in room 407 House building, at Smithfield and Water streets. He was a contractor in the pipe-laying business and went to Cape Nome to lay water pipes for the Nome Exploration Company. The mines of the company are placer mines and are situated between six and eight miles from the town of Nome. The water used in washing the gravel comes from the Nome river. It first is pumped into a reservoir on King mountain above the mines and from there it is piped to the mines. For this purpose there were to be used 14 miles of six-inch pipes, for which Mr. Hays had the contract of laying. Most of the material for the line was sent from this city, and the pipe, machinery and supplies made up 43 carloads of freight.

When Mr. Hays went to Nome he took with him besides his wife and son Fred about 40 persons from this vicinity, some of whom went to work and others who went for a good time and to look out for investments. Among them were J. B. Andrews, known as "Si," the well-known oil operator of Titusville; his nephew, Clarence Andrews, aged 26, who died of pneumonia at Nome two weeks ago; Sylvia Andrews, a niece of J. B. Andrews; John Newell, Jr., son of the former hotelkeeper of this city; George Tooker, aged 20, son of F. M. Tooker, proprietor of Newell's hotel, and Sherman D. Gregg, who was also burned to death.

Party Left Pittsburgh on May 26.

The party left Pittsburgh May 26 and sailed from Seattle June 2, arriving at Nome June 16. There were 600 passengers on the ship and they were much retarded on the journey by the ice. James W. Kelly, principal owner of the mine, was with the party, having joined them at Seattle. He is the president of the Scandinavian bank of Seattle and was formerly of Washington, Pa., and Parkersburg, W. Va., in both of which places he engaged extensively in oil operations. He also made considerable money in the Beaumont oil fields.

F. M. Tooker recently received a letter from his son, dated June 30, in which he stated that all of the party were having a good time and that work on the contract was progressing satisfactorily. He stated that on the day of writing he had gone out with some teamsters and had superintended the unloading of some of the pipes to be used on the new line. Young Tooker also said that there was continual daylight at Nome and that a newspaper could

TIME FOR THE STATE TO ACT

So Says Col. Campbell of the J. O. Brown Inquest.

MORE TESTIMONY IN

Walter Black's Evidence Contradicted by Letter from New York—Sensational Episodes.

WITNESSES SUFFER ORDEAL

"It is about time for the coroner to close his inquest in the death of Recorder J. O. Brown. There is an opportunity for the district attorney to take up the investigation. The theory of suicide has been completely overthrown and from the mass of testimony submitted a chain of circumstances has been forged which warrants the most careful study of this strangest of mysteries."

Such was the opinion expressed last night by Col. T. C. Campbell, the New York attorney, brought here to advise Coroner Jesse M. McGeary in the prosecution of the Brown inquest. For two hours during the afternoon Col. Campbell had plied witnesses with questions and every answer brought out some new or startling feature in the case. Under the cross-examination which Col. Campbell made with relentless vigor, Dr. W. H. McKelvy, Recorder Brown's family physician, was practically compelled to abandon his theory that the patient had committed suicide and Miss Nettie R. McLean, who was recalled to the witness stand, finally refused to answer the questions without consulting her attorney.

Results Promise to be Prolific.

"I feel thoroughly satisfied that this investigation will be prolific of results which will make all the effort and expense worth the while," continued Colonel Campbell. "I feel certain that it has been shown that Recorder Brown did not die of tricnal poisoning, and that he did not take potassium cyanide. Some effort has been made to discover if death could not have been due to cumulative poisoning by strychnine. The evidence shows that J. O. Brown had taken over one-twelfth of a grain of strychnine, according to the prescription. Around all this are circumstances which will offer a wide field for those who conduct the investigation for the commonwealth."

Col Campbell returned last night to New York and the inquest was adjourned until Friday, July 31. Besides Dr. McKelvy and Miss Nettie R. McLean, Walter R. Black, Dr. W. T. Burleigh and Miss Susan McLean were called to the stand. Mrs. Ella M. Brown, the widow of Recorder Brown, also was present, but was not called to testify.

Mr. Black testified again that he had accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Brown to New York on March 3, and that they had stopped at the Imperial hotel.

"Are you sure that you registered there?" the coroner asked.

"Quite certain," replied Mr. Black, shortly.

"Don't you know that you did not stop there and that you did not register?" demanded the coroner.

"Sir, I am under oath."

Differs from Black's Statement.

While this questioning was going on J. R. F. Brown was sitting in the room showing the newspaper men a letter which had just been received from the proprietor of the Hotel Imperial. A copy of the letter follows:

"Mr. Jesse McGeary,

"Coroner, Pittsburgh, Pa.:

"Dear Sir—As per request, I hereby take pleasure in informing you that no Joseph O. Brown and wife, and Walter R. Black, registered at this hotel between March 1 and 15, 1903.

"Sincerely,

"JOHN A. PARKS."

Miss Nettie McLean was the first witness called. In reply to Col. Campbell's questions she detailed the circumstances attending Recorder Brown's last hours. She said that she had known Mr. Brown for 18 years and had been his stenographer.

"Were there any large business transactions between you?" Col. Campbell asked.

"Yes, some."

"Without going into detail, Miss McLean, can you tell how much you received from Mr. Brown's estate?"

"I received nothing from his estate."

"I mean how much did you receive from him before his death—as much as $400,000?"

"Oh, my, no."

"Well, didn't you get valuable oil property?"

"Yes, sir."

"And that oil property which Mr. Brown gave you, brought you an income of $5,000 a month?"

"No, not that much."

"Well, if it didn't yield $5,000 a month, how much did you get out of that property?"

"I can't tell without looking over my books."

"What salary did you receive as stenographer?"

"I received $100 a month and with other salaries, about $1,700 a year, in addition to the income from my own private business."

"What was the nature of your private business?"

"That question I do not care to answer. You are not investigating my personal affairs, are you?"

At this juncture Miss Susan McLean sprang up from her seat in the rear of the room and walked up to the witness box and held an excited conversation with her sister under her breath. Col. Campbell took advantage of the lull to consult with Attorney J. Scott Ferguson. For the first time since the inquest had begun there was the evidence of a sensation in the court room. As soon as Miss McLean had taken her seat Col. Campbell resumed his cross fire turning to a new feature of the case.

"Did you know anything about the relations between Mr. Brown and his wife?"

"Yes; he sometimes conversed with me on the subject."

"When did he last speak of his wife?"

"About 10 days before his death."

"What did he say?"

"I don't think I could be asked to answer that question," said the witness confusedly.

"Do you know if his relations at home were cordial or otherwise?"

"I heard much from hearsay—but I decline to answer the question."

Miss Susan McLean was the next witness. Her testimony developed little that was new. She re-told the story of administering strychnine and brandy to Mr. Brown, according to Dr. McKelvey's orders.

"Mr. Brown was a good patient—always willing to take his medicine and seemed always to have a desire to live—quite opposed to taking his life?"

"Yes, sir," replied the witness.

Dr. McKelvey Again on the Stand.

Dr. McKelvey was on the stand more than one hour, and when he left Col. Campbell had scattered all theories of suicide.

"Doctor, did J. O. Brown commit suicide?" was the first question.

"If he had any extra poison in his stomach I believe he put it there."

"Answer the question plainly."

"I am rather suspicious that he did."

"If so, what did he take?"

"If he committed suicide he did it with trional."

"Did you ever hear of any one ever taking such a slow, cumbersome drug as trional with suicidal intent?"

"No sir, I never did."

"Did his symptoms suggest the effects of trional?"

"Yes, he was drowsy.

"Did you not say in your testimony here before that he talked in a sprightly manner—?"

"Yes, he talked freely enough, but was drowsy, acting like a man who was recovering from intoxication."

"Why should he desire to commit suicide?"

"I can't imagine."

Following this were scores of questions bearing along the same lines to prove that Recorder Brown had no thought of suicide and that he had taken neither trional in quantities sufficient to produce death nor that he had swallowed cyanide.

"Is strychnine cumulative?"

"Yes, sometimes, when there is no digestion."

"How much strychnine produces death?"

"Many persons can take as much as half a grain."

"Would one-twelfth of a grain produce death?"

"To some persons."

"Did J. O. Brown not take one-twelfth of a grain within 27 hours?"

Physicians Had Suspicions.

"Yes; but the doses were not extraordinary and are considered by physicians to be perfectly safe."

"Did Dr. Everson at first refuse to sign the death certificate?"

"No, sir; we both had some suspicions that death might not have been the result of natural causes but later we agreed to sign the death certificate."

"Did you advise the coroner not to hold an autopsy, saying that he might find sulphonal?"

"No. I did say that he might find potassium cyanide. I have no interest in the case, one way or the other. I did not want to see all the bad features of the recorder's life brought out. I knew it would do no good. Twenty minutes after his death the three physicians told the coroner that we suspected the use of cyanide and he answered, saying that if there had been no foul play to let it go. 'Poor Uncle Joe has had trouble enough,' he said."

"Then, if he had used cyanide, was that not a crime?"

"It would have been, but we were only suspicious of its use at that time and so consulted the coroner."

"Did you know of Recorder Brown's domestic relations? That he did not live at home with his wife? What was being concealed?"

"All I knew about his domestic life is ——"

"Didn't you know he lived in the house of Miss McLean?"

"Yes, I understood that he boarded there."

Dr. W. T. Burleigh, a South Side physician, was next called. He testified that he had visited Recorder Brown on the afternoon of his death. He said he had no means of knowing how the patient met death, but suspected nafural causes. Walter R. Black was recalled and examined by Coroner McGeary.

"Did Recorder Brown not tell you that he was in great fear?"

"I never heard him say that he feared anything."

"Did you tell me anything about the box of potassium cyanide which had been found on Mr. Brown?"

"I was not talking to you. I did not feel that it was necessary."

"Yes; I was a blood relation of the recorder and you were not. Did you not say that it was none of my business?"

"I had been told that you knew all about it and felt that if the doctors and the coroner had decided to keep everything quiet it would be small taste for me to do any talking."

At this point the inquest was adjourned.

EWEN IN JACKSON.

Star Witness in Feudal Murder Cases Returns to Testify.

JACKSON, KY., July 20.—The circuit court convened here today in special session for the burning of the Ewen hotel and the attempted bribery of Capt. B. J. Ewen, principal witness for the prosecution in the assassination cases of Curtiss Jett and Tom White. Judge Redwine refused to vacate the bench and empaneled the grand jury, which will also consider the assassination of Dr. B. D. Cox, which occurred in April, 1902. He made a vigorous charge and warned them that if they did not do their duty he would empanel another grand jury.

With trunks arranged in a hollow square Capt. B. J. Ewen came to Jackson in the baggage car on the afternoon Lexington & Eastern train. He boarded the car in the yards at Lexington and his presence on the train was unknown to any one save the train crew and silence was imposed on them.

GOV. PENNYPACKER SAYS POPE LEO WON ESTEEM

HARRISBURG, July 20.—Gov. Pennypacker arrived in Harrisburg this afternoon. A reporter informed him later of the death of Pope Leo and the governor expressed sympathy. "It is not surprising," said the governor, "to hear of Pope Leo's death. The wonder is that he lived as long as he did. It was a good old age. He has been a very worthy and capable occupant of the chair. His work appears to have been done well and surely he has succeeded in winning the favorable opinion and esteem of people in America as well as elsewhere."

POPE LEO HAD ALWAYS FAVORED PEACE

Policy of Late Pontiff Was Always Influenced by America, Says William T. Stead.

CONSTITUTION SENT TO HIM

Sowed Seed in Field in New World for Harvest to His Church in Years to Come—Gave Great Victory to Labor in Encyclical.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

LONDON, July 20.—I will leave to others to describe the career of the great pope, who has just died. The one point upon which I wish to insist is the extent to which the policy of Leo XIII. was influenced by America. It is only one of the many instances constantly cropping up which remind us how unconscious the Americans are of the extent of their own influence. They do not realize that they are Americanizing the world. How few have heard of the extent to which they have succeeded in Americanizing the papacy. Philip D. Armour, in a jocose mood once proposed to form a syndicate to transplant the pope and all the headquarters of the staff of the church from the vatican to the neighborhood of Chicago. The astute porkpacker calculated that the syndicate could easily recoup itself for the cost of the pontifical exodus including the rebuilding of St. Peter's in Illinois, by the increase of value which the presence of the pope would give to real estate in the neighborhood of the new vatican.

But the pope would not go to America, so America went to the pope, and if he has been the greatest pope since the reformation, it is largely due to the fact that more than any other occupant of St. Peter's chair he had the good fortune to come under the influence of American principles.

Appreciated America.

Grover Cleveland when president sent Leo as a jubilee present a copy of the American Constitution. Long before that gift the pope had realized that the future belonged to the Americans, and that it was by assimilating their ideas and inspiring the Catholic church with the democratic ideas and sentiments which find their best exponents in the American representatives that Catholicism would triumph in the future.

Count Melichor de Vogue, one of the most brilliant contemporary men of letters and favored visitor at the vatican, has recorded his convictions that Leo was unquestionably the European whose thoughts were most engrossed by America. The count wrote in 1897: "From my interviews with the venerable pontiff I have always carried away the impression that the new world and particularly that part of it populated by the Anglo-Saxon race was the pole toward which the meditation, calculations and hopes of this genius were in preference directed, and a steadfast conviction that the United States was a field on which he is sowing seed for harvests in years to come. He looked upon the mysterious America as Noah must have gazed at the peak of Ararat when the waters of the deluge were rising, seeking the refuge in which the divine promises shall be fulfilled and whence the preserved races will start afresh and begin a new cycle of life.

He Was a Statesman.

The late pope was much more of a statesman than an ecclesiastic. At the beginning of his papacy he was thoroughly counselled by Cardinal Manning to break with the old traditions which bound the popes to the effete dynasties of the old world and to cast his lot with the democratic masses. The good seed which the great English cardinal sowed the American prelates have diligently watered.

To Cardinal Gibbons and to Archbishop Ireland, who ought long before this to have received the cardinal's hat, it is largely due that the late pope realized the possibility of a new future for Catholicism in the great stronghold of democratic society.

He was the first pope who ever preemptorily forbade any anti-republican propaganda by the Roman clergy in France, summoned the first American council. He sent the first papal delegate across the Atlantic. He modified the restricted rules of the church in order to meet the necessities of American society.

In his later years, it is true, he condemned what was called Americalism, but he couched his condemnation in such terms that Archbishop Ireland himself found no difficulty in echoing his chief's denunciation.

Passionate for Peace.

He was ever a passionate advocate of peace. One of his first messages which he sent to me through Cardinal Vanutelli was to inquire whether it was possible for him to render any assistance in the great work of international arbitration which was accomplished, largely by Americans at The Hague.

Nothing caused Leo so much misery in his later years as the outbreak of war between Spain and the United States. He passionately implored his Maker if he saw fit to allow the war to break out, to remove him from the world before fratricidal strife stained the New World with blood.

But the crowning illustration of the extent to which the new wine of American ideas has been poured into the old bottles of the papacy is to be found in the pope's encyclical on labor. The first great victory gained for the labor at the vatican was when the American prelates succeeded in securing his approval for the Knights of Labor, who had been ignorantly condemned by some reactionary prelates of the old school. But it was until his encyclical on labor appeared in 1891, that the world knew to what extent the pope had been captured by democracy. It is well worth recalling today, when the hand that penned this memorable document lie cold and still in death, some of this famous dicta in that encyclical.

For Labor Unions.

He affirmed in uncompromising terms the right of workmen to combine in trades unions and denounced any attempt on the part of those in authority to forbid the formation of trade unions or to interfere with their just purposes. He proclaimed that the condition of laboring classes was the question of the hour, and declared it ought to be the first concern of all to save the poor workers from the cruelty of grasping speculators who use human beings as mere instruments for making money.

He noted and deplored the rise of the great trusts, by which a small number of very rich men have been able to put upon the masses of the poor a yoke little better than slavery itself. He asserted the principle of living wages when he wrote.

He pleaded for shorter hours of labor and for a six-day week. He denounced the exploitation of child labor and loudly called on the state to enact good factory laws. Finally he told all his clergy everywhere that in order to secure for labor those rights he had defined, they must not in silence neglect their duties and added:

"Every member of our holy religion must throw into the conflict all the energy of his mind and all his strength and his endurance."

He being dead yet speaketh. The immediate future of the Catholic church will depend upon how far his successor is animated by the same broad, human democratic principles which shed glory over the pontificate of Leo XIII.

POPE LEO DIES AFTER LONG FIGHT

and took its place on the cab rank which lies in the shadow of Michael Angelo's 400 columns.

A few half-naked urchins dawdled in the spray which a light breeze blew from the fountain that plays unceasingly beside the huge oblisk, brought to Rome from Egypt by some conquering emperor. A few yards away, besides the bronze doors which lead to the vatican, some 20 or 30 men and boys and a handful of gendarmes lazily awaited the news.

First Message of Death.

Inside the Swiss guards lolled on a bench and complained of the heat. Scarcely a soul passed up the marble staircase and the courtyard of San Damaso was deserted except for the heavy black carriages of the cardinals and their coachmen who were awaiting their masters. It was the hour of the siesta. Nothing could have been more peaceful. Occasionally, one of the more energetic among the watchers ventured into the sun to take another glance at their pope's room which, kept closely shuttered, was in perfect harmony with the quiet scene it overlooked.

At 20 minutes past 4 a man dashed madly across St. Peter's square, then quite empty. A second later another followed on a bicycle. Within a few seconds as if by magic, newspaper men, gendarmes and messengers, running, driving and gesticulating, dashed to and from the portals of the vatican.

Like a huge message there flashed around the words: "He is dead."

Rubbing the afternoon sleep from their eyes, bare-headed men and women, many carrying babies, emerged from the darkened houses and cafes and besieged the door of the vatican. The transformation was complete. The quick movement and tense feeling of the rapidly gathering crowd now permeated where a few minutes before there had been no sign of life.

Police Force Increased.

The French ambassador's carriage drove furiously from the vatican and drew up at a nearby telegraph office. Without waiting for the horses to stop the ambassador jumped out and notified his government of the pope's death. There soon followed the cardinals, who, with set faces, drove slowly homeward.

Behind the shutters of Pope Leo's room, which still remain closed, all was over. The heavy bronze doors were swung to and entrance to the vatican was only obtainable by knocking at a little wicket which was closely kept within by the papal guard and without by the Italian police. The latter had been slightly reinforced, but had no difficulty in controlling the crowds who were allowed to remain in the square, just as they were accustomed to do before the death, but not to enter the vatican itself.

Carriages kept rattling, their occupants mostly holding in their hands extra editions announcing the pope's death, which the local papers quickly got out. On the steps of St. Peter's sat a group of young Roman princes discussing the situation. Nearby was gathered almost every type of peasant and working women who make Rome so picturesque. A few entered the basilica itself and there offered up prayers for Pope Leo's soul. Among the supplicants were many monks, who, with hands uplifted, prayed long and earnestly at the gates of this dimly lighted shrines.

AMERICAN CITIES MOURN THE DEATH OF POPE LEO

Bells Are Tolled Throughout the Land on Receipt of News from Rome.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, July 20.—Mayor Low late today issued the following letter regarding the death of Pope Leo XIII.:

"The death of the pope will bring sorrow to many hundred thousands of the citizens of New York, and those whom it does not directly affect will respond with fraternal sympathy for their fellow citizens who feel his death as a personal loss. Every one must have been moved by his calm and brave bearing in the presence of approaching death. It is too early to attempt to consider Leo XIII.'s place in history, but one may safely say that he filled the great position with dignity and authority and as one who has understood thoroughly the movements of his time."

The flags on the city hall were placed at half mast by order of Mayor Low, as soon as the death of the pope was announced. The flags on all other city buildings were also half-masted in compliance with the mayor's request.

HARRISBURG, July 20.—The bells on all the Catholic churches here were tolled on the news of the death of Pope Leo, and the churches were draped in the papal colors and mourning. Bishop Shanahan, who has been in retreat in Philadelphia will arrange for memorial services.

BALTIMORE, July 20.—On receipt of the news of the death of Pope Leo XIII. the bells of the cathedral were solemnly tolled. Bishop Curtis, who is in charge of the diocese during the absence of Cardinal Gibbons, sent out invitations to the bishops of the province to attend the cathedral in this city on the day of the funeral when Bishop Donohue of Wheeling will preach the sermon, and when there will be solemn high mass and elaborate services.

CINCINNATI, July 20.—Archbishop Elder has issued instructions to the clergy of his diocese in respect to observances in consequence of the death of Pope Leo XIII. He directs the tolling of church bells at noon for nine days immediately after the "Angelus," a requiem high mass in each church, pontifical high mass in the cathedral July 28, prayers "pro eligendo summo pontifice" until a successor is elected, and requests that churches be appropriately draped for 30 days.

PHILADELPHIA, July 20.—(Special.)—Archbishop Ryan gave the following tribute to the memory of Pope Leo XIII.: "He was pre-eminently a man of his age. His sympathy for our institutions in America was genuine."

Serious Charge Against Negro.

John Jordon, colored, was arrested yesterday in Youngstown, O., and brought to Pittsburgh last night on information made by Arthur DeLong charging him with the larceny of $100 worth of jewelry from No. 15 Second avenue. The theft was committed about three weeks ago, at which time DeLong was the sole occupant of the house. Jordan, it is alleged, stole DeLong's clothes in which were a watch and other jewelry. The stolen articles were recovered.

POPE LEO'S DEATH CAUSES SORROW

Prelates, Priests and People Keenly Feel the Loss of the Great Pontiff.

BISHOP PHELAN'S TRIBUTE

Saw the Pope Twice, Once, as a Bishop, in Private Audience—Pittsburghers Who Were Received—Religious Services to Be Held for Leo XIII.

The news of the death of Pope Leo XIII. was received with poignant regret by Catholics in the Pittsburgh diocese. Many Catholics in Pittsburgh had met the pope personally, in audience, and had received from him the special attention which he gave to citizens from the great republic which he admired and loved. The pope's illness had been recognized as fatal so long that his death did not come as a surprise, still the grief was intense among Catholics.

Until late last night no official notification of the death of his holiness had been received at the chancery of St. Paul's cathedral, which is temporarily at the rectory of the Epiphany church, but the news as contained in the newspapers was considered so reliable that Father Sweeney, who has been conducting the devotions for the recovery of the pope at the Epiphany church, omitted those prayers and said instead the prayers of the church for the repose of the soul of the dead pontiff.

Bishop Phelan Speaks Feelingly.

The Rt. Rev. Richard Phelan, bishop of this diocese, had been for some days enjoying the country air at St. Paul's orphan asylum, at Idlewood, and the Rt. Rev. Regis J. F. Canevin, coadjutor bishop, was in Greensburg yesterday presiding over the consistory of the sisters of charity, at Seton Hill, who were holding an election for mother superior. Bishop Canevin had intended to do some diocesan work in that neighborhood and remain there for several days, but it was expected last night that he would return as soon as he heard of the death of the pope.

"The death of his holiness came as a distinct shock to me although from the nature of the news published daily regarding his condition, it seemed evident that he could not recover," said Bishop Phelan last evening. "By the passing away of Pope Leo the Catholic church loses one of the best of all the popes who have reigned since St. Peter's time; the world has lost the greatest statesman of the day; humanity has lost its best friend. For the United States especially, Leo XIII. had the warmest feelings, for he realized that in this great republic the church had the greatest opportunity to expand and to do good.

Recalls His Audience With Leo.

"I can remember as if it was yesterday, the time I saw the pope in private audience, after I had become bishop of this diocese. It was in 1891. According to a law of the church, made in 1595, each bishop is obliged to visit the pope at least once every 10 years to report on the condition of his diocese. At these 'ad limina' visits the bishops have private audience with the holy father. The pope was even then an old man, ethereally thin, but his eye was bright, he was vigorous in his movements and he was much interested in the country whence I came. That was not, however, the first time I saw the holy father, for not long after he had become pope and while I was still a priest, I saw him in Rome.

"The devotions for the recovery of the pope, which I have conducted in the Church of the Epiphany, and in some other churches in the diocese, will now, even before official notification of the death of Pope Leo has been received, be changed to prayers for the repose of his soul. Before this a pontifical requiem mass will be solemnized. The date for the mass cannot be fixed until the official notice has come. When that arrives the time will be set.

Kind Words of Protestants.

"Although Pope Leo's character was firm, its goodness and lovableness has been well demonstrated by the kind words that Protestants in this country have uttered since he became ill. Every Catholic could not but be touched by the kindliness thus exhibited and the prayers which Protestants sent up for the recovery of the holy father."

One of the priests of the diocese found Bishop Phelan the other day reading a newspaper which contained the eloquent tribute which the Rev. Dr. Edward Young, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, paid the dying prelate. The priest had read the article himself, and he said to the bishop. "That is a beautiful tribute, bishop, from a Protestant minister."

"Yes, indeed," replied the bishop.

It is believed that the official notice of the pope's death will be received today. It may come through Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia, who will transmit it to the suffragan bishops of the archdiocese, to which Pittsburgh belongs, or it may come to all the bishops direct from the apostolic delegation in Washington. Uncertainty regarding the exact method to be followed in sending the notice exists because when Pope Leo's predecessor, Pius IX., died there was no papal delegate to the United States and the notice was sent from Rome to the archbishops and through them to the bishops. It is certain, however, that the official notice will come from Rome to the delegation.

Period of Mourning Thirty Days.

The period of mourning for a pope is 30 days. It is always customary to drape the outside and inside walls and columns of a cathedral, and in this case Epiphany church takes the place of the cathedral. It is probable that other churches in the diocese will be draped, but the matter rests with the rectors and pastors of the churches.

Fervent prayers for the repose of the soul of the late pontiff, bishop of Rome, will ascend today from thousands of altars throughout the world. Every ordained priest in the Catholic church must say one mass every day, and this morning he will say it for the spiritual welfare of the pope. There is no rule to that effect, but it has been the custom of every priest at the first opportunity to offer up a requiem mass in case of the death of a pope. It is not every day that a low requiem mass may be said, but today happens to be one on which it is permissible.

It is expected that the pontifical requiem mass for the pope will be celebrated in the next three days, and it is possible that the solemn function will be solemnized on Thursday, or even tomorrow. The official notice from the apostolic delegation is not expected to be delayed later than noon today, and as soon as it has been received, it not before, Bishop Canevin will go out to Idlewood to see Bishop Phelan, who will then fix the day. The hour will probably be 10:30 p. m., the usual hour for high mass. Bishop Phelan himself will celebrate the mass and he will be assisted by Bishop Canevin.

Pope Pius IX. Mass.

The pontifical requiem mass for Pope Pius IX., was celebrated on February 13, 1878, at St. Paul's cathedral, which is now being demolished. The celebrant was the late Bishop Tuigg. Father N. Carroll was his assistant, Fathers Tobin and Neeson were the deacons of honor, Father Grace was deacon of the mass, Father Lambing was sub-deacon and Father Kittell was the master of ceremonies. Fathers Tobin, Lambing and Kittell will probably take part in the mass for Poe Leo. The bells of all the churches in the Pittsburgh diocese tolled three hours during the funeral of Pope Pius in Rome.

Neither the two bishops nor the priests of the diocese will discuss the probabilities in the conclave of cardinals which is to elect a successor to Leo XIII. Even the Carmelite monks, who have charge of two Italian churches in Pittsburgh, will not talk about it, yet one of the cardinals most prominently mentioned for the papal throne is Cardinal Gotti, a member of the Carmelite order.

John Farrell of Bailey, Farrell & Co. is a member of the pope's household, having received that honor after a visit he made to Rome a few years ago. The Italians who are members of the papal household usually give personal service in the vatican for a week or two each year, and during that time they are housed in the vatican.

Local Visitors to the Pope.

Among the few local people to see Pope Leo XIII. in his last days were the Very Rev. E. A. Bush, vicar-general of the Pittsburgh diocese and Dr. George W. Cohen and Mrs. Cohen of Allegheny. They were admitted to a private audience with the pope at 12:30 noon, April 6 last, and the signs of his approaching death were then plainly visible.

Father Bush and Mr. and Mrs. Cohen left Pittsburgh February 26, and sailed from New York direct to Naples. After a couple of weeks in that city they went to Rome and waited in that city for 23 days to receive the promised audience. Day after day word was brought them that the next day the pope would be well enough to see them. Finally, on April 6, they were admitted and Dr. Cohen describes his audience as follows:

"The formal document admitting us contained strict directions as to our clothes and the whole formality. Mrs. Cohen could wear nothing of white and nothing that would attract the pontiff's attention. I was required to wear full evening dress. While we waited at a distance the pontiff received 1,200 German pilgrims and for each one of them he had an individual word of kindness and a blessing.

"Our audience with his holiness was private. When we approached he had become so weak that the attendant at his right side was compelled to lift the holy father's arm to allow us to kiss his hand.

Hand of Death Then Apparent.

"He looked emaciated and carewern. Still his eyes were bright and his voice far stronger than one would think possible to issue from the small and wasted frame he was. He was shrunken until he was hardly larger than a 10-year-old boy, and his weight seemed scarcely more than 50 pounds. His voice was full of sympathy and the smile he wore was the most kindly I have ever seen.

"After we had left the vatican we learned from excellent sources that the pope had collapsed entirely and the newspapers that evening printed the announcement that the end was at hand. On account of the trouble between the pontiff and the Italian government, news regarding the pope is kept from the Italians themselves and it is said to be a fact that we knew here in America, today, that the pope had died before the intelligence had been given to the Italians.

"The scenes at the vatican were most impressive. There were present cardinals and monsigneurs, and guards were in all directions. The greatest care was evident in the precautions for protecting the pope from all harm."

BEAVERS WON'T APPEAR.

Tells District Attorney to Come and Get Him by Legal Process.

NEW YORK, July 20.—(Special.)—"I will be delighted to be arrested in Manhattan, but refuse to go to Brooklyn," Georgs W. Beavers to United States District Attorney Youngs.

"You were indicted here and unless you come to Brooklyn to be arrested, you must remain at liberty." Mr. Youngs to Mr. Beavers.

This is summarized the position taken by Beavers, who was indicted by the United States grand jury in Brooklyn last week in connection with the postal frauds, and United States District Attorney Youngs.

Beavers was ready today to be taken before a United States commissioner in Manhattan, furnish bail and have a day set for an examination. This will reveal to Beavers the evidence on which the indictment was found. To prevent revealing his case Mr. Youngs refuses to send a certified copy of the indictment into this district, which would be followed by the issuance of a warrant and Beavers' arraignment here. Youngs wants Beavers to appear in Brooklyn and furnish bail pending trial.

KRUG IS A BANNER CARRIER IN RANKS OF HARD-LUCKERS

Emil Krug of No. 1130 Swissvale avenue, Wilkinsburg, deserves a prominent place on the list of those who have hard luck. In the past three months Krug has been badly injured three times. About a month ago Krug, who is a butcher, was thrown from his wagon and had a leg severely twisted. He recovered in 10 days, and last week, while sitting in his wagon was shocked and thrown violently to the street, being picked up as dead. He recovered in a few days. Yesterday afternoon, while delivering meat along Penn avenue his wagon was struck by a trolley car and Krug now has six broken ribs, two large gashes in the head, and both legs sprained and cut.

be read at any time of the 24 hours of the day. Every one in the party was said at that time to be in the best of health. The illness of Clarence Andrews had not been mentioned, as he probably had not been stricken with pneumonia at that time.

Son Probably Will Finish Contract.

Fred A. Hays, aged 20, who went to Nome with his father, and who was conversant with the business affairs of his father, will probably finish the contract begun by his father. John B. Hays, aged 17, the other son, who was left at home, stated last night that the bodies would be shipped to this city for interment and would arrive here on July 23. All four of the bodies were brought down on the Meteor.

Just before his departure Robert M. Hays finished a contract of laying pipe for the Union Gas Company in Ohio. He was the only man who would take the Nome contract. He probably made more and larger contracts for laying oil and gas pipes than any other man in this country. He laid many miles of pipe for the Standard Oil Company, the Philadelphia Company, Pure Oil Company, Theodore Barnsdall, the oil operator, and many other firms. He was worth about $300,000, all of which he made himself, having started out as a driller of oil wells. After working around the rigs for a considerable time Mr. Hays accumulated enough money to go into the business of contracting for the drilling of wells, from which he started in to laying pipe lines, at which he was successful from the start. For seven years he was superintendent of the Philadelphia Gas Company at Murrysville. He located in Pittsburgh about 12 years ago. Among the enterprises in which Mr. Hays was interested is the Crescent brewery of Washington, Pa., in which he owned a large number of shares. He also speculated extensively in oil at various times.

Life Histories of the Victims.

Robert McClain Hays was born in Libertyville, Ill., 45 years ago, and spent the first 26 years of his life in that place, before going into the Pennsylvania oil fields. His mother, Mrs. William Harris of Libertyville, Ill.; a brother, W. D. Hays of Dempseyville, Venango county, and five sisters, living in Libertyville, survive. Two sons, F. A., who went to Nome with his father, and John B. Hays of No. 220 Amber street, Pittsburgh, also survive.

Mrs. Hays was born in Dempseyville, Venango county, Pa., 43 years ago. She was married to Mr. Hays in Franklin on August 11, 1880. Her former name was Jane Thompson. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Margaret Thompson, two brothers, Gilbert and John, of Dempseyville, Pa., and one sister, Mrs. Mary Daubenspeck of Zelienople, Pa.

Sherman D. Gregg was single and was 27 years old. His home was formerly in Freeport, Pa. He was an orphan. Mr. Gregg was a skilled workman and had been in the employ of Mr. Hays for a number of years.

Gregg formerly lived at Freeport, Greene county, Pa., and was well known in that vicinity, where the family has extensive connections in the southern part of the county. He is survived by his father and mother in Freeport and several sisters and brothers. One brother, J. Porter Gregg, was with Sherman on the Alaskan trip. Gregg was employed in the opera house restaurant, Freeport, and was with the party to help install pumps in the gold mines. Others of the party were Lynn Wherry of Scenery Hill, Washington county, and S. McElfish of Washington, Pa.

Clarence Andrews was aged 26 and was single, being the second son of Louis Andrews of Titusville, Pa. He was well known in Pittsburgh, where he spent much of his time.

WHEELING MAN CHOSEN.

Prof. J. M. Hammond of the Nail City Elected Principal of Morse School.

The Morse sub-district school board, Twenty-fifth ward, met last night and elected Prof. J. M. Hammond of Wheeling, W. Va., to succeed Miss M. D. Young as principal of the school.

Prof. Hammond is at present principal of the Union schools of Wheeling, and was a candidate during the recent election for the superintendency of the Wheeling schools, being defeated on the twenty-fifth ballot by only two or three votes. He has been connected with the Wheeling schools for the past 17 years. He is a college man and his school work in West Virginia has been eminently successful. It is understood that he will accept the position offered him on the South Side.

ANOTHER SENSATION FROM M'KEES ROCKS

This Time the Tale Relates to the Sudden Unearthing of a Cache of Silver.

The latest story out of the usual run to come from McKees Rocks relates to the sudden unearthing of a cache of silverware and coins. Like most of the stories that develop in McKees Rocks there are elements of romance and the sensational about this tale.

The story is that while Peter Boysen, a gigantic Swede, employed by Contractor K. R. Slattery, was drilling a huge boulder encountered in excavating for a double tenement building Miles Bryan is going to erect at Fleming park, he came across the hidden treasure. His find when counted totaled $96 in silver coin and several pieces of silverware, the latter engraved with the initials "S. R. H." "Pat" Finnigan, who was working nearby, and was late in getting to work on the cache, picked up about $10.

All the coins are said to be of an ancient date and some of it is of French denomination. The story goes that Contractor Slattery prevailed upon Boysen to send several of the French pieces to the Smithsonian institute to ascertain thei value, as it is rumored that their dates makes them exceedingly valuable.

Councilman Robert Holmes of McKees Rocks is reported to have put up the claim that the buried treasure belonged to his father. He is quoted as follows:

"Just before the war my father was one of the most prominent and prosperous citizens of this community. He was a farmer and his employ was a young man whom I shall call Robert Gray. This was not his right name, but he has a brother still living who is at present one of the leading citizens of Pittsburgh. The old man had a superstitious dread of paper currency, and would accept no money, except silver or gold, and he hid his specie in the attic. One day my father discovered that his hoard of silver had disappeared. About the same time he missed a large amount of silverware. A few months after that Robert Gray also left home and later a letter came from him stating that he was the thief, but that he had profited nothing by his ingratitude. I suppose he hid the stuff away and then was afraid to come back for it."

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGED AGAINST STREET CAR MEN

WARREN, PA., July 20.—(Special.)—On July 4 Archie Stricker, a talented musician, was killed in a street car collision. This evening Hugh Higgins, treasurer and superintendent of the Warren Street Railway Company; Motormen Crecfart and Wetzel and Conductors Jackson and Hollister, were arrested on a charge of manslaughter, preferred by Jacob Stricker, an uncle of the deceased, who alleges that through the failure of Higgins and others to observe the ordinary precautions in the handling of cars, young Strickler came to his death. The coroner's jury found that the company and its employes were guilty of "criminal negligence." The prisoners were arraigned before Police Justice Perry and asked for a hearing which will be held on Wednesday. They were committed to jail by the justice but were admitted to bail.

PREACHER ATTACKED BY MOB AT COSHOCTON

COSHOCTON, O., July 20.—(Special.)—John Billman, an eccentric preacher, was tonight set upon by a gang of rowdies which of late have terrorized the city. Billman was struck from behind, but turned on his assailants and put up a fight. He finally broke away, badly injured. No police were to be seen, and the big crowd that collected took no part in the struggle, which for a time made the business center of the city look like the scene of a riot.

SAYS CARDINAL GOTTI WILL BE ELECTED POPE

Bishop Hoban of Scranton, Pa., Makes a Prediction on Leo's Successor.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

SCRANTON, PA., July 20.—Bishop Hoban of this city is of the opinion that Cardinal Gotti will be the choice of the conclave for the papacy.

"He has all the elements of a pope," said the bishop, "and is regarded as holding a position, as viewed politically, that makes him peculiarly acceptable to all the powers. From what I heard and observed on my last visit to Rome," said the bishop, "I am quite satisfied that Cardinal Gotti will be the successor of Leo."

STILL AGAINST ORDINANCE.

East End Board of Trade Reaffirms Its Position on Duquesne Way.

The East End board of trade last evening reaffirmed its stand taken June 26 against the passage of the ordinance granting the Pennsylvania railroad the right to transfer its tracks from Liberty avenue to Duquesne way. It attacked the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce for voting in favor of the ordinance and appealed to select councilmen to oppose the measure's passage in its present form.

Frank O. Van Gorder introduced a resolution, which was adopted, indorsing the plans of an unnamed company which proposes to run a line of automobile coaches from Squirrell hill to the Morningside district. No names are mentioned, the whole matter being kept secret as yet.

The Baltimore & Ohio's ordinance for the new passenger station also is to be investigated by the board of trade. A committee composed of W. S. Wakefield, William McFarland and S. H. Garber was appointed to look into the matter. The question of changing the name of the board was postponed until the next meeting. A special committee will consider the subject.

COMEDY ENACTED AT THE CITY HALL

Fifteen Councilmen Hold Rump Meeting and Adjourn Without Doing Anything.

THEY FOUND THE PLACE DARK

Lights Were Turned Off in Common Council Chamber and Outer Doors Barred—Clerk Kept Away—Another Adjournment Until Call of Chair.

The opponents of the Duquesne way railroad ordinance only mustered 15 votes at the "rump" meeting of the minority faction of common council at the city hall last night, and owing to the failure of a quorum was forced to adjourn for an indefinite period without taking any action. The meeting last night was essentially of the character of a farce-comedy.

The members who attended found city hall dark and barred. The watchman was persuaded to let down the bars at the outer door, but when the members reached the upper floor they found the city clerk's office locked and the council chamber as dark as pitch. Supt. John A. Long had promised in the afternoon that the chamber should be illuminated with electric lights, and that the door should be unlocked. Against his orders the electric light plant was not running and the council chamber in the afternoon was carefully secured.

When Supt. Long found that the door was fastened to keep out the councilmen he ordered it reopened. This was done, but the engineers in charge of the electric light plant failed to carry out his instructions and the electric lights were not shining as usual at night when the meeting convened. The members struck matches and lit gas jets. This produced a very dim light which made even the calling of the roll a very difficult task.

Councilmen in a Joking Mood.

The spirit of the councilmen was in keeping with the occasion. They indulged in hilarity and exchanged jokes about the meeting and the attendance.

They made a pretense of observing the forms of the council rules, called the meeting to order promptly at 8 o'clock and took a recess of 15 minutes, and then called the body together a second time. The clerk pro tem announced twice that a quorum was not present and President Pro Tem Gebhardt Sahner declared, after the motion had been made by Councilman W. H. Stevenson, that the meeting was adjourned subject to his call.

The following 15 members were present: Gebhardt Sahner, W. H. Stevenson, Thomas O'Brien, James P. Shaw, I. W. Shearer, J. C. Wasson, John P. Baldauf, W. C. Reitz, Jacob Soffel, Jr., C. A. Mc. Willey, W. H. Beehner, George W. McNeil, Charles C. Schad, and W. B. Wolfe.

Daniel A. Jones, secretary of the Oakland board of trade, officiated as clerk upon the motion of Mr. Stevenson. Mr. Jones called the names of the members from a printed newspaper slip, the regular roll not being obtainable at the clerk's office.

The clerk pro tem announced at the first roll call that 14 members were present. President Pro Tem Sahner said that a 15 minutes would be taken, according to the rules. At 8:20 o'clock the 15 minutes had elapsed and the roll was called again. This time 15 memebrs responded to their names. The last member to come in was Mr. Schad.

Only Fifteen Members Present.

Mr. Sahner again announced that 26 members, a quorum, were not present and adjourned the meeting. Present as spectators were Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Ammon, Miss Kate McKnight and Miss Buelah Kennard, the women representing the Daughters of the American Revolution.

They were asked why they came to the meeting and Miss McKnight diplomatically replied:

"We were present at the other meetings and we understood that common council had adjourned until tonight, and we thought we would be just as welcome tonight as we were before."

Not a single advocate of the Pennsylvania ordinance was present. For once the opposition had its own way and there was no person to dispute its will. The opposition did not take advantage of the opportunity to exploit its views or to offer any resolutions. There was not the slightest discussion and with the least delay possible the meeting was ended and the members passed out.

Chairman Sahner did not give any intimation of another call for a meeting. It was stated that common council was through as far as the Duquesne ordinance was concerned and that the whole matter would be left to select council to dispose of.

CARRIED SEVERED ARM TO A DOCTOR'S OFFICE

Stanley Greiner's Cool Nerve, After an Accident in Which a Companion Was Killed.

Three men who were walking on the Pennsylvania railroad tracks at Latrobe, last night, were struck by the fast line passenger train coming east. James Clark, a Cleveland spool peddler, was instantly killed; Stanley Greiner, of Pear street, South Side, Pittsburgh, and Andrew Rolka, also of the South Side, were fatally hurt.

The men were walking toward Pittsburgh and in stepping out of the way of a freight train, at the foot of the Alexandria street elevated bridge, they got in front of a passenger train and were struck with terrific force. Clark's head and both arms were cut off. Rolka had both legs badly mangled and Griener's right arm was torn from the socket.

Greiner got up from the place where he was thrown by the train, walked across the track, picked up his right arm from the ground, walked four blocks up the street with the people staring at him, and went to the office of Dr. J. A. Metzgar. Laying the severed arm on the doctor's table he coolly said:

"I'd like you to put this arm on again for me, doctor."

At the Westmoreland hospital in Greensburg, where Greiner was taken, it was found that he had also suffered internal injuries which will probably result in death. Rolka is at the same hospital. Greiner and Rolka started to walk from Cresson to Pittsburgh. They met Clark at the railroad station in Latrobe, and he decided to accompany them.

RUNAWAY HURTS THREE AT WEST BROWNSVILLE

Charles Ley and Miss Alma Stang of Allegheny and Frank Steinway of Braddock Hurt.

An Allegheny man and woman, and a man from Braddock, were hurt in a runaway accident at West Brownsville, yesterday afternoon. With a driver they were in a carriage at the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston railway crossing. An approaching freight train was almost upon them when the driver saw it and whipped up the horses. They ran away, the carriage was overturned and all but the driver were hurt. The hurt are:

CHARLES LEY, No. 615 Chestnut street, Allegheny; contusions of the body and legs.

MISS ALMA STANG, No. 402 Chestnut street, Allegheny; cut about the face and head.

FRANK STEINWAY, Camp avenue, Braddock, slightly cut and bruised.

The carriage was wrecked and both Mr. Ley and Miss Stang were dragged beneath the wreckage for some distance. They were cared for in a nearby house and were later sent to their homes.

BIGELOW MAY BE BACK THIS WEEK

Director's Presence Needed to Close Harmony Arrangements With the Republicans.

HIS TRIP WILL BE CUT SHORT

Mayor Hays Says Treaty Will Be Submitted to Committee of Five in Few Days—Overtures Came from Thomas S. Bigelow.

The hasty return of Director E. M. Bigelow to the city is expected daily. Director Bigelow is sojourning in the southland, but is in close touch with political developments in Pittsburgh. The events of the past few days have involved the future and present position of Director Bigelow, and it is claimed that his presence is needed to close the harmony treaty.

It is claimed in some quarters that perfect harmony can not be effected as long as Director Bigelow remains in Mayor William B. Hays' cabinet and that some parties are demanding that he resign.

Director Bigelow left the city a week ago today for Virginia, taking with him enough baggage for an entire summer's trip. It was the report at city hall yesterday that, notwithstanding his elaborate preparations for a long stay, that he might be in the city today or tomorrow.

Mayor Hays said that he met Director Bigelow in Washington last Wednesday and that Mr. Bigelow told him he would be back in Pittsburgh in two weeks.

It was stated yesterday that the first proposal for harmony had come from no less a personage than Thomas S. Bigelow.

Despite the rumors to the contrary it is said there is hardly any reasonable doubt that Director Bigelow will retain his position as director of public works, although it is understood that one of the conditions is that he will devote less time to politics and councils than he has in the past.

Mayor Hays said yesterday that the question of harmony would not be definitely settled until the Citizens committee of five had taken action. He said that no meeting had been called, but that one might be held this week.

Murry A. Varner also stated that a meeting would probably be held this week. It is understood that the harmony proposition has been returned to the Citizens with some details to be arranged and that no further steps will be taken until the Citizens' leaders have given their answer to the terms named by the Republicans.

The committee of five to which the harmony proposition will be finally submitted is composed of Mayor Hays, T. S. Bigelow, Director E. J. McIlvain of Allegheny, T. C. Jones of McKeesport, and U. M. Beck of McKees Rocks.

DRIVEN TO DEATH BY SMOKING CIGARETTES

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 20.—(Special.)—Probably demented as a result of excessive cigarette smoking, a man supposed to be John Schultz of Buffalo, jumped through the glass vestibule of a smoking car attached to the eastbound Empire State express, as the train passed Warners, 15 miles west of this city, and was killed.

Drunken Italian Shot Often But Not Well

An Italian was the cause of a great deal of scurrying to cover on the part of the residents in Nevin avenue, Sewickley, Sunday morning, and was yesterday held for court by 'Squire John Johnston in $500 bail, for his proneness to use firearms. With a very large jag, and with a revolver in each hand, he made matters lively for a short time. Frank R. Stoner was held up on the street and William Reibert, who was seated on his porch, saw bullets from the revolvers split the posts on one side of him. Bullets came thick and fast, but by some good fortune no one was struck.

MAN WITH MILITARY BEARING TO LEAD THE LABOR DAY PARADE

Edward A. Maginn, who has been appointed chief marshal for the Labor day celebration parade, is one of the most prominent labor leaders in Pittsburgh. At present he holds the position of business agent of the Steam Fitters' and Steam Helpers' union, with headquarters at No. 112 Fourth avenue. Mr. Maginn's boyhood days were spent "on the farm," and he is noted as being expert in handling horses. He has great executive ability and is often called into conference over difficult questions in the labor world. Mr. Maginn will announce his aides at the meeting of the general committee to be held in the Building Trades council hall, No. 225 Fourth avenue, Friday evening.

ACID BOTTLE WAS NEAR BODY

Unknown Young Man Probably Committed Suicide in Duquesne Way.

SUSPICIOUS BRADDOCK CASE

Robert Boyd Might Have Met With Foul Play—Seventh Street Bridge Mystery Still Unsolved—Coroner's Cases Yesterday.

A man apparently about 20 years old was found dead about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in an ice wagon on the Duquesne way wharf at the foot of Third street. He had been dead, it is thought, about three days. His face was bloated and his mouth burned. An empty two-ounce vial that had contained carbolic acid indicated that he had committed suicide.

There was nothing in his pocket but an old empty pocketbook, nor any marks on his body to lead to his identity. He was 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighed 140 pounds. He had a smooth face, red hair and gray eyes, and his clothes were a black sack coat and trousers, black soft hat, black lace shoes, striped shirt, blue striped socks and brown cotton underwear.

Officer J. C. Tanney, whose attention was called to the body by some boys, had it sent to the morgue.

The dead body of Robert Boyd was found on the bank of the Monnosahela river near the Edgar Thomson steel works, Braddock, early yesterday morning and the cause of his death is a mystery. Boyd was 28 years old, was married, and was well known in Braddock. The body when found bore evidence of foul play. The chest was crushed and there were many cuts and bruises on the face. As it was a considerable distance from the railroad where Boyd was found, it is thought to have been impossible for him to have met death there. Boyd only recently was released from a hospital, where he had been confined for several weeks, because of three broken ribs. The dead man had been injured in a score of accidents during the last few years.

At the inquest into the death of the unknown girl found dead after the fire in the fruit stand at the north end of the Seventh street bridge on June 14, the coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict that the girl died of asphyxiation, and brought to a close a case which caused a sensation by stating that no one is responsible for the girl's death. The proprietor of the fruit stand, who disappeared when the fire broke out, was suspected of having caused the girl's death, but his whereabouts has never been discovered.

At the same inquest the jury returned a verdict that the death of Patrick Sweeney, a member of Truck A of Allegheny, was accidental. Sweeney fell from the truck while going to a fire and was run over, dying shortly after.

Joseph Nock, 54 years old and married, of No. 56 South Twenty-seventh street, died suddenly yesterday morning at South Twenty-seventh and Josephine streets. He was acarpenter and was on his way to work at Jones & Laughlin's steel plant shortly before 7 o'clock when he sank to the pavement without warning and soon expired. He had been a sufferer from rheumatism.

Louis Brown, a negro waiter, died last night in the Homeopathic hospital, and as yet the exact cause of his death is not known. He was admitted to the hospital on Saturday last in an unconscious condition, remaining so until death. He was brought from his home, No. 60 Tannehill street, and the hospital officials were told that he had fallen four months ago and hurt his head. He was 34 years old and married.

Elizabeth Follen, 30 years old, living at No. 4826 Penn avenue, was found dead in bed early yesterday morning of heart failure. She was an invalid, had been blind all her life, and had remained in her room for five years.

William Hartman, aged 21, a painter of Jeannette, Pa., employed by the Allegheny plant of the Pressed Steel Car Company, while in the company's yard yesterday afternoon was struck by a crane and instantly killed.

Mrs. Jennie Adams of No. 609 Center avenue, Wilkinsburg, aged 29, dropped dead on the porch of her home last evening, presumably of heart disease. Her little children were playing there and making a noise and Mrs. Adams walked out to quiet them. She picked the baby up to carry it in the house, when she fell dead with the child in her arms.

Two Men Killed by Engine.

SHARON, PA., July 20.—(Special.)—George Watchilo and John Unstick were instantly killed at South Sharon this morning by a switch engine on the Erie & Pittsburgh road. They were walking along the track on their way to work.

BELIEVE THEY KNOW MURDERER

Police Are After Tony Romaga, Who Is Suspected of Having Killed Carle.

FOUGHT A DESPERATE DUEL

Before the Victim of the Hazelwood Tragedy Expired He Marked His Slayer With a Slash on the Face and a Stab on the Hip.

Enough evidence has been secured by the police to point to Tony Romaga as the murderer of Domenic Carle, the Italian who was stabbed to death Saturday night at Hazelwood. Search is now being made for him, and it is believed that he is either laid up in his boarding house or in a hospital suffering from wounds given him by Carle in a desperate duel in which Carle was the victim.

Superintendent of Police McTighe said last night that Romaga and Carle evidently fought a duel in which Romaga sustained a hip wound, which causes him to limp, and a severe cut on the face. With this description it is thought the man will be found. Romaga was in love with Corelli Tomano, one of the women in the boarding house, and was jealous of the attentions of Carle. The latter lived in the same house with the woman, while Romaga boarded at a house in the Italian colony on the hill, just where the police have not been able to determine.

Carle went to call on the Tomano woman on Saturday night and there met Romaga. The two men quarreled and one threatened the other. As they were about to fight several of the boarders in the house shoved them out of doors, where they took up in earnest the fight to death. Both men had stilettos and the slashing and stabbing kept up for several minutes. Carle fell after several deep lunges by Romaga, while the latter limped away as fast as he could.

Superintendent McTighe was told that Romaga has a cut on his head extending from his left ear to his nose. An Italian answering Romaga's description was seen in Webster avenue yesterday afternoon by a policeman who noticed him on account of his head being bandaged and his lameness. The man was being assisted by a companion. At the time, however, the officer had not heard that Romaga was wanted and made no arrest.

Superintendent McTighe has directed all of his men on the hill to inquire of the doctors and hospitals if an Italian answering the description of Romaga has been treated.

Detective Lally arrested Domenic Condo at the county jail yesterday. He went there to see Corelli Tomano. Condo was a boarder at the house.

Striking Likenesses of Pope Leo.

We have quite a number of Lithographic Protraits of the deceased Pope, and they come in different sizes for framing. They are on sale at the Picture counter, rear of main aisle. They present the late Pope, in the vestments of his high office, in one of the most speaking likenesses we have yet seen.

Sales That Set Prices A-Sailing Downward.

During the period of stock-taking you can look for prices on all kinds of summer goods that are never recognized in the regular season as belonging to goods of the several grades upon which these low prices are quoted.

As politics make strange bedfellows so do stock-taking times make strange companions in the way of prices. This not alone for goods that will not be taken upon our stock-sheets, but upon goods recently bought and that have just come into the house.

Several such instances are mentioned hereinafter.

Enticing Prices on Pocketbooks and Wrist Bags.

That's the right word—enticing. In these days when people are pretty well supplied with everything prices must be tempting to induce buying. It is just such tempting prices as the following that have conspired to make the month of June and so far this July record months in the sales of this store.

We don't mind saying that this lot of leather goods represents a portion of the surplus of a manufacturer who made up more than he had commissions for.

Tapestry Wrist Bags, 10c.

These are small affairs, just right for young girls. They are of fancy Oriental colorings, and in the regular course of trade would sell every day for 50c.

Choice for 10c seems a trifle ridiculous.

Combination Pocketbooks, 50c.

There are also among this lot a few Wrist Bags, and the collection is made up of goods that sold for $1 and $1.25 in the regular season.

They are fine goods and were really cheap when sold for the first prices.

Purses, 25c Each.

The kind that you have been used to paying 50c and 75c for. There are also some pocketbooks in the lot. Various leathers.

Some of the pocketbooks are trimmed with neat corners and rims. Worth all of first prices.

Combination Pocketbooks, 75c.

Finest of leathers—such as real seal, walrus and alligator. Some are lined with calf and some have sterling corners. Not often do you find such fine pocketbooks offered for such a price. These are worth early attention.

Coral Necklaces, 10c each.

Now who would think that one could buy a necklace of pretty pink coral for 10c? In a regular way you couldn't do it. These are regular 50c goods. The fastening alone is worth more than 10c. But this is the story.

Our jewelry buyer, just a week over from Paris, found in the French city a maker who had 5 gross genuine Spring Coral Necklaces, graduated style, and in a spirit of generosity, such as Frenchmen are subject to once in a while, sold them to him so we could sell them for 10c each. Nice for any feminine neck.

Gun-Metal Chains.

The Pittsburg Custom House has given over to us a choice assortment of real Gun-Metal Chains, highest quality of workmanship, new patterns, set with colored stones and genuine rock crystal.

Our bringing them direct from the makers in Germany saves you fully one-third. Prices range from $2 apiece up to $6.

Real Gun-Metal Coin Boxes to wear on the chains, $1.50 each.

Pre-Inventory Items From the Linen Store.

A word to an inexpensive Towel and several lines relating to Decorative Linens—all hinting of wonderful reductions in this big store of the annex:

7c each for Cream Turkish Towels. Little enough for a good towel. The size is 21x43 inches.

5c each for odd lots of open-work damask and embroidered Doilies. Their counterparts were sold for, according to the several grades, 15c, 20c and 25c.

10c each for fringed Creponette and Scarfs size 18x54—25c goods.

White Dress Cottons.

These hints of the way we are selling White Dress Cottons should recommend this section of our store. Looking ahead there is much hot weather due in which dresses made of pretty white cotton can be worn.

18c a yard for white Dotted Lace Stripe Mousseline—35c goods.

25c a yard for 30-inch wide mercerized Broches, 45c goods.

50c a yard for odd pieces of Mercerized Oxfords and Vestings, 85c, $1, $1.25 goods.

At the Art Needlework Counter.

Women who like to have freely scattered about the house extra fine pillows are advised that today we will sell handsome finished Pillows for $5 and up to $12, reduced from $10 and up to $18.

Other things for consideration at the Art Needlework counter as follows:

At 25c each, reduced from 50c—hand-made drawnwork Doilies.

Stamped Centers at 25c each from 50c, at 50c each from $1, at 75c each from $1.50.

Hints From the China Store.

Every home should have an umbrella jar. Today the China Store will sell Majolica Umbrella Jars, good size, assorted glazed colors, for $2 each.

We have 500 Bavarian China Ramikins, with plate, largest size, neat pink border decoration. Regular price is 50c, today 25c each.

About 300 pieces of plain white French China Dinnerware, such as pickle dishes, celery trays, coffee cups, cake plates, soup tureens, large steak dishes, that will be sold today for half former prices.

In the Bric-a-Brac Department.

The special Tables—those denominated as $1 tables, $1.50, $2.50, $5 and $10—on which are art objects of all kinds, will be replenished again today.

Collectively there are bronzes, marble figures, large and medium size pottery vases, and especially on the $10 table will be found a lot of royal Satsuma ware, worth a great deal more than $10.

More Good Ribbons, Cheap.

As long as you want ribbons we are going to set them out to you for smaller prices than customary, and by that we mean customary in clearing-up time.

5 and 5½-inch Fancy Ribbons, 25c a yard instead of 50c, and 55c, 4 and 4½-inch Fancy Ribbons, 20c a yard instead of 35c and 40c.

Plain Satin Liberty Ribbon, 4½ inches, 20c a yard instead of 35c.

Warp Print Ribbon, 4½ inches, 20c a yard instead of 45c.

Ribbed Underwear.

Women can buy medium sorts and best sorts of ribbed underwear now for much less than regular prices. For example—

Low-necked Vests, with lace yoke, low-necked vests, lace weave, and low and short sleeve lisle Vests, 25c each, instead of 35c.

Low-necked Vests, lace weave, and low neck, short sleeve Vests, 15c each instead of 25c.

Fancy Vests, 35c, 50c and 75c, were 50c, 85c and $1.25.

Small lot of Women's Union Suits for half former prices.

Pyrography Sets.

We have the sets, and also the articles upon which to operate. A pleasant pastime. The wonder is that more people do not take it up.

Pyrography sets, ranging in prices from $3.25, $3.50 up to $5.

Stamped Goods in pyrographic designs, ready for burning, various subjects, 25c and 50c.

Folding Go-Carts, $4.50.

Worth all of $7—but we bought them underprice, notwithstanding Folding Go-Carts are being asked for every day.

Cutest vehicle ever devised for baby.

You will find them on fourth floor.

When it is considered that at the lowest price recorded in Wall street yesterday for the common stock of the United States Steel Corporation, managing control of that $1,100,000,000 enterprise was rated at only $137,500,025, it is apparent that Wall street is putting too low a valuation on things. And when it is further considered that the dividend on the common stock would yield 16 per cent on an investment therein of the sum mentioned, the Wall street rating appears ridiculous.

King Edward and Queen Alexandra are off on their visit to Ireland. There are some apprehensions entertained in England concerning the outcome, but they are probably unfounded. There is a turbulent opposition to the government in Ireland, but it did not take the form of animosity to Queen Victoria on the occasion of her memorable visit, shortly before her death, and it is not likely to manifest itself in hostility to the new king and queen. The Irishman is essentially a cavalier, and if we mistake not, King Edward and Queen Alexandra will be given a most cordial reception in the Emerald Isle.

Applications at Harrisburg for the advertising of two amendments to the Constitution recalls the fact that the late session of the legislature neglected several things. It neglected to take any action upon the two amendments proposed by the session of 1901, which has the effect of killing the proposition almost as effectually as if they had been taken up and voted down. There is the difference that no active opposition was shown, which will probably encourage someone to reintroduce the amendments at the next session. In any event they must go through the entire procedure again.

Count Cassini has given out an interview in Paris in which he is made to say there is no truth in the reported assurance of two more open ports in Manchuria, and that he never had such a conference with John Hay, secretary of state. The Associated Press reproduces an interview with the Russian ambassador, given out before he left the United States, admitting what he now denies. Either Count Cassini has a conveniently short memory, in accord with advices from his home government, or there is some slip in the cabled interview. We believe Russia does not desire any Manchurian ports opened, but if it keeps them closed it will have to resist heavy pressure and employ more positive diplomacy than the telling of two stories about one thing by its diplomatic representatives.

That is a rather startling bit of news that comes from Allegheny concerning changes in the mayor's cabinet by and by. There is nothing unreasonable about it, for birds of a feather flock together. Director of Public Works McIlvain appears to have some idea that campaign pledges ought to be redeemed and that public privileges ought not to be objects of private speculation. Such ideas are contrary to precedent. The mayor of Allegheny would hardly be suspected of being in sympathy with such standards in the conduct of public affairs after the effort he has made to retain the useless office of delinquent tax collector, and the career of former Director and Recorder John Murphy is an epitome of the Jacksonian sentiment: "To the victors belong the spoils" of every kind and character.

The prevalence of deaths from lockjaw after every Fourth of July celebration, from toy pistol injuries, has attracted general attention this year. In New England 30 deaths have resulted within the past few days, and there are said to be now 21 cases within a few miles of Boston, the oldest victims averaging only 15 years. Pennsylvania, however, is ahead in the record of deaths, which numbered 45 in the 16 days following the Fourth; Ohio coming next in number of such fatalities. Such a record should be enough to inspire stringent legislation against the sale of the toy pistol. In Pittsburgh, however, deaths from this cause are trifling compared to those from typhoid fever, directly due to a polluted water supply, which councils seem bent on maintaining.

There was no meeting of common council last evening, though 15 members appeared to hold one and adjourned to meet again at the call of the presiding officer. This was necessary to sustain whatever there may be in the contention that the meeting of last week, at which the Duquesne way ordinance was passed finally, was illegally held. But it may be noted as an odd circumstance that last evening's meeting repeated one of the alleged illegal acts of the meeting last week, namely, the election of an officer when no quorum was present. It is probable there will be no further attempt at proceedings by the minority, and it is to be hoped the sincere advocates of additional compensation will devote their energies to getting the ordinance through select council, urging their amendments as they may, but at all hazards to secure the freedom of Liberty avenue.

Leo and His Successor.

Pope Leo XIII. is dead after a battle with the grim destroyer that aroused the interest of the civilized world. He leaves behind him, in and out of the church over which he presided, a good name. During his reign as pontiff he did much to establish better relations between his church and other Christian bodies. Clinging to the tradition of the temporal power he yet softened the asperities of the complicated situation at Rome. Leo XIII. was loved by his own and respected by all others.

Interest will now center upon the election of his successor, for which the college of cardinals will convene next week. There is more than the usual uncertainty about that succession. Cardinal Oreglia, dean of the college, is regarded by all as too old for the post. Cardinal Rampolla would almost certainly have become pope had Leo XIII. died five years ago. He is yet a leading candidate, but the policy of the Waldeck-Rousseau ministry in France has clouded his title. As papal secretary of state he has ever striven against the triple alliance, which guaranteed united Italy and the end of the papal monarchy. He promoted the power of the church in France.

Cardinal Vanutelli, on the other hand, stands for the triple alliance and should be made pope if it is desired that France be abandoned and friendly power sought elsewhere. Bitter complaint against Rampolla has been heard from Austria, from Germany and even from Italy. This element, complaining of the secretary of state, turns naturally to Cardinal Vanutelli. So it is expected the college of cardinals will turn if it is determined to abandon the struggle in France and the power of protecting Christians in the far east granted by France.

The third leading probability is Cardinal Gotti, formerly general of the Carmelites. As a monk his sympathies are with the orders, and as pontiff he would, at least, fight for their maintenance in France as elsewhere. His election would not mean an abandonment of the situation in France for an appeal to the triple alliance for support; neither would it indicate continued hostility to the tripie alliance. Cardinal Gotti is less a politician than either Rampolla or Vanutelli. He represents more the religious orders and a progressive propaganda, backed by the church alone. His choice is the more probable because it may be deemed unwise at this time to plunge more deeply into pro-Gallican politics, or to turn radically the other way to seek support in the triple alliance.

There are other possibilities, but they are hardly to be regarded as probabilities. The three named are the acknowledged leaders among the 37 Italian cardinals, and from the Italian cardinals the popes have usually been chosen. Among the possibilities Cardinal Svampa combines political ability with fine theological training. The chief objection to him is his youth, he being but 52 years of age. He is full of energy, possessed of strong practical sense and a fine appreciation of the intellectual and social needs of modern life. If not himself a successful candidate he will have much influence in the college to assist his favorite. So, too, will Cardinal Gibbons, representing alone the vast interests of the church in the United States. He will be looked to for progressive opinion on account of the people whom he represents, and will be listened to because precedent practically puts him out of consideration for the succession.

The college of cardinals has no easy task. There are many interests to consider. The pontificate is a power in the political world and embraces so much of power for the good or ill of the church. It will be difficult to choose a successor to the wise and good Leo XIII., who set a standard so high, by which his successor must be measured.

The President's Position.

It will be remembered that influential congressional leaders were opposed to trust legislation and disapproved the president's course in agitating the question. But they had to meet the issue and concluded that it would be wise to take action. Events seem following the same course in regard to currency reform. There is opposition to raising that question and Speaker Cannon recently gave a public statement of his views to the effect that the situation did not call for any currency legislation. Later came the announcement through Senator Lodge that President Roosevelt would urge currency reform on the consideration of congress at the approaching session. When Speaker Cannon, and those who share his disinclination to do anything, reflect upon President Roosevelt's popularity and the interest that he would stir up in currency reform by a series of speeches like those by which he incited congressional action on the trust question, they will probably find that it will be safer to meet the issue than to seek to avoid it.

The present situation is badly mixed. The Aldrich bill simply enlarges the list of bonds which may be accepted as security for the deposit of public moneys, thus enabling the surplus accumulating in the treasury to be returned to circulation through the banks, and incidentally releasing government bonds, which may be made use of as security for additional bank circulation.

Another measure which has been offered for consideration proposes to authorize the issue of additional currency by national banks up to 25 per cent of their capital, subject to a tax of 5 per cent per annum. In time of financial stringency this would furnish an emergency supply, which would retire automatically as soon as interest rates dropped below 5 per cent. Senator Aldrich is not disposed to favor this measure.

No distinctively administration measure has been framed, but the president's views on the subject were expressed in a speech at Quincy, Ill., July 29, and recently Secretary of the Treasury Shaw referred to this speech as defining the position of the administration. It is as follows:

Our currency laws recently have been improved by specific declarations intended to secure permanency of values. But this does not imply that these laws may not be still further improved and strengthened.

It is well-nigh universally admitted that our currency system is wanting in elasticity; that is, the volume does not respond to the varying needs of the country as a whole, nor to the varying needs of different localities.

Our people scarcely need to be reminded that grain raising communities require a larger volume of currency at harvest time than during the summer months. The same principle applies to every industry, to every community.

Our currency laws need such modification as will insure the parity of every dollar coined or issued by the government, and such expansion and contraction of our currency as will promptly and automatically respond to the varying demands of commerce.

Permanent increases would be dangerous, permanent contraction ruinous; but the needed elasticity must be brought about by provisions which will permit both contraction and extraction as the varying needs of the several communities and business interests may require.

It is plain enough that mere tinkering of the currency system, such as the Aldrich bill proposes, will not meet the requirements described by the president. Nothing less than a reform of the whole system will suffice.

The Right Place for Them.

Mr. W. C. Reitz, member of common council from the Thirty-fifth ward, states as his opinion that "if the Citizens party joins with the Republican organization the reform element will have to revive the Municipal league or form a new party and join with the Democrats." Mr. Reitz is a Republican, but was elected to councils on the Citizens ticket. The Gazette supported him then, and we now say without hesitation that we will support men like him, William H. Stevenson and Joseph C. Wasson when the time comes to re-elect them, whether they be nominated as Republicans, Citizens or Democrats. They are too good to lose, no matter to what party they belong. We have not always agreed with these gentlemen with regard to their course in councils, and we radically disagree with them concerning the Liberty avenue ordinance; at the same time we recognize that they are pursuing the course which they themselves believe to be right, and as long as a man does that and is honest, fearless and conscientious, it is safe to entrust the city's interests to him, though he may sometimes seem to us to be mistaken.

Regardless of peace or war among the factions in the interest of true and permanent reform, would it not be well for Mr. Reitz and men like him to consider the propriety of aligning themselves with the party to which they belong, taking part in its councils and impressing their ideas and their personality upon its organization. For two years they have followed the will-o'-the-wisp of fusion with no substantial result, except a change of bosses. They can become leaders in the Republican ranks, where new blood is not only wanted, but will be welcome. Where they are they are mere followers, treated with scant courtesy, and their advice is neither sought nor heeded.

A Man for Second Place.

Senator Platt's suggestion of Senator Aldrich for the vice presidency may be regarded either as a purely complimentary mention by one friend of another for the highest office that will be open to competition in the next Republican national convention, or as an attempt to provoke an enlightening discussion. The nomination for the presidency has been settled in advance by popular acclaim, and the convention will ratify the will of the people in placing the name of Roosevelt at the head of the ticket. That point being so completely disposed of it is apparent, if no other objection stood in the way, that Providence, R. I., is too near Oyster Bay, L. I., to admit of the probability that the nominee for vice president is a man who dates his letters between sessions of congress from the capital of the smallest state in the union. Senator Aldrich is geographically impossible. He has been a member of the United States senate since December 5, 1881, and his present term will expire on March 4, 1905. If he continues in public life after that date it will be because of his re-election to the senate by the legislature of Rhode Island, and not because of his election to the vice presidency of the United States. Senator Platt's mention of Aldrich for the second place of honor in the nation is in connection with a declaration that "it may be necessary to look in the east for a candidate," but the astute leader of the amen corner knows, of course, that with Roosevelt for first place the bars are set high against the whole east, and he ought also to be aware that the west is full of statesmen who will not admit for a moment that there is any need to look even as far toward the sunrise as the eastern line of the state of Ohio for a running mate for Roosevelt. Many persons who will agree with the New York senator that the Rhode Island man "would certainly make a good vice president," will be unable to share his optimism that "the outlook is promising now that Gov. Yates has removed himself from consideration." Gov. Yates at no time filled the field of vision to the westward and was, indeed, during the period of mention of him, only one of the smaller figures in the galaxy of western possibilities. The remarks of the senior senator from the Empire state have not uncovered the coming man, but may possibly stimulate discussion of the available, which may be useful in disclosing him. Of course, the west will protest against Aldrich, and out of this protest something tangible may develop in relation to the identity of Roosevelt's companion on the national ticket.

Put on Its Defense.

It doubtless never occurred to the free traders, who for so many years have preached England's example to this country, that the tariff would ever again become the leading issue of English politics and that that country would entertain the idea of adopting protectionist principles, but just such a curious turn of events has taken place. Mr. Chamberlain, who brought forward the issue, is not weakening in the least under the protests made in the name of party harmony. He keeps it in the front of political discussion, and the issue is rapidly taking shape in a way that will produce a new alignment of English parties.

The new protection, as it is called, invokes different principles from those which sustain our protective policy. England cannot produce her own food supplies, or the raw material for her manufacturers, so that the ideal of economic independence contemplated by our protective policy cannot be entertained. What Mr. Chamberlain proposes is a policy of imperial protection, based upon preferential rates between England and her colonies. Mr. Chamberlain frankly admits that the scheme involves a duty on grain, with a preference in favor of imports from British colonies. This means that Australian meat and Canadian grain will enter the British market at lower rates than American meat and grain. Mr. Chamberlain even concedes that the duty may raise the price of bread and thus enhance living expenses, but he contends that the system admits of compensatory reductions of expense. For instance, the people consume tea and tobacco as well as bread, and reduction of taxes on tea and tobacco might more than make up for the increased price of bread.

The protectionists argue that foreign countries are doing everything they know how to cripple British trade, and, meanwhile, they are allowed to compete with England on the same level for the trade of the British colonies. It is pointed out that excluding exports of coal, British exports to the continent of Europe have declined from $500,000,000 in 1872 to $395,000,000 in 1902, while exports to the colonies have increased from $300,000,000 to $540,000,000. It is argued that upon both economical and political grounds it is wise to unite the interests of the empire by reciprocal agreements between England and her colonies by which each gives the other preferential rates.

This proposed abandonment of free trade principles is, of course, making a great stir in English politics, and the arguments on both sides are being developed with marked ability, but the free traders are on the defensive. After a trial of 60 years free trade is called upon to justify its existence and is having difficulty in doing so.

When the Post declares that "no administration for years has devoted more time to strategy and warships and cannon than this, and less to economic amelioration of the condition of the people," it is only fair to remark that the people haven't noticed anything in their economic condition that has urgently demanded amelioration since they elected McKinley president in 1896. And there continues to be amelioration enough for all in keeping the Democrats outside the breastworks.

From the circumstance that the Hon. Timothy Woodruff's boom for governor of New York is mentioned in connection with a picture depicting the candidate in a tightly-buttoned coat, is it to be inferred that the Hon. Timothy intends that this shall be a waistcoatless campaign?

Pennsylvania is said to hold the record with 45 deaths from tetanus in the 10 days following July 4, but it would be much more satisfactory if it had no record on the subject.

Returns from yesterday's harvest of hailstones are not yet all in, but it may be said that they were as large as could be expected under the circumstances.

Senator Platt's boom for Senator Aldrich for vice president probably gives pleasure to both senators and doesn't hurt anyone.

Civil Service Law.

The civil service law ought to be enforced without fear or favor, so that the government will be conducted on business principles and will be served by employes whose efficiency is beyond question. The official journal of the National Civil Service Reform league, Good Government, makes a strong point against the spoils system when it points out that the prime cause of corruption in the postoffice department is the evasion of the law in appointments to office.—Baltimore Sun.

An Open Race.

The chances are that there will be no concentration on any Democratic aspirant in advance of the convention. There is a possibility, of course, that some Democrat not now mentioned may come to the front next winter, although it is hard to see how any man in that party will get a chance to win any prestige this year, or next year. The contest for the Democratic presidential candidacy of 1904 is still very wide open.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

He's been fallin' by the wayside an' a-projickin' about,
But he's goin' to camp meetin', an' you're shore to hear him shout,

The Quiet Observer.

ERASMUS WILSON.

I find a dainty scented note from Grace
Within my morning mail. It runs like this:
"Stolen last night from its abiding place
Upon two lips a rather hurried kiss!
To owner known is he who dared to steal;
Yea, long in her affections he has basked.
So, if no later than this evening he'll Return the same, there'll be no questions asked."

Now will you stop your kicking against kissing literature?

That is English; at least it is from an English paper that is noted for being proper.

The lines may have been clipped from an American paper and reproduced without due credit. Or the editor of the English paper, the Manchester Weekly Times, may have written them, under inspiration or otherwise, and, concealing himself behind quotation marks.

Anyway, it isn't half bad, and the girl in the case is all right, and if he—the fellow in the case—didn't return the same as requested, he is a chump—worse, he is a miserable thief and ought to get at least six months.

In this country the fellows are so punctilious in such matters that nothing short of some preventing Providence would or could delay the return of stolen goods such as these. Were they just common, ordinary goods, such as jewelry, tiffey might not bother about taking them back, or even giving them up unless personally requested to do so by some one with the necessary papers.

* * * * *

What would you do in a case like that? Would you daily and haggle over it? Would you, or could you, bear the goadings of your conscience?

Not on your life!

It is noble and manly to restore stolen goods, particularly when the loser is a woman—a good looking, lovable woman—and the goods consist of something that is of no sort of use without the other party.

You may have at some time in your life appropriated something that didn't belong to you but which you very much wanted, or thought you wanted. If so, no doubt you can recall how earnestly you tried to get rid of it, or rather to get rid of the sense of having it. You couldn't sleep well, nor eat well, nor digest all you did eat, nor assimilate all you digested, just because of the harassing, ever-present sense of having stolen goods in your possession.

Such goods are not necessarily articles for wear or practical use, but any article of virtue—something of interest rather than of intrinsic value, such as Goldsmith may have had in mind when he wrote in "A Haunch of Venison."

"I had thought in my chamber to place it in view,
To be shown to my friends as a piece of vertu."

* * * * *

Conscience, or inner feeling, may not always be a safe guide, and certainly it is not infallible, but it is reasonably safe. It may, at least, be relied upon to guide us in accordance with our knowledge and training. That which we are taught to believe to be right and proper, or which we recognize as our duty, is the basis of our conscience, or inner feeling; consequently whenever we act contrary to that which we believe to be right, our inner feeling is offended.

The conscience of the Mohammedan pricks him as keenly for acting according to the teachings of Christianity as does the conscience of a Christian who ignores the teachings of Jesus and follows those of Mohammed.

If it offends your conscience to steal a kiss, or anything from a woman, don't do it. Or if you have stolen anything, or if you owe anything to her, or to anybody, and you have an uncomfortable inner feeling concerning it, don't hesitate to make restitution, or honorable amends.

To fight it out against your conscience is to dull this fine inner feeling which is your ever-present monitor and guide, and without which you will rapidly degenerate into coarseness and vulgarity.

* * * * *

As you know yourself, we sometimes do things which we would not have our friends see we know for anything.

But we know it, and if we are true to ourselves we ought to be as much ashamed as if we had been caught at it. This is where conscience gets its work in, and if we were to heed it we would be saved many a sorrow.

Some parents do not tell their children what this inner feeling, this still, small voice is, and they grow up without knowing its use or value.

When children are being taught in Sunday school, and at home, that God sees all they do, it will help to make this teaching effective to teach them that the still, small voice shows that God has seen or heard them. They can comprehend this more easily than the other; besides it is more tangible, and more convincing.

The mere teaching that God sees and hears all we do has but little effect on the average child, because it sees no evidence of it. Were children given some tangible proof of it they would then give heed to it. Only those of mature years can have faith—accept the existence of things not seen. And to these it is often a most difficult thing to do.

* * * * *

Has it ever occurred to you that much of that which we profess to believe is not fully understood, and a great deal of it not understood at all? In such cases our professions is nothing more than a bluff. Is it any wonder that so many fail to live up to their professions?

He must be a weak vessel indeed who does not live up to his honest belief concerning either material or spiritual things. If he goes contrary to his honest conviction he is worse than weak—he is dishonest before God, and before himself; and if he has any common sense worth speaking of, he must stand condemned in his own mind and heart. Of course, he cannot expect less from God.

All this can be so impressed upon young people, and upon children, that they will understand, and understanding they will heed the warnings of the monitor, that still, small voice which speaks to their feelings, approving their proper conduct and disapproving that which is improper.

Since coming generations must be depended upon to effect most of the great reforms which are so desirable, we must turn our attention to the children, for there isn't much use in struggling with those who have become mature in their wrong thinking, wrong feeling and wrong doing.

How about your children? Are they all right, and being brought up to see, and to understand things right?

Kentucky Republicans.

The strenuous old commonwealth of Kentucky is to be the scene of another strenuous campaign this year. Both sides are now ready, and the call to arms is loud and resounding, says the Washington Star. The Republicans have nominated their ticket. It is strong in its personality, and well balanced geographically. It is headed by Col. Morris Belknap of Louisville, whose title does not represent the quix with which the country is familiar, and which the Kentuckians themselves accept with smiling amiability. He has worn the uniform of the country, and saw service in the war with Spain. A native of the state, college bred, a man of large means and influential in the business world, he stands for the state's best conditions and aspirations. He ought to prove, and his friends assert that he will prove, an attractive candidate and a vote-getter.

Talked of in New York

GEORGE C. JENKS.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 20.—Police commissioners, street cleaning commissioners and other public officials of New York have been making trips to various European cities to see how departments similar to their own are managed across the Atlantic, and it has come to be considered quite the useful thing to do. Now we are to lose the park commissioners, Willcox, Eustis and Young, for a few weeks pending their absence on a foreign junket. They will sail tomorrow on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. Mr. Willcox, the Manhattan commissioner, under whose supervision is the most important park in Greater New York, the Central, will spend 10 days studying the small park systems of London and Glasgow. The small parks of Manhattan are very important as playgrounds for the children, and Mr. Willcox always has given them a great deal of attention. Whether he can learn anything important in London and Glasgow remains to be seen, but the general opinion of persons who have visited those cities is that the parks here are better managed than in Great Britain, and that there are more of them. In the whole of Greater New York there are, according to the commissioners, 6,802.257 acres of parks, with the Bronx having the most extensive system, no less than 3,866,590 acres. In Manhattan are 1,415,209 acres, and in Brooklyn 1,026,875, while Queens has 559,843 and Richmond 2,740. There are about 60 miles of parkways, streets and avenues under the jurisdiction of the park department of New York. Some of these parks are along the seashore.

Flags Flying at Half-Mast.

No question was raised today over the propriety of hoisting flags at half-mast on City hall, as a token of respect to the dead pope. It will be remembered that when Queen Victoria died Mayor Van Wyck was harshly criticised because he would not half-mast the municipal flags, and he answered that he had no right to make the city of New York responsible for paying respects to the head of a monarchy. Mayor Low does not split hairs so carefully.

One Exception to President's Rule.

There is a story going around about the way Miss Alice Roosevelt disturbed her father at dinner a day or two ago. The president has made a hard-and-fast rule that there shall be no telephone calls to Sagamore Hill from central between the hours of 6:30 and 8 p. m. He likes to dine in peace. Alice appeared at central and demanded that the home of her father should be called up. The operator, afraid of losing her job, would not break the president's rule. Then Alice sat down to the switchboard, connected herself with the president's private apartments and made him jump out of his chair by a furious ringing of the telephone bell. She talked to her father until she had said all that was on her mind, and then calmly rung him off. The president does not know yet whether to be mad at the self-willed young lady or not.

Beaumont the Ready.

One of the prominent sporting writers of this city says that "to Clarence Beaumont, the clever outfielder of the Pittsburgh club, is mainly due the three victories scored by the champions in the recent series against New York," adding, "his great work surprised even the enthusiastic mill hands who sat on the bleachers in Pittsburgh and made trouble for visiting players."

Many Births Not Recorded.

Children in New York have trouble very often in getting places in the public schools on account of the paucity of room. For this reason, among others, the board of health is appalled over the discovery that fully 3 per cent of the births in the city are not recorded at the bureau of vital statistics. This will make it more difficult still for the parents of such children to get them into the schools when they reach the legal age. There will be trouble for some nurses, doctors and midwives then, it is learned who are responsible for the neglect. It is a serious matter not to record births, as anyone can see at a glance. Crime is rampant in all big cities, and one of the preventives of infanticide is a careful registration of all births.

More Trouble on Broadway.

Just when it seemed as if Broadway in the vicinity of Herald square had settled down on a period of smoothness and freedom from roadway eruptions, along comes a city improvement that tears up the asphalt for a mile or two. It is safe to say that this part of Broadway has never been in a worse state than it is now since the city was thrown into chaos by the changing of the motive power of the street car system. The subway did not touch this part of Broadway, so that the upset now is felt all the worse.

Strike Troubles Nearly Ended.

Although many thousands of men resumed work today the building trades have not yet been generally resumed in New York. There was a meeting of the Building Trades Employers' association today to decide just how much time was being given to the unions which have not yet signed the arbitration plan. Those men who were at work today appeared to be contented with their lot. Whether the trouble is over permanently no one can say tonight, but that everyone hopes it is there is no question. Even the walking delegates express themselves satisfied over the general aspect of affairs.

Hotels Are Economizing.

Vegetables, fruits and other accessories of life to the well-to-do have been high in price this year and the hotels feel the strain. It is said that some of the summer hotels which are practically in New York, although not in the heart of Manhattan, have been economizing on their tables, and it is said that at one of them there has been no cantaloupe this season. What is a summer hotel breakfast without cantaloupe?

Died Playing the "Marseillaise."

Playing the "Marseillaise" on his violin, an old man named Bruno Wallenkaupt forgot to turn off the gas in his room after it had blown out, and he was found dead this morning with his violin in his hand and the music of the "Marseillaise" on the rack near him. He had plenty of money, and it was clearly accidental death. Perhaps if the old man could have had his will it was the kind of death he would have chosen.

Passing of Leo XIII.

History will doubtless say that the dominant characteristic of Leo XIII. throughout his wonderful life, embracing more than 93 years, was simple goodness. The angels' hymn, "Peace on earth; good will to men," seemed to be the music of his existence. Set like a light upon a hilltop, the simplicity, gentleness, kindliness of his life was an example and an inspiration to all.

He will be mourned not only by the two hundred and fifty millions of Roman Catholics who saw in him the successor of St. Peter and their supreme guide in the interpretation of the Scriptures and in matters of faith, but by the entire civilized world, which recognized in him that disposition the creation of which is the purpose of the Christian religion and its fine, consummate flower. Already advanced in years when elected to the papal see, his pontificate covered more than a quarter of a century, equaling the famous "years of Peter." Of aristocratic descent and reared under what many would regard as restrictive influences, his heart embraced all humanity; his warmest sympathies were with the poor, and he had strong faith in popular government.

His admiration of the United States and his friendship for it were boundless. The material well being of all the people here, no less than the growth of his church under free institutions, excited his enthusiasm, and he frequently confessed to "a special love and affection for America." It is curious that this Leo of the twentieth century, living in a democratic age and essentially democratic in his tastes and aspirations, seemed to have taken for his ideal the first pontiff who bore that name—the Leo of the fifth century—and resembled him in many respects, including the austere simplicity of his life and his regard for the rights of the humblest and most obscure priest under his rule.—New York Herald.

An impartial verdict cannot deny to Leo the possession of the qualities of an eminent diplomat and statesman. The best proof of this is to be found in the unmistakable advance which his church has made, not only as a potent organization, but as a spiritual force. While maintaining resolutely the policy of passive opposition to the Italian government which Pius IX. inaugurated, his general scheme of management has been marked by a conciliatory persuasiveness and a high degree of practical shrewdness in dealing with the chief nations of the globe. This has been notably the case with respect to Germany, while the pope's action toward the heads and the masses of American Catholicism has been characterized by a tone of liberality and avowed friendship for representative institutions which has, beyond doubt, contributed signally to the welfare of the Catholic church.

Entering the vatican as its master at an age when clearness of vision and sanity of judgment should be at their best estate, the pope has likewise commanded wide respect as a man of saintly life, cheerful demeanor and entire sincerity. His personal traits, so far as those have been revealed to public interviews and official utterance, have strengthened his sacerdotal authority. His death will remove a personality which multitudes of even non-Catholics have grown to regard with esteem.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

\+ \+ \+ \+

It will be difficult for the world to adjust itself to a conception of the papacy in the person of another than Leo XIII. His thin, ascetic features, his kindly smile, his brilliant eyes, are impressed indelibly upon the minds of the throngs of visitors to Rome during the past quarter of a century. His successor will be, indeed, a man of great mental stature and broad character if he attains the dignity and renown of Leo XIII. As statesman, as philosopher, as philanthropist and as Christian the pontiff not only impressed himself deeply upon modern thought, but scored for himself a place among the great personages of history. He reigned during a period of transition. Wonderful advances have been made by the world of science and thought and politics since he ascended the papal throne. His adjustment of the extreme conservatism of the church to the new conditions, constantly shifting, was in itself a remarkable achievement. A less comprehensive intellect, a less logically progressive ruler would have failed under the stress of change. He made history, and he helped to raise the standard of personal living. Whether Roman Catholics or Protestants, all Christians can study the life and utterances of Pope Leo XIII. with profit. His long life has been filled with usefulness to the world.—Washington Star.

The death of a pope is an event of universal concern. From the palace and from the cottage, from the far east and unsettled west, from France and Spain and Russia and Germany and England and America, from the distant islands of the Pacific, from the enlightened schools of Europe or the darkened minds of nature just now brought in contact with Christianity, come tributes of devotion and respect and admiration for a pope who, in his illustrious career, has seen many earthly thrones totter and fall while his own power has from its very persuasiveness won new subjects and deepened its foundations in the hearts and the consciences of men.

Historically, the death of Pope Leo will mark an era in the history of the church. In extent, and in the great events which have characterized it, the story of the papacy in the past 25 years will ever be remarkable. The pope dies; the papacy remains. To many minds it is the one stable thing amid all the mutations of life, while to others it is a living organism that grows with our growth and strengthens with our strength, by day a pillar of cloud and a pillar of fire by night, making "this ever-changing world of circumstance in changing chime with never-changing law."—Louisville Post.

\+ \+ \+ \+

The Catholic church contains many pious, able and eminent men from among whom to choose his successor. The next pope may be fully as worthy of his exalted station as Leo XIII. has been. The world knew but little of the great qualities of Geachim Pecci until he ascended the throne of St. Peter. Yet we may be permitted to doubt if we shall soon see his like again in the vatican or elsewhere. There have been many men as great as Leo and many as good; but how rarely has the world seen so much goodness joined to so much greatness.—Kansas City Journal.

\+ \+ \+ \+

It is true that his wise diplomacy brought about a mitigation of the anti-Roman "May laws" in Germany; that he acceptably arbitrated the German-Spanish dispute over the Caroline islands; that he offered to arbitrate the Cuban troubles with Spain; that he notified the Roman Catholic bishops of Ireland that boycotting and what was known as the "plan of campaign" were immoral, and that his encyclical of 1

COMMITTEE WILL CALL A MEETING

Filtration Report Is to Go Before Special Session of Council.

EXPECT TO MEET THIS WEEK

Chairman Thomas M. Brown Says That Committee Will Act Unless Councils Meet by Another Call—Typhoid Fever Still Spreads in the City.

"If a meeting of common council is not called at once by some other means, the filtration committee will call the meeting some time this week to receive the committee's report," said Thomas M. Brown, chairman of the committee, last evening.

"There is apparently no other means of obtaining the meeting except by a call by the committee.

"Do you intend to call a meeting of common council to receive the report of the filtration committee?" was asked Mayor William B. Hays yesterday and he replied.

"I do not."

"Will you call a meeting if you are requested to do so?"

"I do not know. I shall have to consider the question. It must be shown me that there is necessity for it."

The bureau of health statement yesterday showing that 23 new cases of typhoid fever were reported, and there is every indication of a still greater outbreak of the disease. Seven of the cases were reported from the Thirteenth ward, two from the Twelfth, the others from the Thirty-first, Thirty-fifth, Eighth, Sixteenth, Twenty-third, Fourteenth, and Thirtieth. In fact there is no section of the city that is free from the disease.

It has been an argument from the first among the friends of filtration and was brought out in the report of the commission, that the only possible explanation of the prevalence of the disease all over the city is in its being water-borne.

City Physician Booth said yesterday: "It is necessary for those persons having in charge the matter of procuring filtered water for the city to get a move on at once. Something should certainly be done to hurry up filtration."

When asked his personal opinion in regard to the comparative merits of the mechanical and sand methods, he said he did not wish to enter into a discussion, but declared it his opinion that the proper way to filter water is by the sand method.

WANT HIM TO BE MISSIONARY

Reformed Church Classis Offered Place to the Rev. J. G. Walter.

The Rev. J. Grant Walter, pastor of St. Mark's Memorial Reformed church, Highland avenue and Harvard street, was offered the position of home missionary of the Reformed church of Pittsburgh and vicinity at a meeting of the Allegheny classis of the Reformed church held yesterday in Grace Reformed church in Bithridge street. This is a new office in this church in Pittsburgh.

Too much time of the regular pastors of the Reformed church has been taken up in founding missions and Sunday schools. It is the intention of the classis to have this work done by a missionary. A chapel is to be erected on the lot recently purchased in Crafton terrace and the missionary will have charge. Several other places are to have chapels and Sunday schools under the direction of the missionary. Mr. Walter has been pastor of St. Mark's church for seven years and is a successful minister. He is out of town and it could not be learned whether he would accept.

CARNIVAL DRAWBACKS.

McKeesport Business Men Not Well Pleased With Results of the Enterprise.

It is reported that the McKeesport Business Men's Carnival association is minus a considerable amount of money taken in at one of the shows on the midway last Saturday owing to the mysterious disappearance of the man who handled the receipts. The show was one of the best patronized in the company and the loss is up in the hundreds.

The automobile was won by J. E. Larkin, a well known business man, and the parlor suite by A. G. Steffen of No. 708 Converse street, who held ticket No. 33,333. Business men of the city are complaining that business was injured rather than benefitted last week, and McKeesport will likely have no more carnivals for several years.

M'KEESPORT MAN NOW HAS REASON FOR REFUSING WATER

Charles Swanson of No. 25 Riverton street, McKeesport, yesterday went to the hydrant in the rear of his home to get a glass of water. Just as he was about to swallow the contents of the glass he noticed a small red mass in the bottom of the glass which proved to be about 100 tiny worms, bunched together and all alive. He put them in a small bottle and is preserving them. Supt. T. H. Verner of the water department refuses to discuss the presence of the worms in the water.

Church to Build Home for Pastor.

The congregation of the English Lutheran church in Duquesne, which recently received a new pipe organ for which Andrew Carnegie contributed half of the price has decided to build a parsonage in North Second street, near the church building. The building will cost about $3,500. The congregation is one of the oldest in Duquesne and has about 250 members.

PROBING BEGINS TOMORROW NIGHT

Chairman Stevenson Calls Meeting of Committee to Investigate Bureau of Health.

DIRECTOR MOORE SUMMONED

Other Prospective Witnesses Notified to Attend—Their Names Are Withheld by the Chairman—Interesting Developments Are Promised.

Controller John B. Larkin's investigation into the health bureau begins tomorrow night. A call for a meeting has been sent out to the joint committee appointed by councils at the request of the controller, and a number of persons have received notices to attend. Among these are Director Harry Moore, Supt. G. W. Moore and Dr. W. G. Matson, the bacteriologist. Dr. A. B. Booth, city physician, said yesterday that he did not receive a notice, and he will leave the city today on his vacation.

Chairman W. H. Stevenson refused to give out the names of those who had been notified to attend the meeting. He said: "Wait for developments. The people may be certain of one thing and that is there will be an investigation. Subpoenaes will be issued if it is necessary to enforce the attendance of persons who do not respond to a mere notification. We intend to investigate this thing to the bottom and to leave nothing unturned."

Chairman Stevenson was reminded of the fact that Controller Larkin had stated that he would not testify before the committee. Mr. Stevenson professed ignorance of it. It is hard to see how the controller will be able to evade a cross-examination, for one member of the committee can compel his attendance, as the controller is the principal prosecuting witness notwithstanding his apparent desire to remain in the background until the investigation is over.

Chairman Stevenson is Controller Larkin's friend and is determined to aid the controller at every point. There is considerable speculation whether the committee will make a report if the charges of the controller prove without foundation. There is a determination on the part of many councilmen to take the controller to task if it develops that there was not basis for the investigation.

Dr. Matson is expected to give evidence concerning the system of disinfection about which the controller has said there have been rumors of corruption. It is alleged that exorbitant prices were charged for disinfecting houses that contained smallpox patients, and that favored persons enjoyed these contracts.

In his communication to the committee the controller raises doubts about the efficiency of vaccination, the management of the municipal hospital, quarantine and other matters vital in the treatment of smallpox. This gives the committee many things to investigate if it desires.

EXPLOSION IN A WELL INJURED TWO PEOPLE

William Lewis and His Wife of Homeville Severely Hurt and Their Home Wrecked.

As William Lewis, foreman of one of the mills at the Carnegie works in Homestead, was lowering a burning torch into a well preparatory to cleaning it out, at his home in Homeville, a suburb of Homestead, yesterday morning, an explosion took place. Lewis and his wife were severely hurt and their home was all but completely wrecked.

The great mass of flame, when it shot out of the well, struck Lewis and his wife, both of whom were standing near the edge, and burned them severely. They were thrown with terrific force to the ground and rendered unconscious. One end of their home was blown out and the other walls so badly damaged that the entire house will have to be rebuilt.

The report of the explosion was terrific, being heard a mile away. The alarmed neighbors hurried to the scene and soon found Lewis, who was given attention, but it was nearly 15 minutes before his wife was found, buried under the debris of the house. It is possible that Lewis will not recover, but his wife is not so seriously injured. Both were taken to the Mercy hospital.

There are many theories as to the cause of the explosion, but many think it was caused by after-damp, as there is no gas known to be in the vicinity.

CHAIN WORKS BURNED.

Fire at Thirty-Second Street Plant Was of Mysterious Origin.

Fire of a mysterious origin totally ruined the plant of the Pittsburgh Chain Company, at Thirty-second street and Liberty avenue yesterday morning, at 5:45 o'clock. The loss, estimated at $15,000, is covered by insurance. For some time there has been a strike at the plant and it is hinted that the fire may have been an act of revenge by some of the strikers or their sympathizers. August Swindisky, the watchman, had just completed an inspection when he saw flames in the rear of the main building. The company's books were saved, Swindisky was slightly burned. Manager Frank Anderson says the plant will be rebuilt at once.

A WEALTHY MAN'S YOUNG WIFE

Was Dangerously Ill; Pe-ru-na Saved Her

MR. W. E. BIRCH, Afton, Va., an extensive fruit grower of that place, writes the following letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., of Columbus, Ohio. We print the letter in part: "The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.: "Gentlemen:—I am glad to be able to say I have found one remedy that is everything and more than is claimed for it.

"My wife was very much run down and out of sorts in every way. She had a pelvic disorder which left her very weak, nervous and no appetite at all.

"One day I happened to be at my father's store, S. A. Birch, Coresville, Albemarle county, Va., and noticed your medicine there for sale.

"I thought it might help my wife so I brought a bottle of it home and within a week she commenced to eat, and now she is hungry all the time, and not half the medicine has been taken. We both agree that it beats any medicine to bring on an appetite and to put the nerves in good shape that we have ever had anything to do with. We had our family doctor give her medicine and he did all he could, but she did not improve the least.

"She has consumption in her family and she was in such bad shape; so run down, nervous, weak, and could not eat, that I had begun to get very uneasy, but your medicine has made an entirely new woman of her. I believe she eats and feels better than she has for years.—W. E. Birch, Afton, Va."

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

LOCAL ELKS ARE READY FOR WORK

Have the Pittsburgh Boom Well Under Way at the Baltimore Meeting.

ALL TOOK A REST YESTERDAY

Opening Session of the Grand Lodge Will Be Held Today—Election of Grand Officers Forecasted by the Knowing Ones.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

BALTIMORE, MD., July 20.—The Pittsburgh and Allegheny delegations here for the grand lodge meeting of the B. P. O. E., hied themselves to the shady parks today after yesterday's stormy trip from the west. The boomers for "Pittsburgh in 1905," were too brisk from the beginning and as for formal opening of the meeting will not take place until tomorrow, the day was spent in allowing the breezes from the bay to brace up their lost energies.

Should Pittsburgh land the meeting for 1905 it will require at least a year's work to come near eclipsing the efforts of Baltimore in its arrangements, as this city for electric illuminations alone expended $25,000, which sum does not compare with the amount spent for private decorations or the minute details of the meeting.

Those Pittsburgh and Allegheny Elks who did not leave for quiet spots spent the day in the boat gathering up souvenir badges and other things, and some were heavily laden with the latter. Councilman Harry Lamb and William Shore, the oil inspector, almost got left by the Pittsburgh train at Washington. The delegations from various places in Western Pennsylvania have nearly all arrived. They have established headquarters as follows:

Pittsburgh, Southern hotel; Allegheny, Eutaw hotel; McKeesport, Gansehorn's hotel; Charlerol, 722 West Lexington street and 1221 Madison avenue; Connellsville, Albion and St. James hotels; Greensville, St. James hotel; Kittanning and Jeannette, 824 North Charles street; Punxsutawney, 517 North Charles street; Sharon, Albion hotel; Youngstown, 107 West Saratoga street.

John A. Connors of Salem, O., a late arrival, will make an effort to take the prize for the heaviest Elk in the parade on Wednesday. He tips the beam at 340. "It's hot," he said tonight, "but Johnnie will have to go out and bring in that prize." Another late arrival is H. T. Robbins of Connellsville, who, with the exception of Admiral Dot, is the smallest Elk in the country, and he will probably get the prize offered for the littlest member.

The tallest Elk in town is William Wiggit of Frostburg, Md. The little German band, composed of members of Alliance lodge No. 467, is in the city, and on Wednesday will appear in the parade in quaint German uniforms.

It began to rain this evening and this had a dampening effect upon the prospects.

All the officers of the grand lodge of Elks and practically all members of the grand lodge have arrived and it is estimated that 5,000 will be present when the convention assembles tomorrow morning. Active canvassing has been in progress all day in behalf of those who are candidates for the chief officials of the grand lodge. It is practically settled that Joseph P. Fanning of Indianapolis will be chosen grand exalted ruler. There is also no serious opposition to the re-election of George A. Reynolds, grand secretary; Samuel A. Needs, grand treasurer, and Robert B. Brown, grand trustee.

WOMAN WANTED TO BE A CARRIE NATION

A woman imitating the example of Carrie Nation paid a visit to the South Side yesterday morning. She left, saying that she was going to a place on Penn avenue that needed attention. Evidently she did not reach Penn avenue, for no one seems to have encountered her.

The alleged Mrs. Nation was first seen at Twenty-second and Carson streets. She entered a wholesale liquor establishment and ran off a line of invectives. She then went to a glass factory at the head of Twenty-second street, where she wanted some glass hatchets made. She didn't get them and returned to Carson street, where she was met by Policemen McAfee and McDermitt, both of whom, she said, are going to eternal damnation. She was advised to get on a car, which she did without further questioning.

OPERA SINGER FINED FOR BREACH OF CONTRACT

DESDEN, July 20.—(Special Cable.)—The noted tenor, Anthes, who last season broke a contract with the Royal opera in this city to take an engagement at the New York Metropolitan opera house, was today fined 28,000 marks by the court.

PERSONALS

Albert Chapelle of Albert Chapelle & Co., Limited, of Los Angeles, Cal., was at the Hotel Lincoln yesterday. He was here on a business trip and left last night for New York. He is much interested in Pittsburgh's growth. He said: "It is eight years since I visited Pittsburgh. At that time the city was at a standstill. Very few of the mills were operating and construction work was not at all active. I was greatly surprised at the amount of improvements made in the city since my last visit. Although the country has been enjoying an unprecedented boom, yet Pittsburgh is progressing far more than could be anticipated. I have read with interest of the skyscrapers. The height is only a small portion of the magnitude of the buildings. The finishings and the convenience of the interiors cannot be beaten in any city in the world."

John Algoe of Quincy, Ill., was a passenger on the Pennsylvania railroad last night on his way home from Philadelphia. "While Quincy," he said, "is little heard of, "yet it is a prosperous city. Much money has been expended in improvements during the last year and many more betterments are contemplated."

The Mellon tally-ho party returned home late Saturday night from Ligonier. The party met with an accident by the tally-ho upsetting while fording Coal-Pit creek, near Idlewild. Mrs. Alexander King was injured, which necessitated the party returning home.

The Rev. William E. McCollough of No. 7028 Frankstown avenue, pastor of the Hamilton Avenue United Presbyterian church, left last night for an extended tour of Europe. He sails from New York tomorrow.

A party of school teachers passed through the city last night over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. They reside at Sterling, O., and were returning from a trip to Washington, D. C.

OUTPUT IS GREATER.

Steel Corporation Representatives Figure on Probable Results for This Year.

NEW YORK, July 20.—(Special.)—The Wall Street Journal says today:

"Estimates made by representatives of the United States Steel Corporation indicate that for the first half of the year the average output of finished products was 21 per cent greater than for the corresponding period last year. In some instances, notably wire rods and nails and tinplate, the production exceeded by nearly 9 per cent the output for the first six months of 1902, but as prices in some instances were slightly below those of last year and the cost of production somewhat higher the net returns were smaller.

"For the second half of the year the conditions are not yet well enough developed to indicate whether the output will exceed or fall below the last half of 1902.

"The steel corporation, its representatives point out, has enough work ahead to keep all its plants employed for eight months to come, and but for the fact that the contest between furnacemen and foundrymen in the trade at large over what shall constitute fair bottom prices for pig iron, which has held trade unsettled in certain lines for several weeks, there would be no doubt about the output for the last half. August 1 is now fixed as the date when resumption of trade activity is expected to be in full swing." FRANK A. PARKER.

The American Spirit of Fair Play.

If there is any one thing the American loves, on a level with liberty, it is fair play.

To that robust and unassuming spirit of righteousness in due match protection of life and property that the law alone could not give.

The leaven of this spirit is visible in such organizations as the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and in that manly feeling in a crowd which will not permit a big bully to beat a man half his size without running the risk of being himself beaten by an onlooker, as a sign of disapproval.

But, if such a bully merits condemnation, what shall be said of the assassin and the incendiary, and of the gossip-monger, who ruins reputations, starts a "run" on banks, or poisons the public mind against a worthy enterprise, for the mere pleasure of gossiping, or the deeper design of injuring another to his own profit.

Small slanders are smiled at, and passed over lightly, because of the limited amount of damage they can do, but when they are of such a character and calculated that almost which the notice of a Buffalo corporation is today directed, in this paper, they assume an importance which makes them impressive, and the reader indignant that there is no law to reach the offenders.

Fifty million packages of "Force" food had been sold before it occurred to some one to circulate a rumor that it was drugged to promote appetite.

The absurdity of the rumor is apparent when it is considered that there is not a single case on record of these 50,000,000 packages having injured a single individual.

Aside from this, the government inspection of foods, and the health department of every city, would have promptly put a stop to the sale of any food, sold in such quantities, which contained any unwholesome ingredient whatever.

That the "Force" company are fully aware of the insidious nature of such a rumor, and suspect an interested origin, is shown by their offer of $5,000 reward for the conviction of its initiators or circulators.

Their further offer of $5,000 more for proof that a single package of the 50,000,000 sold contained any injurious substance whatever (being made solely from whole wheat and barley, seasoned with table salt), shows how empty such rumors can be, and how energetically the "Force" company follow up an attempt upon their market.

The magnitude of the injustice done is indicated by the fact that it has cost the "Force" company over $50,000 to refute the rumor in the newspapers of the United States and Canada, exclusive of such injury as may have been temporarily done to the sale of their product.

ANOTHER APPEAL FOUND IN RIVER

Mysterious May Burt Is Again Heard from Through the Bottle Route.

SAYS SHE IS BEING ABUSED

Constabulary of Down River Points Continue to Investigate Shanty Boats in Hope of Finding "Big Nigger" and His Victim.

Excitement at Economy and Freedom, caused by the finding of a note in a bottle that was floating in the Ohio river, in which a woman stated that she is held captive on a shanty boat by "a big nigger," was intensified yesterday by the finding of another bottle and note at Freedom. The police in the towns in the vicinity of Freedom continued their search of the shanty boats yesterday, but failed to locate the alleged kidnaper or his victim.

While playing along the Ohio river bank just above Freedom yesterday morning, Charles Mails, Charles Morgan and Noble Keyser, boys, discovered a bottle floating down stream near the river bank. One of the boys broke the bottle by hitting it with a stone and a piece of paper was seen floating away with the current. When the boys secured the paper they found writing on it and it was immediately taken to Officer Farrell of Freedom. The note was written on a piece of an old flower sack and read as follows:

"July 14—For God's sake help me. Big nigger has me in a shanty boat and is going down the river. He is drunk and is beating me. May Burt."

The note was written with a lead pencil and the spelling was bad. The bottle in which the note was found was a quart whisky bottle and the label shows it was from the store of a well-known wholesale liquor dealer in Allegheny.

As soon as Officer Farrell received the note and bottle from the boys, he notified Chief of Police Connor and County Detective Lazarus, of Beaver county, and the officers renewed their investigation, but up to last evening had failed to locate the shanty boat in which the woman alleges she is held captive.

AT THE TROLLEY PARKS.

Pleasing Vaudeville Bills Presented This Week at Oakwood and Southern.

So used have Pittsburghers become to disagreeable weather that, as last night's crowds at Oakwood and Southern parks demonstrated, they don't care whether it rains or shines, if they want to go to see the free shows at the trolley parks. Those who went out last evening were repaid by seeing two good vaudeville bills. The Oakwood bill had the original McNulty sisters, a clever team of novelty singers and dancers who made a good impression; Joe Hyman, who is styled "The Hebrew jester," had a funny monologue and sang some good parodies. Edwards & Kennell have been seen before at the parks, where they have become popular. Rastus & Banks, a colored team of entertainers, can sing and dance well, while John Murtha, the musical comedian, proved a good feature.

John P. Clark, a comedian, made people laugh at Southern Park last evening. Maxwell & Dudley, in their operatic sketch entitled "The Singing Lesson," were a pleasing feature. Marie LeRoy sang some songs and St. Claire & Carlisle were applauded for their work in a comedy wire act. The feature of the bill, so far as the younger element were concerned, was the Censor dog circus. These canines do almost anything but talk. There are acrobats among them, clowns, jumpers, and, in fact, the "purps" do everything a dog could be taught. They are really one of the most pleasing features that could have been selected.

There will probably be a large number of local people on the park stages on Friday night, amateurs' night.

STRANGE DISEASE FATAL TO EDWARD F. HUNTSMAN

STROUDSBURG, PA., July 20.—(Special.)—Edward F. Huntsman is dead at East Stroudsburg from a disease that puzzled the doctors. He left here three years ago in perfect health for South America. He returned to Mont Clair, his home, six months ago a wreck physically. Black spots appeared all over his body and the flesh hardened around the spots. At death his body had swollen to twice its natural size. The disease is believed to have been a form of malaria, contracted while Huntsman was working for an asphalt company in Venezuela.

RUMOR OF NEW ORGAN FOR STATE ORGANIZATION

PHILADELPHIA, July 20.—(Special.)—There is still considerable talk of a new daily newspaper here. Those who profess to know something of the project say it will become the official organ of the Republican state and city organizations so far as Philadelphia is concerned. Senator Boies Penrose and Congressman Robert Foerderer are mentioned as probable promoters, and an afternoon paper asserts that Thomas J. Keenan of Pittsburgh will be general manager of the new enterprise.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR CLEVELAND POSTOFFICE

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The secretary of the treasury has awwarded the contract for the construction of the Cleveland public building to Bradley & Son of New York for $1,049,000. The lower story is to be of granite and above that sandstone. The government reserves the right, however, to order the superstructure of granite at an additional expense of $308,000, provided congress makes the necessary appropriation before June 1, 1904.

Mrs. Blaine Is Buried.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The remains of the late Mrs. James G. Blaine, widow of the former secretary of state, were interred at Oak Hill cemetery in this city today. The body arrived here over the Pennsylvania railroad at 11 o'clock this morning and was taken directly to the cemetery. Rev. Dr. T. R. Shannon of this city officiated at the services, which consisted of the ritual and prayer of the Presbyterian church. The casket was covered with a pall of white American beauty roses from Mrs. Emmons Blaine.

SOCIETY

THE 22d annual outing of the Iron City Fishing club dates from August 3 to August 29. All arrangements are now complete and the members of the club, with their guests, will leave in two weeks for the Iron City camp on Georgian bay, Canada. The club officers, elected at the last meeting in May, are as follows: The Rev. Dr. C. W. Smith, president; the Rev. Dr. J. W. Miles, vice president; Samuel C. Johnson, secretary; S. C. Applegate, treasurer; Capt. T. J. Wood, master of transportation; the Rev. C. L. Smith, commissary; Capt. S. L. Wood, superintendent of boats. A. A. Howe, W. S. Horner and R. A. Balph compose the only committee in the club, the entertainment committee, all arrangements being made by the directors. These include C. W. Smith, J. W. Miles, S. C. Applegate, Samuel C. Johnston, T. J. Wood, J. H. Harrison and W. S. Horner. Those who complete the membership list are the Rev. W. F. Conner, S. W. Cunningham, W. B. Cathcart, J. H. Harrison, L. C. Weldin, Thomas James, J. L. Klingensmith, E. C. Weaver, H. Leslie, S. Lane, J. W. Miles, John S. D. Mercer, T. J. P. McCauley, C. W. Hodell, Dr. J. C. Phillips, Charles Parkin, Dr. J. E. Rigg, Robert Russell, Jr., J. V. Scaife, S. A. Shepard, G. W. Spalter, Dr. J. J. Thomas, John T. Wilson, Benjamin Dangerfield, Joseph S. Alexander, M. Pflaum, John Wood, J. W. McGregor, A. M. Pollock, J. F. Miller, Lee S. Smith, W. H. Binns, the Rev. J. W. Carey and J. L. Trees.

The party will leave on Monday afternoon, August 3, on a special train over the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad. Upon arriving at Penetang they will be met by their chartered steamer, the John Lee, which will convey them to the camp after a beautiful ride through the Thousand Islands. An enjoyable time is anticipated by every member of the party. Fishing will be the principal pastime. Each afternoon a certain time will be devoted to bathing, and on Wednesday evenings and Sunday afternoons special religious services will be held. A piano will be on hand the party, and as the members gather around the campfire in the evenings musical and literary entertainments will be given. Tents will be used to accommodate the club members and their guests, while the club house, finished only last year, is to be used as an assembly hall and dining room. The house is a two-story building, the second-story of which will in time be divided into separate apartments. The only other buildings on the 200 acres occupied and owned by the club are the ice house, holding 100 tons of ice, and the power. Many of the men who have their families with them furnish their tents in a most homelike manner, rugs being placed on the board floors and draperies arranged in an exceedingly artistic way. Although the membership is limited to 45, about 100 guests have been invited to spend the summer at the camp. These, with the guides, etc., make the number of the party almost 150. They will break camp August 28 and will arrive in Pittsburgh the next day, after stopping a few hours at Niagara Falls.

Each evening folowing the "Pompeii" spectacle which is to be presented at Exposition park for two weeks beginning next Monday for the benefit of the Elks of Pittsburgh lodge No. 11, there will be a fine fireworks display, including many late novelties and specialties from the works of the Pains. Of all the open air spectacles invented and produced by Pain, none have enjoyed the long life and popularity of "Pompeii." For more than a quarter of a century it has been the "premier" attraction of the great pyrotechnist's repertoire, and during that time it has been presented in almost every important city in the civilized world.

RENT IS $7.50 A MONTH; WANTS $10,000 DAMAGES

Startling Claim Made Before Viewers of Virgin Alley Widening.

Henry Purman, who has a notion stand on the sidewalk at Virgin alley and Liberty avenue, startled the viewers in the matter of the widening of Virgin alley yesterday by making a claim of $10,000 for damages.

Purman rents about four feet of the surface and a basement under the sidewalk from the owner for $7 50 a month. In making the claim of $10,000 for the loss of his business he said the place was worth $300 a month to him, as his lease had two years yet to run. He would not be made to understand that damages were not computed that way.

The board had intended to have the schedule of damages completed yesterday and to go on hearing testimony relating to benefits, but the attorneys were not ready and that matter was deferred until today.

STILL AFTER KENNYWOOD.

Ministerial Committee of Homestead Has Made 15 More Informations.

Fifteen informations were made by the ministerial committee of Homestead last evening against officials and employes at Kennywood park for alleged violations of the law on Sunday last.

This is many times more informations than have ever been made before, the ministers being determined, as they say, to make the fines amount to a sum which will arrest the attention of the owners of the various amusement enterprises and cause them to order the places closed. The fines have been paid in the past and the alleged offenses continued each succeeding Sabbath. Hearings will be given by Justice J. Clyde Miller of Homestead next Friday evening.

M'ILVAIN TO GO; "MURPH" TO COME

Reported Allegheny Deal Starts the Politicians to Gossiping Again.

WYMAN'S FINE ITALIAN HAND

North Side's Mayor Seeks to Dispose of Director of Public Works, Then Shift Scandrett and Thereby Make a Place for John R.

The alleged purpose of ex-Recorder John R. Murphy's visit to Allegheny, last week, and the significance of his remark that "he was coming back in a few months to look after a job" has leaked out and is furnishing gossip such as the Allegheny politicians have not had for a long time.

Murphy, so it is said, is to be made director of public safety after the November election. E. J. McIlvain is to be removed as director of public works and his place given to Thomas B. Scandrett, who is to be shifted to make a berth for Murphy.

When the latter arrived from Mt. Clemens last Wednesday, he said he had personal business to attend to. He spent about two hours in Mayor Wyman's office last Thursday morning, and aside from this, apparently, did no other business than walk about shaking hands with his friends.

Although the report that Murphy is to be one of Wyman's official family is causing a lot of comment, there are few in Allegheny who express any surprise. "Murph" and Wyman have worked along together for years. The former recorder showed himself to be a friend of Wyman's in many ways during the municipal fight last February.

The bitterness that has sprung up between Wyman and McIlvain gives plausibility to the story that the public works director is to be put on the sliding board. McIlvain would be removed now, and Murphy apointed, if Wyman dared do such a thing prior to the fall fight. So much trouble and dissatisfaction has been brewing among the Wyman ranks of late, that a false step means an awful rout.

Wyman is too astute a politician to think of removing McIlvain at present, as the later is in favor with select council and the latter would almost certainly refuse to confirm the appointment of another man at this time. McIlvain's personal following in Allegheny, too, is large, and the disaffection of this contingent at a time so close to an election is something that is being guarded against.

Should the present project tending toward harmony between Republicans and Citizens be consummated, Wyman is to get nothing in Allegheny. The Republican leaders on the North Side, including Francis J. Torrance, Dr. S. S. Woodburn, E. L. Braun and ex-Senator Charles Muehlbronner, have informed Thomas S. Bigelow that they will never recognize Wyman should the harmony scheme carry. In this event Wyman is cut adrift from his sponsor and E. J. McIlvain, who is Bigelow's agent in Allegheny, can expect nothing from the mayor.

In pursuance of his evident policy in Allegheny, Murphy is considered the strongest man to have at the head of the public safety department. Director Scandrett's ability is not questioned, but his weight as a political factor and his experience in certain lines, do not show in the balance with Murphy.

Director McIlvain was asked about the possible change in the cabinet, and said that the report of the return of Murphy to city hall was news to him. "Why would the mayor desire such a change?" asked McIlvain.

"Perhaps you are not running things to suit him," was suggested.

"I have been left alone and have heard no one making any complaint about the affairs of my department," was the reply. Continuing, he said:

"Wyman told me when I took my office that he wanted nothing. I have been allowed to take my own course. I know nothing of any of the other departments. If Wyman is seeking my removal I am disappointed in the man. I did not seek the office, and if I thought what you suggest as true, I would resign at once. I have believed what Wyman has said to me, and if I have made a mistake I have been deceived.

CASSINI'S ODD STAND.

He Issues Curious Interview Relative to Manchurian Ports Agreement.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—(Special.)—Word has been received from Paris of an interview by Count Cassini, Russian ambassador to the United States, in which he asserts that he entered into no conference with Secretary Hay about open ports in Manchuria, and that upon his departure for Europe nothing definite concerning the Asiatic situation had been decided upon.

In view of the fact that Count Cassini publicly admitted, before leaving here, that he and Secretary Hay had arranged for open ports, it is believed the point he is endeavoring to make is that the general understanding reached between himself and Secretary Hay did not specify the ports to be opened, which at that time had not been decided upon. Moreover, when the ambassador says no definite agreement had been reached, it is assumed that he refers to the fact that no written exchanges passed between Secretary Hay and himself at the time.

COLOMBIA HARD UP.

Isthmian Republic's Financial Condition Causes Business Paralysis.

PANAMA, July 20.—(Special Cable.)—El Commercia, a Bogota newspaper, has published important data, taken from official statements of the minister of the treasury to congress, relative to Colombia's present financial condition. From these figures it appears that, in round numbers, there is about $650,000,000 in paper currency in circulation. Besides this sum there is a considerable amount of counterfeit money in circulation. The budget for the fiscal year shows a deficit of nearly $30,000,000 paper.

A decree was promulgated a few weeks ago prohibiting all further emissions of currency. The rate of exchange has increased, business transactions have been paralyzed and the necessaries of life have advanced to prohibitory rates.

Mother-in-Law Says He Used Chair.

Because, as is alleged, he struck his mother-in-law with a chair, Bert Barker of Federal street extension, Allegheny, is locked up at the Allegheny Central station. The mother-in-law, Mrs. Katherine Haggerty, made the complaint before Alderman David McKelvey, alleging assault and battery.

The Only Smile Left For Him Is His Name

Alex Smile, a Homestead Slav, yesterday objected to being hit with watermelon rind which a number of his neighbors on Sixth avenue insisted in throwing at him because he was a newcomer on the street. Smile was struck with watermelon rinds several times before he retaliated. Then he threw a beer bottle at the crowd and it struck Mrs. Mary Shauko, seriously injuring her. Smile was given a severe beating by the neighbors and then turned over to the police.

WASSON TODAY WILL ASK HAYS TO CALL COUNCILS

Money on Hand Will Give Every Man, Woman and Child Three and a Half Barrels of Filtered Water.

Common Councilman Joseph C. Wasson of the Twentieth ward will today call upon Mayor William B. Hays and ask the chief executive of the city to call a special meeting of common council to receive and take prompt action on the report of the filtration committee. The report was adopted by the committee more than a week ago, but was not presented to the following meeting of councils as promised.

Mr. Wasson believes that the report of the last commission after a long, impartial and deep investigation, settled all questions in respect to the system of filtration necessary to give the people of the city a pure water supply. He took the position that a new bond issue would not be required to build a filtration plant sufficient to supply the present wants of Pittsburgh's population, with the saving of water by the installation of meters as provided in the plans already provided.

"A plant of the capacity of 50,000,000 gallons will overy 24 hours supply 375,000 people," said Mr. Wasson last night. "This will give every man, woman and child in the city 133 gallons a day, or, measured by 40 gallons to the barrel, three and one-half barrels a day. Surely this will be enough filtered water for the most exacting person in the city. A plant of this capacity can be built with the money now in the city treasury and without an extra dollar of expense until the city increases its population."

SAD PLIGHT OF SOUTHERN FAMILY WHO SLEPT IN STATION HOUSE

It is rarely the case that a man and his family have no place to sleep and little funds with which to eat, but last night when W. H. Slack of Nashville, Tenn., landed here at the Union station with only $3 in his pocket and his wife and five children to care for, he knew not where to turn. Gathering together his brood, the youngest of which is just out of short skirts, he selected a quiet corner in the large station and was preparing to rest in peace, when an usher inquired into the plans of the group. Train after train was called out until the late suburban list was reached, and then an officer thought it time to rid the station of all loungers. Slack and his family were the first to suffer. The father hurried to the police station and was met by Capt. Teeters. He explained that he had come from Nashville to get work here as an electrician and wanted a place to rest.

"Certainly," said the captain, thinking there was only one. When the whole Slack bunch emerged from a corner of the building the captain was ready to modify his liberality. After rebuking the elder Slack for getting his brood into such a plight, he called Matron Ault, who arranged for beds for the whole family.

BRINKER CONTINUES TO WORRY WYMANITES

Wadsworth Fails to Make Revelations Brinker Hoped For. Suspense Is Unrelieved.

Alderman Addison J. Brinker of Allegheny is continuing to cause the Wyman people all kinds of worry. His resignation and the intimations he makes public concerning "graft" and possible prosecutions, has stirred up more trouble than the Wyman officials have had from any source since they took office.

The reference to certain knowledge Alderman Walter Wadsworth has, and which the latter seems unwilling to divulge, resulted in the latter being summoned to Director Thomas B. Scandrett's office yesterday afternoon. He had a conference with the director of public safety, but both declined to talk after it was over.

When asked about that "Fourth ward matter," about which Brinker says Wadsworth knows something, the latter said: "I don't know anything about it. Go and see Brinker."

The latter was found and said: "Well, I am surprised at Wadsworth, after what he told me. I have sent word to him, three times, that I want to see him, and each time learned that he was not at his office. He spent Sunday out at the Bean club, near Ross grove, but I know he came back this morning. Perhaps he does not want to see me. If he is taking water there is some reason for it, and that is what I am going to find out."

Supt. Campbell says that if he is given the name of the officer who is said to have accepted $175 for promising protection to women in the Fourth ward who are running disorderly houses, he will make a rigid investigation. Those who know Campbell believe this, as he is considered thoroughly honest and conscientious. Should Wadsworth give certain information to Brinker that the latter may make information, Wyman is likely to find one of his appointees assisting in the prosecution of one of the officers of the police bureau.

LAWYER ASSASSINATED.

New Orleans Attorney Murdered by Former Client Who Also Shot Himself.

NEW ORLEANS, July 20.—District Attorney J. Ward Gurley was assassinated in his office shortly after 10 o'clock today by Louis W. Lyons, formerly a clerk. After shooting the district attorney he turned the weapon on himself and put two bullets into his head. He will die.

Several years ago Lyons was arrested charged with the theft of a diamond pin. He was acquitted and then entered suit for damages, retaining Gurley to represent him. Lyons mortgaged his property to prosecute the suit, but lost the case. He charged Gurley with being responsible and has since been brooding over his troubles."

Mathues Will Get a Horse.

CHESTER, PA., July 20.—(Special.)—The friends of prothonotary and leader, W. L. Mathues, who is now touring Europe, have bought a horse for him to replace the one recently killed by lightning. A reception will be given Mathues upon his return the last of this month.

U. P. Pastor Installed at Woodville.

The Rev. J. F. Scott was installed pastor of the Woodville United Presbyterian church at Woodville last evening. A large number of clergy from nearby districts were among the audience, which numbered several hundred. Mr. Scott graduated from the Western Theological seminary in Allegheny last spring.

DON'T BE FOOLED INTO DOING SOMETHING ELSE.

"After what I have taken and done it is no wonder I am glad of an opportunity to recommend what cured me to my friends.

"I suffered intense agony from gravel for nearly fifteen years.

"For five and six weeks at a time I could not work, the pain was so great. My kidneys and bladder were in horrible shape. My back ached so I could not sleep. I had no appetite at all.

"I tried about every doctor in Syracuse but they failed to help me.

"I used nearly all the advertised medicines without any benefit.

"This was my discouraging condition when I began the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. I used only four bottles and I consider myself cured. I have no backache at all, no pain in passing urine, my appetite is splendid.

"It helped me from the start and I gained twenty pounds in weight."

WELSH WILL ORGANIZE A NATIONAL SOCIETY

Pittsburgh Eisteddfod Association Decides to Take Initiative in the Matter.

At a meeting of the Pittsburgh Eisteddfod association in the Oakland Welsh Presbyterian church last night it was decided that the local society will take up the matter of forming a national association. A meeting will be held September 1 and committees will be appointed to arrange details. During the last eisteddfod held in Pittsburgh on Decoration day officials of many visiting societies urged the Pittsburgh association to take up the matter.

At the meeting the local association decided to secure rooms to be used as headquarters in this city and also adopted a new constitution and by-laws. The new constitution and by-laws are so drawn up that at any time auxillaries are organized they can easily be changed so that the new society can be brought into the Pittsburgh society.

The report of the financial committee of the last eisteddfod was made last night and shows that $2,500 remain in the treasury, and this will be used in arranging for the big international eisteddfod to be held in Pittsburgh in 1905.

A. J. Edwards of Pittsburgh and T. J. Williams of New Castle, Pa., were each presented with a handsome gold medal by the Pittsburgh organization at the meeting as a mark of appreciation of their excellent work as conductors at the recent eisteddfod.

The eisteddfod to be held in Pittsburgh in 1905 will be the first international eisteddfod held in this country.

ITALIAN LANDLORD THINKS LOVER USED STAIRS TO EXTENT OF $20

$12 to pay for daughter using the stairs.
$20 for her sweetheart walking up and down the stairs at all hours.
$13 board for Mastroanni and daughter.

This is the bill which landlord Elio Chiola, an Italian, presented to his fellow-countryman and roomer, Amico Mastricanni, when the latter asked for an accounting of the sums of money he had given the former for safekeeping. The outcome is that the landlord was held yesterday in $500 bail by Alderman Kerr of Lawrenceville on a charge of larceny by bailee.

The arrival of the roomer's pretty daughter, Anna, from Italy seems to have started the trouble in the house. For over a year, with each month's rent, the roomer had given to his landlord some money to keep for him, and the relations had been the most pleasant. Then a couple of weeks ago came pretty Anna and, it is said, she has received frequent visits "at all hours" from her sweetheart, much to the annoyance of the landlord.

When the father went to Landlord Chiola yesterday and asked for the money entrusted to him, he claimed it was $124, but instead of that amount he was given $80 and the bill above. In the hearing the roomer claimed he paid rent for the use of the stairs and that he owed no board bill, as the daughter did all the cooking.

AN OLD FAVORITE ON AT DUQUESNE GARDEN

Planquette's Tuneful "Chimes of Normandy" Is Given a Most Acceptable Presentation.

After a long interval that delightful combination of melody and fun, "The Chimes of Normandy," is again on the stage at Duquesne garden this week. The crowd present to welcome the popular production last night was not only the largest that has been seen at the garden any Monday night this season, but was appreciative to a degree that was most encouraging to both the management and the company. The eloquent snatches of song, the little bits of fanciful romance and the touch of the supernatural that gave to the whole performance a bewitching air of mystery, were all enjoyed in a way that bespeaks a full house at the garden all the week.

If Planquette's tuneful opera had lacked anything in itself that was necessary to win popular favor with a Pittsburgh audience, the company that presented it last night would have put away the notion that anything more was wanted to make it complete.

Miss Margaret Robinson, in the role of the good-for-nothing Serpolette, made a host of friends with her grace and clever singing, just as she did with the Castle Square opera company. Germaine, the other chief attraction among the bewitching village girls, was no less a favorite in the hands of Miss Ethel Balch, this season's prima donna. In his strong presentation of the difficult role of Gaspard, the miser, Jack Martin was a decided success. The larger part of the fun of the evening was furnished by William Corliss, the bailiff, whose "drives" caused no little merriment. The chorus was particularly strong, and in its general interest "The Chimes" was perhaps the greatest success of the season thus far.

Bryan Followers Give Notice.

NEW YORK, July 20.—(Special.)—William J. Bryan's followers in the west have informed the Democratic leaders in this city unofficially that if Col. Franklin Bartlett is nominated for mayor on the Tammany ticket this fall they will oppose him and will send good speakers to take the stump against him. Their hostility to Col. Bartlett arises from the fact that he was a gold Democrat in the campaign of 1896.

UNIONISM IS NOT TEST OF FITNESS

President Orders Reinstatement of Government Printing Office Employe.

UNION HAD EXPELLED HIM

On This Account Public Printer Palmer Dismissed Him—After Investigating the Case the Chief Executive Decided That His Discharge Was Illegal.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, July 20.—William A. Miller on May 18 was removed by the public printer from his position of assistant foreman of the government printing office because he had been expelled from the local union of the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders. Mr. Miller complained to the civil service commission and on July 6 it requested Mr. Miller's reassignment to duty, his removal being contrary to the civil service rules.

Complaint also had been made to the president and by his direction Secretary Cortelyou investigated the matter. On July 13, President Roosevelt wrote as follows:

In accordance with the letter of the civil service commission of July 6, the public printer will reinstate W. A. Miller in his position. Meanwhile I will withhold my final decision of the whole case until I have received the report of the investigation on Miller's second communication, which you notify me has begun today, July 13.

On the face of the papers presented Miller would appear to have been removed in violation of the law. There is no objection of the employes of the government printing office constituting themselves into a body if they desire so to do, but no rules or resolutions of that union can be permitted to override the laws of the United States, which it is my sworn duty to enforce.

Please communicate a copy of this letter to the public printer for his information and that of his subordinates.

The next day the president followed this letter up with the following letter to Secretary Cortelyou:

In connection with my letter of yesterday, I call attention to this judgment and award by the anthracite coal strike commission in its report to me of March 18 last.

"It is adjudged and awarded that no person shall be refused employment or in any way discriminated against on account of membership, or non-membership in any labor organization, and that there shall be no discrimination against or interference with any employe who is not a member of any labor organization by members of such organization."

I heartily approve this award and judgment by the commission appointed by me, which itself included a member of a labor union. This commission was dealing with labor organizations working for private employers. It is of course mere elementary decency to require that all the government departments shall be handled in accordance with the principle thus clearly and fearlessly enunciated.

Please furnish a copy of this letter both to Mr. Palmer and to the civil service commission for their guidance.

It is announced that Public Printer Palmer on Wednesday, July 16, notified Mr. Miller that he had been reinstated and might report for duty any day.

HAVE 2,000-BARREL WELL.

Stephen P. Stone, U. S. Marshal, and His Brothers Strike it Rich Near Van Wert, O.

Stone Brothers of Beaver yesterday brought in a 2,000-barrel oil well near Van Wert, O. The well started to flow about 2 p. m., and the last reports stated that it was keeping up the record it set in its first hours. The greatest excitement is said to prevail in that vicinity as this is the record performance for that field.

The Stone brothers are Stephen P. Stone, United States deputy marshal at Pittsburgh, and Daniel, Charles and James Stone. They have been operating near Van Wert for some time and have put down about a dozen wells. This is the first well to go down on a property of 1,800 acres which they have under option there.

More wells will be drilled at once in that vicinity and the territory thoroughly developed. The oil is high-grade Ohio and is worth now $1.11 the barrel.

Brown alighted upon his head and was picked up for dead. He is 47 years old, has a wife and two children, and is one of the most prominent citizens of Hancock county.

OPENED SPEAKEASY WITH WHISKEY FROM FLOOD

Foreigners Routed After Conducting an Illicit Saloon Near Irwin.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

IRWIN, PA., July 20.—Pennsylvania secret service offices, in company with local officials, discovered a speakeasy in the woods near Larimer, today, that had been in operation since two days after the Brush creek flood. A tip was given a few days ago that men were going into the woods and coming away from the place with bottles and jugs filled with liquor.

The railroad men who were on the hunt for freight washed down the creek when the Pennsylvania station was destroyed by the flood, finally heard about the speakeasy and made an investigation. They found that several foreigners had a barrel of whisky set up in a dense thicket and were disposing of it at cut rates either by the glass or in larger quantities. Marks on the barrel showed that it had been in the freight house here before the flood.

The men showed fight, but they were soon put to rout. When the barrel was discovered it was only about half full. It is thought that this was the second barrel disposed of and that they diluted the liquor occasionally to make the "good thing" last as long as possible.

ONE MAN IS KILLED AND FOUR ARE INJURED

Locomotive Crashes Into a Car Occupied by Workmen Near Uhrichsville.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

UHRICHSVILLE, O., July 20.—In a wreck on the Royal Southern railroad here this morning one man was instantly killed, one fatally injured and three seriously hurt.

THE DEAD.

ELISHA TYLER, 77 years old, of Uhrichsville, neck broken.

THE INJURED.

LOUIS GRAY, 35 years old, head cut and injured internally; may not recover.

JEFFERSON MURPHY, 30 years old, left arm broken, bruises.

THOMAS PATTERSON, 31 years old, cut and bruised.

PETER SPEILMAN, 28 years old, knee cap fractured, many bruises.

All the injured men live in Uhrichsville and are employed at the factory of the Royal Fire Clay Company at Midvale, three miles north of here. The Royal Southern connects this factory with the Pannandle railroad here. The yard engine carries the men to and from work.

Last night when the men were brought down a car was taken north of town and left on the track so some building blocks could be unloaded. The engine was to pick the car up this morning and bring it to Uhrichsville. About a dozen men got into this car this morning to ride to their work at the factory. They were there but a short time when the engine shot around a curve and ran into the car. All but five of the men escaped by jumping.

George Van Pelt, who was running the engine, claims that the air would not work and he could not stop the engine. The men were unconscious of danger and had no chance to escape. Tyler's remains were brought to his home here and the other men had their injuries dressed at the scene of the wreck and were brought to Uhrichsville.

FOUND DEATH IN MINE.

Superintendent Loses Life in Attempt to Rescue Two Employes.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., July 20.—(Special.)—While attempting to rescue two of his men from a fire in the Wharton mines here today, Supt. Shaw lost his life. He sent Patrick Holleran and Fred Holmes down a shaft to find out the condition of affairs.

They were down some time when Shaw became uneasy and went down to see what was detaining them, but he failed to reappear, and the other men organized a rescue party and started down the shaft. They found Holmes and Holleran under a pump in shaft No. 7, both striving to save themselves from suffocation. Shaw was found under another shaft, about 2,000 feet from where he had entered the mine. The three men were hoisted out of the mine and medical aid was summoned. The physicians brought Holleran and Holmes around all right but Shaw was too far gone. He is survived by his widow and four children.

"But, how can you afford to give 20 to 50% discount from your marked prices?" We can't afford it, in one sense—we can in another. To be true, every $10 or $12 suit sold for 6.00, or $15 or $18 suit for 10.00, or $25 or $30 suit for 16.00, means a loss to us if taken by itself. But, we can well afford to stand this temporary loss, if thereby we make a new friend, and at the same time reduce our stock before the season becomes too far advanced.

To atone for any deficiencies that might have existed in our stock after such lively selling as occurred here last week, we've just brought down several thousand more suits from our reserve stock rooms.

A shirt sale and an underwear sale at 59c

WE'RE distancing all previous records in shirt selling. The intelligent, bargain-discerning economy-wise men of Pittsburgh are championing this sale, for they realize the fact that they gain the difference between the regular prices of these shirts and 59c—and that amounts to a great deal when one stops to consider the fact that throughout the country men's furnishing stores are charging $1, $1.50, $2 and $2.50 for the mates of those included in this sale. Surely 59c won't pinch your purse and you'll be wise to lay in a stock for wholesale needs later on. Materials are the best and include madras, percale, dimity, zephyr and jacquard. Soft negligee styles for comfort during hot days—To add zest to the sale we have contributed hundreds of dozens of new styles, patterns and colors from which you can choose without restriction for only

59c

YOU'D consider yourself lucky if you found a dollar bill on the street—here's better luck than that. You will find a saving of almost a dollar on every undershirt or drawers you buy here today. We are going to close out a lot of high class underwear comprising some 200 dozen of the best quality silk lisle and mercerized silk French underwear for men; the coolest and most comfortable undergarments made—look like pure silk, but wear much better. The shirts come in short or long sleeves, all form fitting, while the drawers are made with all the new improvements; colors are flesh, blue, white and heliotrope. This underwear is the proper kind to wear in tropical weather and will spare you much exhaustion. How long this 200 dozen will last is conjectural, but the price we've decided on for today should make quick work of them. Unrestricted choice,

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, July 20.—Pittsburgh's champion ball players met their second defeat of the series with Selee's Microbes this afternoon. The game was hard fought from start to finish, and, although the locals had a lead at all times, they were never sure of victory until the end of the first half of the ninth, when big Hans Wagner failed to make the hit that would have won the game for Pittsburgh and left the score 3 to 2 in favor of Chicago.

It was a contest with plenty of batting and brilliant individual plays on both sides. The locals were more fortunate than the visiting team with their stock work and bunched hits in the third inning that gave them the three runs and a lead that the champions were unable to overcome, although they were dangerously near to it several times.

Heady work on the part of Jimmy Casey undoubtedly saved the score from being tied in the seventh. Leever had hit an ugly bounding drive to Harley that brought in the visitors two runs and allowed him three bases. Beaumont then hit a hard one to Casey, who grabbed it and tagged Leever before the latter could get back to third. Again, in the next inning, Jones made a brilliant throw to first after taking in Ritchey's fly, and by so doing caught Leever, who had gone near to second.

Jake Weimer was in the box for the locals, and at all times pitched a good, steady game. He was hit rather hard at times, but was well supported. He was opposed by Leever, and the pitchers were evenly matched at all times, with the exception of the third, when Leever was sounded hard. Weimer struck out two of the Pirates and should have had three but for the failure of Elberfeld to hold on to the ball, and then made a bad throw to first. The local man stands high among the National league pitchers, and his work today proved him the coming standby of the locals.

It was Weimer who started the scoring in the third inning. He hit safely, was advanced to second by Slagle's single and scored on a beautiful drive to center that brought in Weimer and sent Slagle to third. Chance followed with a single, scoring, and Casey was nipped at the plate. Dolan's first baseman stole second, went to third on Jones' put-out and scored on Evers' single. Evers tried to steal second and was caught out.

The Pittsburghers made their two runs in the seventh. Kruger singled, Weaver was given a pass, and then came the three-bagger of Leever that brought in both runners. It was a mighty swat to right that kept just inside the foul line. In the ninth the visitors got a man on second on a single and a two-base hit. It was Wagner's turn to bat, and there was great trepidation among the fans for fear he would tear off a hit and win the game. The best he could do, however, was to rap a hard grounder to Tinker and go out. The score:

Donovan's Team Found Hahn in the Eighth.

ST. LOUIS, July 20.—St. Louis won today's game from Cincinnati by bunching five hits in the eighth inning. This, coupled with two errors by Hahn, gave St. Louis five runs and the game. NEW YORK, July 20.—New York and Cleveland played a double-header here today. Griffith pitched very steadily during the first game, while Joss made two errors and weakened at critical stages, the home team winning by 7 to 3. In the second game Wolfe was holding the visitors well in hand when he strained a tendon in his pitching arm during the fourth inning and Chesbro relieved him in the fifth. The change was unlucky for the locals, as the visitors scored two runs off Chesbro in this inning. The scores:

Alexander Defended Title.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., July 20.—Fred B. Alexander of New York successfully defended his title as champion tennis player of New York state by defeating R. G. Hunt of California in hollow style here this afternoon. The score of the sets were 6-3, 6-1, 6-0. The Californian boy was clearly off color and was easy for the New Yorker. H. E. Avery of New York won the handicap singles and P. Cole of Hartford, Conn., won the consolation singles.

Jack McClelland To Meet The Mexican Fighter

Jack McClelland, the local champion featherweight, is to meet Aurelia Herrera, the Mexican, in Salt Lake City during the latter part of August. "Biddy" Bishop, manager of Herrera, yesterday wired James Mason, McClelland's manager, offering liberal inducements to have the Pittsburgh boy go to Salt Lake City to meet the Mexican. No definite date was designated in the telegram that Mason received, but the fight will very likely take place some time the latter part of next month.

Herrera, who has come to the front recently, because he has been plugging along for the past few years meeting the best men that he could get matches with, is very anxious to meet McClelland. The Mexican's last battle was with "Kid" Broad of Cleveland, whom he defeated handily. Since that time many of the pugilists in his division have been staying away from him. It has been no easy matter for his manager to arrange matches for him. However, McClelland is ready at all times to meet any good man, and he will lose no time in preparing for the mill.

THE SEA GULL STAKES TAKEN BY ASTARITA

Those Backing Her Got Nice Odds—Steward Fined Many Trainers for Being Tardy.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, July 20.—The Mexican stables Astarita, with Hicks up, won the Sea Gull stakes at Brighton Beach today. The Bathampton filly opened at 6 to 5 in the betting, but so little was thought of her chances that her price drifted back to 2 to 1. She was carrying the heavy impost of 121 pounds, and handled it in clever fashion. Getting off in front and gradually increasing her lead to the finish she won easily by two lengths from Futurita, who was one and a half lengths from the 50 to 1 shot, Stamping Ground. The 7 to 10 favorite, Mamie Worth, was badly interfered with and finished back in the ruck.

The following trainers were fined $200 for being late in arriving in the paddock with their horses: M. Daly, J. Meagan, J. Hennessey, F. Grace, M. Malone, H. Lewis, Jr., W. C. Wentz, who is one of the best known and popular managers in the local ranks, will have a strong line up. C. and Infielder Martin will also stick in that old outfit. Any strong teams after games would do well by addressing Wentz. His postoffice box number, Pittsburgh, is 542.

Canadian Expert Won Cup.

RISLEY, ENGLAND, July 20.—In the Keystone Burgundy competition (for a silver cup valued at $210 and $225 in money prizes, distance 1,000 yards, 10 shots each) Capt. Elliott of Canada was first, with a score of 47. Private George Cook, Fifth regiment, District of Columbia, and Spearing of Canada scored 45 and 44 respectively.

MERRITT HAD A FIGHT WITH DE MONTREVILLE

Reason Why He Is to Be Returned to Pittsburgh—Kid Williams at Waynesburg.

If George Merritt, the young pitcher turned over to the Worcester Eastern league by Pittsburgh, early this spring, is returned, it will not be because of incompetency but the result of a fight he had with Capt. Gene DeMontreville. It was reported from the east that Merritt was not making good and that he would be returned. Charlie McCloskey, the Homestead shortstop, who was with Providence, but returned to Homestead when broken fingers put him out of the game, said yesterday that Merritt was playing fine ball and that the whole gist of the trouble, he believed, was that he had engaged in a run with DeMontreville. They were not playing in harmony, McCloskey said, and the ill feeling which manifested itself at the least provocation, culminated in a fight between them. McCloskey, being a member of the more authority and did not suffer as badly as did Merritt with the club owners.

"I was at Worcester with Providence when Merritt and DeMontreville came to blows," said McCloskey, "and this I believe is the reason Worcester is trying to get Merritt away. It is a case of upholding a captain or a player, from the standpoint of being protected by the management. Merritt is playing good ball, and I fail to see why such a report should be started that he is not fast enough for the Eastern league."

"Kid" Williams, the old Millvale pitcher, has left Altoona to join Frank Haller's bunch at Waynesburg. Williams, who has had offers from many minor leagues this season, reported to Waynesburg on Saturday and played left field against the Ford club which Lew Wentz had there. Waynesburg and Washington play this afternoon at Waynesburg, and he is to be on the slab for the home team. Last year Williams is ranked as one of the leading pitchers in the semi-professional circle. He, however, does not like to stay any length of time in one locality, as his home is in Ed Hickey, who announced his retirement from the game recently when he quit Etna, has reconsidered his determination to step down and out, and will put a team in the old stamping grounds. In this event it would not be surprising to see Williams again with him.

Lew Wentz will have his old P. A. C. team in the field for the opening game will probably be with Etna at Etna. Wentz, who is one of the best known and popular managers in the local ranks, will have a strong line up. Morris, the youngster who has been pitching great ball in Greenville, but who will not stay with Wentz. Jimmy McClaren, now with Waynesburg, will return this week to P. A. C. and Infielder Martin will also stick instead of going out. Any strong teams after games would do well by addressing Wentz. His postoffice box number, Pittsburgh, is 542.

IT SHOWERED AGAIN.

Brunots Island Races Are Again Postponed.

Racing by the Matinee club was again postponed at Brunots island because of rain yesterday afternoon. The well-chosen program of Saturday was to have been carried out, but before the time of the first heat the weather made the track too bad for use.

The Florence Bell made a trip to the island shortly after 1 o'clock, with a fair crowd, and returned with them at 3:30. Weather permitting, the program will be trotted and paced next Saturday afternoon.

RELIANCE BEATEN AGAIN.

Constitution Becoming Dangerous Rival for Cup Defender.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 20.—The Constitution is rapidly becoming a dangerous rival of the Reliance for the honor of defending the trophy, for the older boat defeated the new one in today's run of 37 miles, the third of the New York Yacht Club's cruises from New London by 1 minute 29 seconds, availing herself of her time allowance, estimated at about 2 minutes and 17 seconds.

This is the second time on the present cruise that the Constitution has won from her rival on time allowance, and while the victory on the first occasion from Glen Cove to New Haven was due in some measure to changeable breezes, the conditions today were as fair for one as the other.

MAGNATES DECIDE FOR PEACE PACT.

Elberfeld Can Play With New York American and Court Will Act on Davis' Case.

PULLIAM WILL NOT RESIGN

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, July 20.—President Harry Pulliam of the National league received a decided setback tonight at the session of that body at the Victoria hotel.

After a stormy session the magnates agreed to stick to the peace compact made with the American league, decided that Elberfeld was eligible to play with the New York American league team and that George Davis should not play until his standing had been settled by the court.

The magnates had been in session all day, and, judging from the look of anger on the faces of some of them during the recess, the fight had been a bitter one. President Pulliam, when the meeting ended, said he would not resign. "What's the use of further multiplying the president's troubles," he said.

The magnates declared in favor of a new national agreement between all the baseball men.

FIELD CLUB WINS.

Pittsburgh Cricketers Beat the Champion Chicago Wanderers in Opening Match.

CHICAGO, July 20.—(Special.)—The Chicago Wanderers, champions of the Northwest Cricket association, were beaten in their opening match in the annual tournament of the association today on their grounds at Parkside, Pittsburgh accomplishing their downfall by a margin of 31 runs. Pittsburgh batted first, a finely compiled inning of 43 by Bissell and some good hitting by MacPherson being the features. The total of 101 was not thought too large for the home eleven. Hansell did fine work behind the wicket. Scores:

Not Working Well.

NEW YORK, July 20.—(Special.)—The match race between McChesney and Waterboy is dragging along. It looks rather doubtful, judging from the actions of the advisers of McChesney. The horse breezed half a mile this morning in about 53 seconds. This is not the kind of a trial the horse will need. A horse to run a mile and a quarter on Wednesday. Several horsemen are on from Chicago, and they think that McChesney is not nearly at himself. He does not look like himself.

"If I deposit upon how McChesney works tomorrow morning whether he will start or not on Wednesday against Waterboy in the special race at Brighton," said Sam Hildreth today. "I shall work him the day before the race, and if he does not show well I shall ask Mr. Smathers to excuse him from the race."

LIFE AND CHARACTERISTICS OF THE LATE PONTIFF

EVENTFUL LIFE OF LATE POPE

Leo XIII. Was Devoted to the Church from His Childhood.

HE WAS BORN IN 1810

Became a Cardinal in 1853 and Pope in 1878—Gained Proud Position for the Church.

HE NEVER BROOKED ADVISERS

Giochano Pecci, who at the age of 68 became Pope Leo XIII., was born on March 2, 1810, at Carpineto, in the diocese of Anagni, Italy, already famous as the birthright of four popes—Innocent III., Gregory IX., Alexander IV. and Bonifface VII. He was a member of an old and illustrious family of Siena.

Ludovico Pecci, father of Leo XIII., was a colonel in the French service, under Napoleon I. He died in 1833. His wife, the mother of the pope was of the Prospero Buzzi family of Cori, not far from Rome. She died in 1824.

There were four children by this marriage, three sons and one daughter.

When quite a child young Pecci took kindly to his books, and under the Jesuits he became one of the finest Latin scholars of the age. He was early sent to Rome for his studies, and he gained youthful fame as a disputant for his degrees in the Roman college and the Sapienza. He then entered the Academy of Noble Ecclesiastics. His youth was a series of academical triumphs. Perhaps he might have remained a scholar and nothing more, but in the third decade of his life he fell under the influence—one would rather say rose to the influence—of the famous Cardinal Odescalchi, a man who in another age might have played the great part of Ignatius Loyola. He was ordained priest on December 23, 1837, being already a lay prelate in the household of Gregory XVI. He was appointed one of the domestic chaplains to Pope Gregory on March 16, 1837.

In 1838 he was sent to govern the Delegations (province) of Benebenta. From Benevento Pecci was transferred to the important province of Perugia, where he conducted himself with similar boldness and integrity. He was then nominated to be apostolic delegate at Spoleto, but never entered on that charge, for he was dispatched to Brussels in 1843 to act as nuncio to Belgium. At the same time he was created archbishop of Damiata in partibus infidelium. On December 10, 1853, Pecci was created cardinal. On July 8, 1877, he succeeded Cardinal de Angelis as camerlengo or high chamberlain of the Roman church. In this position he displayed the same firmness and activity that had characterized his lifelong connection with the church.

Elected to the Papacy.

Pope Pius IX. died on February 7, 1878. Pecci, in his capacity as Camerlengo, acted as head of the church in temporal matters, made the arrangements for the obsequies of Pope Pius, received the Catholic ambassadors and superintended the preparations for the conclave. Sixty-two cardinals attended the conclave, which was held February 18, 1878. The sacred college was divided into two parties. One, called the "zealots," was led by Cardinal Billo, and the second, the "moderates," by Cardinal Pecci. There were three ballotings, which, on good authority, are said to have been as follows:

First ballot—Cardinal Pecci, 17 votes; Cardinal Billo, 6 votes; Cardinal di Lucca, 5 votes; Cardinal Ferrieri, 4 votes; Cardinal Franchi, 4 votes; Cardinal Monaco de la Valetta, 4 votes; the rest scattering.

Second ballot—Cardinal Pecci, 35 votes. No other cardinal exceeded six votes. Cardinal Martinelli gained two votes, making three for this ballot.

Third ballot—Cardinal Pecci, 44 votes. The remaining votes were distributed as follows: Eleven were given to Cardinal Franchi, 3 to Cardinal Mertel, 2 to Cardinal Simeoni, 1 to Cardinal Bonaparte, and 1 to Cardinal Ledochowski.

At the end of this ballot Cardinals Franchi and Billo rose and with their adherents knelt before the Camerlengo. Every one followed this example, and Cardinal Pecci, having already received two votes beyond the necessary majority, was unanimously elected pope.

Then he was asked by what title he would like to be proclaimed. "Proclaim me as Leo XIII.," he replied.

Cardinal de Bonnechose used to tell this story of the conclave: "Cardinal Pecci, who, the previous evening, had received the largest number of votes, was, on that Wednesday morning, pale and agitated. He went to one of the members of the Sacred college, in whom he had every confidence, and said to him before the opening of the ballot: 'I cannot restrain myself. I feel the necessity of speaking to the Sacred college; I fear it may commit an error. People have given me the reputation of a learned doctor; I am believed to be a savant; I am not. I am pressed to have the qualities necessary to be a pope. I know what I am and what I wish to say to the cardinals.' Fortunately his interlocuter replied: 'As to your doctrine, you have not to judge of it, but us; as to your qualities for the papacy, God knows them, but let Him act.' He obeyed, and soon, the number of votes given to him having exceeded the two-thirds of the total, he was named pope."

The Coronation.

The coronation of his holiness Pope Leo XIII. was performed in the Sistine chapel, with the pomp and circumstance formerly attending the ceremonial in St. Peter's, only fewer were not public, inasmuch as the limited space did not permit general admission, and for the same reason no tickets were issued. The Sala Ducale was fitted up as a chapel, and the Pauline chapel was arranged for those preliminary portions of the ceremonial formerly performed in the Clementine and Sistine chapels of St. Peter's before the pope went up to the high altar to be crowned. The ceremony was attended by all the ambassadors and ministers accredited to the Holy See, while the ladies present, by all the Roman nobility counted among the faithful, by the duke and duchess of Parma and suite, who occupied the royal tribune, and by three or four hundred ladies and gentlemen, as many only as the tribune could hold without crowding. At half-past nine his holiness, attended by the pontifical court, the college of cardinals and a large number of bishops and other ecclesiastical dignitaries, entered the Sala Regia.

Having taken his seat on the throne erected there, he received homage from the cardinals, and, rising, pronounced the words "Sit nomen Domini benedictum," giving the first benediction. The preliminary ceremonies being completed the procession formed and passed out into the Sala Regia to the Pauline chapel, and thence again through the Sala Regia to the Sistine. As the pope and his cortege came through the great door from the Sala Ducale into the Sala Regia, they formed a group far exceeding in magnificent effect anything of the same kind ever seen in St. Peter's in past times. Having descended from the sedia gestatoria in the middle of the Sistine chapel, the pope, after a brief prayer, commenced the introit of the mass, which on this occasion is celebrated by him.

At the end of the confession the first cardinal deacon placed a gold mitre on the pope's head, and he ascended the throne, which stood as of old on a dais at the left side. The first cardinal bishop then recited the customary three prayers over him, after which he arose and, going to the foot of the altar, knelt on the step, while the first cardinal deacon removed his tiara and the second invested him with a pontifical pallium. This done, the pope reascended the throne, when the Sacred college and all the ecclesiastics present went up to pay him homage, the cardinals kissing his foot and his hand and receiving from him the double embrace. The bishops kissed his foot and right knee, and others his foot only. The mass then proceeded. At the conclusion of the mass the pope gave the benediction in front of the altar and then returned to the throne to receive the tiara.

The act of crowning the pope was comparatively simple. Cardinal Borromeo, assisting as deacon at mass, first pronounced over him a prayer. The second cardinal deacon then removed the mitre from his head, and the first placed the tiara upon it again. Leo XIII. then rose and, wearing the tiara on his head, raised his arms aloft and gave benediction. After the benediction he left the throne for the sedia gestatoria, and, carried aloft upon it, still wearing the tiara, his head with his hands, giving it first to the one side and then to the other, those kneeling around as he was borne to the chapel.

Leo's Firm Policy.

The late pope's first acts after his elevation to the papacy produced a favorable impression, because they denoted an enlightened mind and a character at once firm and moderate. He found religious matters compromised and gravely troubled in various parts of the globe. He was anxious to end the crisis. Thus, on the very day of his election, in notifying his advent to the throne to the cabinets of Russia, Germany, Switzerland and Brazil, he took the initiative in favor of conciliation, and formally expressed a desire to smooth the difficulties which disturbed the peace religious.

Toward the Italian government the attitude of Leo XIII. was full of reserve and dignity. He was anxious to settle the conflict concerning the Italian occupation of Rome by the bishops and the due notification demanded by the government. Leo XIII. prudently pointed out the urgent necessity of ending this dispute.

Leo XIII. gained for the Catholic church the proud position in the world, not only as prince of the church, but as prince of peace. Europe acknowledged that for many decades no such far-seeing head as Leo XIII. has worn the triple crown, and that, excepting Prince Bismarck, no layman in Europe has shown such skill in the most delicate diplomatic negotiations as the late pope. See all that he has done. His successes in his negotiations with the German chancellor, and the remarkable foresight shown in his dealings with Spain and in putting the holy see into friendly relations with republican France, showed his skillfulness and rare diplomatic sense. As prince of peace he was called upon to settle the most difficult problems. Under his guidance the bitter Kulturkampf that raged in Germany since the year 1870 was ended.

Leo brooked no advisers, and neither asked nor expected any human aid. He had a will of his own and followed no other. His own line of conduct was traced long before his accession. He had no worldly policy; his reign was not of this world; his trust was not in princes; his gendarmes and Swiss guards were only an encumbrance and a vexation to him; he had faith in his priestly office—in his office as guardian of God's truth and herald of God's word. He bade Christians fight unbelief with his own weapons; he taught them how to meet the sophisms of man's science with the sounder arguments of God's knowledge; he would set Aaron's rod against the rod of the magicians, and he pointed to Louvain as the mansion of truth against which the gates of hell could not prevail.

It was unarmed faith, he thought, the reasoning, and not the militant church, which rules Belgium; and if Belgium, why not one day France? Why not eventually Italy? Spread true light among the people; combat error by dispelling ignorance; win the masses over to the eternal, unchangeable truth; base morality on heaven's law; bid God's kingdom come; make God's will the people's will, and what king or parliament, asked the pope, could stand against it? What array of civil authority or of military power could avail against the unarmed authority, the unassuming yet irresistible ascendancy of the church? Such was Pope Leo's views of his mission so far as it can be made out from his precedents as a bishop and from his acts as a pontiff.

His Personal Appearance.

Pope Leo XIII. entered his pontificate in the sixty-eighth year of his age, a long-tried prelate, whose strength of character, energy, judgment, piety, virtues and services are matters of record. He united in admirably proportioned degrees the apostolic mildness with the administrative rigor; he made himself at the same time loved and feared. Personally, he was a man of stately bearing. His voice was sonorous and brilliant when he preached, and slightly nasal in familiar conversation.

Leo XIII. was a tall man, rather spare in build, but nevertheless of strong, wiry physique. His presence was most commanding. His head was very large and thoroughly Italian, and the forehead was massive, high and rather straight, and was especially striking from its great width, indicative of intellectual strength. The thin hair that streaked it was of silver hue. The eyebrows were dark and heavy and of perfect arch, and the eyes were singularly mild and soft and at the same time penetrating and searching. The large, well defined nose was characteristic of firmness and will power, decidedly Roman in shape, but with wide nostrils that were credited by physiognomists with bold leonine qualities.

His handwriting is peculiar enough to excite interest even if it were not that of the pope. It is exceedingly small and of very careful, laborious construction, as if each of the infinitesimal characters was formed with the most painstaking care. In its airy delicacy it resembles a lady's hand, but the mosaic elaboration of every stroke has something highly scholastic about it. Under the slender signature the pope leaves half an inch of vacant space and then completes it by five dashes, growing successively smaller and smaller.

In April, 1888, Leo XIII. issued a decree against the Parnellite "plan of campaign" and against boycotting, the cardinals of the supreme congregation of the inquisition having decided adversely to such means of warfare. The promulgation of this edict called forth a strong protest from Ireland. In July, 1888, he issued his famous encyclicals against Socialism and on the labor question. In 1890 he pleaded for church unity, and in 1891 he gave forth his famous encyclical on labor.

In January, 1893, the pope's long expected encyclical to the church in this country was made public. Mgr. Satolli was appointed apostolic delegate to America in January, 1893, which position he held until his election as cardinal, when he was succeeded by Archbishop Martinelli, and in this encyclical the full scope of his work was defined. In the document his holiness also expressed disapproval of labor riots and further discussed the relations of Catholics to secret societies and of journalists to the bishops.

SOME RADICAL ACTS OF THE LATE POPE LEO

Ireland, Socialism, Labor, Liberty and Christian Unity Received His Attention.

In April, 1888, Leo XIII. issued a decree against the Parnellite "plan of campaign" and against boycotting, the cardinals of the supreme congregation of the inquisition having decided adversely to such means of warfare. The promulgation of this edict called forth a strong protest from Ireland.

In July, 1888, he issued his famous encyclical on "Liberty," the chief points of which are:

"Liberty is liable to abuse. Modern 'liberties' are abuses. Natural liberty belongs to men as rational beings. It is derived from the soul. It is, therefore, dependent upon the intellect. True liberty, therefore, follows the dictates of the intellect. Liberty needs to be helped by law. This law is an eternal law. The individual law applied to society becomes human law. Liberty is, therefore, restrained by obedience—(a) in the individual, to the natural law; (b) in society, to the human law.

"Liberalism bears evil fruits. God allows evil for greater good. Rulers should keep this example before them. But liberalism allows no tolerance. Man should submit to God, which liberalism does not allow. One form of liberalism wishes to separate the church from the state, and allow the church to work thus separated. Another liberalism gives any power to the church further than it allows to others. Some wish the church to go with the times. All these opinions are false and should be substituted by the true doctrine previously laid down. The church desires her rights under certain conditions, to take part in public affairs if possible. Saving faith and morals, she approves every kind of government."

On Socialism.

In his encyclical against Socialism, January, 1879, the pope said: "We now speak of those sects of men who, under different and almost barbarous names, are called Socialists, Communists or Nihilists, and who, scattered through the whole world and closely bound together by an unholy alliance, no longer seek to hide themselves in the darkness of secret cabals, but openly advance in full daylight and labor to achieve their purpose, long since formed, of undermining the foundation of all civil society.

"Seduced by that greed for worldly things which is 'the root of all evil,' which, while many have coveted, they have erred from the faith,' they attack the right of property sanctioned by natural law, and, by an abominable crime, while they pretend to provide for all the necessities and desires of men, they labor to take from him and render common all that is acquired, either by legitimate inheritance or by labor of mind or body, or by economy."

The Labor Problem.

During the same year, the pope addressed to all the rulers in Christendom an unusually important encyclical, in which the labor question occupied a very prominent part. His holiness had long hoped that before the end of his pontificate it would be his privilege to bring about a better understanding between capitalists and workingmen, or, rather, between the so-called masses and classes, and in this encyclical he pointed out those steps which, in his opinion, might well be taken with the object of attaining such a desirable result. Among other things he says:

"A strike can be justified only as a means of defense when an individual's interest is attacked. Never can it be justified as a collective arm of aggression. * * * The operative on strike is a passive and dominated instrument, not an intelligent and free being. While his action lessens the capital of the employer, it puts no money into his own pocket. * * * The right of protecting the operative, whether in the factory or in the field, shall be admitted, and for this purpose the maximum of labor as well as the minimum of salary shall be fixed. The hours of labor shall be arranged, giving due attention to days of rest and abstention from labor. Laws have been made almost universally for the protection of women and children laboring in factories and elsewhere, but in how many cases have those laws been enforced? Inspectors of works should be appointed everywhere whose duties should be to see that these laws are not infringed."

In 1891, the pope maintained that employers should try to understand the aims and desires of their workingmen and should not leave to unscrupulous agitators the monopoly of social reform. He also claimed that Christianity is the sole bulwark of social order and that infidelity is the great stimulant of anarchy and discontent.

Unity Among Christians.

In the following year he issued another notable encyclical, in which he pleaded earnestly for unity among Christians, his words being specially addressed to Protestants and Catholics. In it, too, he clearly defined the limits which in his judgment should separate the respective spheres of the church and state.

Masonry he denounced as a grave peril, claiming that, "under cover of protecting the rights of man and reforming society, it assails Christian institutions." And he continues:

"It repudiates all revealed doctrines and religious duties. Sacraments it blames as superstitious. Marriage, the idea of family, the education of youth, it strives to deprive of their Christian character, aiming also at the destruction of the popular respect for Divine and human power. The cult it orders is the cult of nature. And it holds as the principles of nature as the one measure and the one rule of truth, honesty and justice."

The Church in America.

In January, 1895, the pope's long expected encyclical to the church in this country was made public. Mgr. Satolli was appointed apostolic delegate to America in January, 1893, which position he held until his election as cardinal, when he was succeeded by Archbishop Martinelli, and in this encyclical the full scope of his work was defined. In the document his holiness also expressed disapproval of labor riots, and further discussed the relations of Catholics to secret societies and of journalists to the bishops. On these points he says:

"The Roman pontiff, since he cannot personally visit the different regions and thus exercise the pastoral office over the flock intrusted to him, finds it necessary from time to time to dispatch delegates into different parts of the world, according as the need arises, who, supplying his place, may correct errors, make the rough ways plain and administer to the people confided to their care increased means of salvation. But how unjust and baseless would be the suspicion, should any exist, that the powers conferred on the legate are an obstacle to the authority of the bishops. Sacred to us (more than any others are the rights of those whom the Holy Ghost has placed as bishops to rule the Church of God.' That these rights should remain intact in every nation, in every part of the globe, we both desire and ought to desire, since the dignity of the individual bishops is by nature so intertwined with the dignity of the Roman pontiff that any measure which benefits the one necessarily protects the other. * * *

"Every effort should be made to increase the number of intelligent and well disposed writers who take religion for their guide and virtue for their constant companion. The bishops, placed in the lofty positions of authority, are to be obeyed, and suitable honors, befitting the magnitude and sanctity of their office, should be paid them. Now this reverence, 'which it is lawful to no one to neglect, should of necessity be eminently conspicuous and exemplary in Catholic journalists, for journals naturally circulating far and wide, come daily into the hands of everybody and exert no small influence upon the opinions and morals of the multitude.'"

In February, 1896, the pope startled the entire Catholic world in his open letter to Cardinal Vaughan in behalf of the fathers oppressed disapprobation of what the French and Italian clergy had termed "Americanism" among the faithful in the United States. A translation of The Life of Father Hecker, founder of the Paulist order in New York, had given occasion to the charge that a portion of the American hierarchy leaned too much toward a liberal policy to church discipline and to innovations in religious rule that seemed to threaten the integrity of Catholic doctrine. The friends of the Paulists insisted that the French translation had done serious injustice to the views really held by Father Hecker and his biographer, and to those among the bishops of the Catholic hierarchy who had approved of them. They claimed that there was nothing in the pope's letter which really condemned their teachings, but only the French misunderstanding of those teachings. The pope, however, evidently felt that the pope had declared himself on the side of conservatism as against the more progressive element in Catholic America, and there were corresponding rejoicing among the exponents of a more reactionary policy.

FAVORABLE OPINION OF LEO XIII. FROM FIRST

Gained for Catholic Church a Proud Position in the World. His Policies.

The late pope's first acts after his elevation to the papacy produced a favorable impression, because they denoted an enlightened mind and a character at once firm and moderate. He found religious matters compromised and gravely troubled in various parts of the globe. He was anxious to end the crisis. Thus, on the very day of his election, in notifying his advent to the throne to the cabinets of Russia, Germany, Switzerland and Brazil, he took the initiative in favor of conciliation, and formally expressed a desire to smooth the difficulties which disturbed the peace religious. In several oriental communities—Chaldea, Armenia and Malabar—Pope Pius IX. thought it his duty to modify the discipline which had been observed from the earliest days of Christianity in regard to the election of bishops and patriarchs. The grant of Leto-ran, under Innocent III., had confirmed this ancient discipline, and the orientals, in reuniting around the Holy See, have always reserved to themselves the patriarchal rights (jure patriarcharum). The bulls of Pius IX. served as a pretext for the fomenting of dissensions which, ultimately became a deplorable hierarchical schism. Leo XIII. speedily took measures to re-establish peace among these oriental communities.

Toward the Italian government the attitude of Leo XIII. was full of reserve and dignity. He was anxious to settle the conflict concerning the taking possession of their sees by the bishops and the due notification demanded by the government. Leo XIII. prudently pointed out the urgent necessity of ending this dispute. On the other hand, he abstained from all puerile provocation and took no heed of interested representations, addresses, speeches fired with political allusions, or other incidents likely to embitter or prolong the contest. It was more a matter of interest with him to consider the modus vivendi with the Italian government than to discuss the problem of the permanence of the pontifical court at Rome or its emigration from the peninsula, supposing that circumstances should require this momentous estrangement.

Leo XIII. was for the Catholic church a proud position in the world, not only as prince of the church, but as prince of peace. Europe acknowledged that for many decades no such far-seeing head as Leo XIII. has worn the triple crown, and that excepting Prince Bismarck, no layman in Europe has shown such skill in the most delicate diplomatic negotiations as the late pope. See all that he has done. His successes in his negotiations with the German chancellor, and the remarkable foresight shown in his dealings with Spain and in putting the holy see into friendly relations with republican France, showed his skillfulness and rare diplomatic sense. As prince of peace he was called upon to settle the most difficult problems. Under his guidance the bitter Kulturkampf that raged in Germany since the year 1870 was ended.

Leo brooked no advisers, and neither asked nor expected any human aid. He had a will of his own and followed no other. His own line of conduct was traced long before his accession. He had no worldly policy; his reign was not of this world; his trust was not in princes; his gendarmes and Swiss guards were only an encumbrance and a vexation to him; he had faith in his priestly office—in his office as guardian of God's truth and herald of God's word. He bade Christians fight unbelief with his own weapons; he taught them how to meet the sophisms of man's science with the sounder arguments of God's knowledge; he would set Aaron's rod against the rod of the magicians, and he pointed to Louvain as the mansion of truth against which the gates of hell could not prevail.

It was unarmed faith, he thought, the reasoning, and not the militant church, which rules Belgium; and if Belgium, why not one day France? Why not eventually Italy? Spread true light among the people; combat error by dispelling ignorance; win the masses over to the eternal, unchangeable truth; base morality on heaven's law; bid God's kingdom come; make God's will the people's will, and what king or parliament, asked the pope, could stand against it? What array of civil authority or of military power could avail against the unarmed authority, the unassuming yet irresistible ascendancy of the church? Such was Pope Leo's views of his mission so far as it can be made out from his precedents as a bishop and from his acts as a pontiff.

His Personal Appearance.

Pope Leo XIII. entered his pontificate in the sixty-eighth year of his age, a long-tried prelate, whose strength of character, energy, judgment, piety, virtues and services are matters of record. He united in admirably proportioned degrees the apostolic mildness with the administrative rigor; he made himself at the same time loved and feared. Personally, he was a man of stately bearing. His voice was sonorous and brilliant when he preached, and slightly nasal in familiar conversation.

Leo XIII. was a tall man, rather spare in build, but nevertheless of strong, wiry physique. His presence was most commanding. His head was very large and thoroughly Italian, and the forehead was massive, high and rather straight, and was especially striking from its great width, indicative of intellectual strength. The thin hair that streaked it was of silver hue. The eyebrows were dark and heavy and of perfect arch, and the eyes were singularly mild and soft and at the same time penetrating and searching. The large, well defined nose was characteristic of firmness and will power, decidedly Roman in shape, but with wide nostrils that were credited by physiognomists with bold leonine qualities.

His handwriting is peculiar enough to excite interest even if it were not that of the pope. It is exceedingly small and of very careful, laborious construction, as if each of the infinitesimal characters was formed with the most painstaking care. In its airy delicacy it resembles a lady's hand, but the mosaic elaboration of every stroke has something highly scholastic about it. Under the slender signature the pope leaves half an inch of vacant space and then completes it by five dashes, growing successively smaller and smaller.

In April, 1888, Leo XIII. issued a decree against the Parnellite "plan of campaign" and against boycotting, the cardinals of the supreme congregation of the inquisition having decided adversely to such means of warfare. The promulgation of this edict called forth a strong protest from Ireland. In July, 1888, he issued his famous encyclicals against Socialism and on the labor question. In 1890 he pleaded for church unity, and in 1891 he gave forth his famous encyclical on labor.

In January, 1895, the pope's long expected encyclical to the church in this country was made public. Mgr. Satolli was appointed apostolic delegate to America in January, 1893, which position he held until his election as cardinal, when he was succeeded by Archbishop Martinelli, and in this encyclical the full scope of his work was defined. In the document his holiness also expressed disapproval of labor riots, and further discussed the relations of Catholics to secret societies and of journalists to the bishops. On these points he says:

"The Roman pontiff, since he cannot personally visit the different regions and thus exercise the pastoral office over the flock intrusted to him, finds it necessary from time to time to dispatch delegates into different parts of the world, according as the need arises, who, supplying his place, may correct errors, make the rough ways plain and administer to the people confided to their care increased means of salvation. But how unjust and baseless would be the suspicion, should any exist, that the powers conferred on the legate are an obstacle to the authority of the bishops. Sacred to us (more than any others are the rights of those whom the Holy Ghost has placed as bishops to rule the Church of God.' That these rights should remain intact in every nation, in every part of the globe, we both desire and ought to desire, since the dignity of the individual bishops is by nature so intertwined with the dignity of the Roman pontiff that any measure which benefits the one necessarily protects the other. * * *

"Every effort should be made to increase the number of intelligent and well disposed writers who take religion for their guide and virtue for their constant companion. The bishops, placed in the lofty positions of authority, are to be obeyed, and suitable honors, befitting the magnitude and sanctity of their office, should be paid them. Now this reverence, 'which it is lawful to no one to neglect, should of necessity be eminently conspicuous and exemplary in Catholic journalists, for journals naturally circulating far and wide, come daily into the hands of everybody and exert no small influence upon the opinions and morals of the multitude.'"

In February, 1896, the pope startled the entire Catholic world in his open letter to Cardinal Vaughan in behalf of the fathers oppressed disapprobation of what the French and Italian clergy had termed "Americanism" among the faithful in the United States. A translation of The Life of Father Hecker, founder of the Paulist order in New York, had given occasion to the charge that a portion of the American hierarchy leaned too much toward a liberal policy to church discipline and to innovations in religious rule that seemed to threaten the integrity of Catholic doctrine. The pope, however, evidently felt that the pope had declared himself on the side of conservatism as against the more progressive element in Catholic America, and there were corresponding rejoicing among the exponents of a more reactionary policy.

MARVELOUS MEMORY RETAINED TO THE LAST

Could Recollect Faces For 60 Years—Whatever He Did Was Well Done—All Loved Him

Pope Leo XIII. had a marvelous memory, which he retained up to the last. Speaking of him in December, 1896, Archbishop Stonor, who frequently attended on him, said:

"He recollects many of the people he receives after intervals of as long as 60 years. Many years ago, when Lord Palmerston was premier, his holiness visited England, and was presented to the queen and prince consort. Of that visit he still remembers the small details and only a short time ago he mentioned Sir James Graham, who was one of the ministers of the period, and spoke of the part he took in a controversy respecting posts and telegraphs." Again, when a Miss O'Connell was presented to the pope a short time ago, his holiness asked whether she was a relative of the distinguished parliamentarian of that name, and, on learning that she was his niece he said: "I well recollect hearing your uncle speak in the house of commons."

A poet as well as a statesman and pontiff, Leo remained to the last, as is evidenced by the fact that a fine poem by him was published as late as February, 1903. In it we note all his old vigor and grace of diction. A real achievement it was for a man of his years.

Of him, indeed, it may be said that whatever he did was well done. There have been many pontiffs, but not many who have done greater deeds or rendered themselves more to all Christendom than Leo XIII. A conservative in many respects, he was at the same time a true child of the century, and hence he could not be blind to the march of events. He saw the meaning of modern progress and he recognized the potency of modern ideas. A man of narrow mind might have come forth as a champion against them, but not such a man was Leo. Intolerance formed no part of his creed; class prejudices found no favor in his eyes. In his masterly encyclicals he spoke authoritatively and most wisely, not always on purely ecclesiastical subjects, but very often, also, on subjects which are of world wide secular interest. Thus he was more than an ecclesiastic; he was also a great statesman. Of his personal character, all who were ever privileged to know him have spoken in the highest terms. That he was very charitable and kindly is known to all. In a word, he bore himself nobly in his high office, and now that he has gone to his reward all who have watched his sterling and loyal work will admit that he was a true and eminently sagacious shepherd of the people.

THE POPE'S JUBILEE WAS SPLENDIDLY CELEBRATED

On Fiftieth Anniversary of His Entrance to Priesthood He Received Many Gifts.

The pope's jubilee was celebrated in splendid style in December, 1887, in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of his entrance into the priesthood. He received on this occasion many magnificent gifts. The sultan sent an antique pastoral ring set with precious stones and valued at $50,000. The queen regent of Spain sent a ring, one sapphire of which was valued at $15,000. The emperor of Germany sent a mitre worked in gold and incrusted with rubies, emeralds, sapphires and brilliants, costing 20,000 francs, and the empress accompanied this with a set of mass vestments valued at 50,000 francs. The empress of Austria sent a gold tiara valued at 120,000 florins. The emperor of Austria, joined with the ladies of Vienna in sending a pectoral cross costing 100,000 florins. China sent a high personage with rich presents, including a large contribution from the empress regent. The clergy and laity of the archdiocese of Paris subscribed 130,000 francs for a tiara. It is made on a foundation of silver cloth, embroidered in fine pearls. The triple crown is of gold, studded with 600 diamonds, rubies, emeralds and sapphires. A large diamond tops the cross of gold. The Syrian Catholics sent a cross and chain costing 7,000 rupees. Princess Clotilde Bonaparte, sister of King Humbert, made a magnificent cope of white satin, embroidered with flowers. The ladies of Seville, Spain, sent a chasuble of gold, set with 580 precious stones, mostly diamonds and emeralds. Gounod wrote a composition for the festivities entitled "Leone III."

America sent her share. Ireland dedicated the Irish National church in Rome. At the jubilee mass, which was celebrated on December 31, the pope wore a soutane of white Irish poplin which had been specially woven for that purpose. This jubilee has, it is said, cost Peter's Pence alone, collected, over $200,000, and was on a scale hitherto undreamed of. From all parts of the world presents were sent to the supreme head of the Roman Catholic church.

CARDINALS SUMMONED WHEN THE POPE DIES

Ceremonies Preceding and Succeeding the Death of the Pontiff.

On the official notification by the pope's medical attendants that his holiness is in a critical condition, the sacrament is set forth in all the churches in Rome. At St. Peter's it is exposed on the high altar, covered with a cloth of white lawn, which is only removed on the death of the pontiff. Meanwhile summons are sent by telegraph to the foreign or absent cardinals, and those in Rome are called to the vatican. In the death occurring, the first step to be taken is the official verification that the vicar of Christ is no more. This act, which is performed with a certain prescribed ceremony, devolves upon the cardinal camerlingo (chamberlain), to whom, on the demise of the holy father, the supreme authority for the time being is committed. Attired in full ecclesiastical costume and followed by the prelates and laymen of high rank at the papal court, proceeds to the chamber of death, knocking at the door with a wand of silver, the cardinal camerlingo enters the room, and advancing to the bed, strikes the waxen face of the figure of the pope, touches the breast and forehead and then, sinking on his knees, proclaims in a loud voice: "Dominus Papa Noster Mortuus est."

The fisherman's ring and the other papal seals are then handed to the cardinal camerlingo, together with a document formally attesting the death of the pope. As soon as this ceremony is accomplished the body is embalmed and, attired in the pontifical vestments, as a preliminary to the public exposition of the remains in St. Peter's. This body, which is committed to the charge of the papal chamberlain, is first of all taken to the Sistine chapel and thence by a covered way to the great basilica, where it lies in state for three days in the chapel of the Holy Sacrament, reposing on a richly draped couch.

Four members of the Noble Guard watch over the remains day and night with drawn swords. The body is so exposed that the faithful in filing past can kiss the feet of the dead pontiff. Meanwhile, every church in Rome is draped in mourning and masses for the repose of the soul of the departed, together with the special prayer for the guidance of the church and of the new pope, are said constantly. During this time the arrangements for the holding of the conclave are being perfected. The ten sacred congregations meet on the third day from the pope's death in the papal palace and there appoint three members of their body, a cardinal bishop, a cardinal priest and a cardinal deacon to form, with the cardinal camerlingo, the temporary state executive. On the first meeting of the cardinals, the cardinal camerlingo reads the papal bulls touching the election of a pope and then, in the presence of all, breaks the fisherman's ring and signets of the deceased pontiff.

CANNON WILL NOT BLOCK THE TRACK

If the Next House Is for New Currency Law He Will Not Oppose It.

THINKS IT IS UNNECESSARY

Visits Secretary of the Treasury at Washington and Holds Consultation—Will Go to New York and Perhaps to Oyster Bay.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, July 20.

Representative Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois, who is slated to be the next speaker of the house, is in Washington and today he had a conference with Secretary Shaw of the treasury. Mr. Cannon would not tell what was the object of his visit to the secretary, but it is a pretty safe guess that the financial condition of the country was talked over and the need of financial legislation discussed. Mr. Cannon declined to be interviewed on his reported opposition to the passage of a financial bill at the next session of congress, but he permitted it to be known that he would not stand as an obstructionist on the question. He has told friends here that he would not attempt to prevent the passage at the extra session in November or during the regular session immediately following a bill providing a more elastic currency.

This attitude of the future speaker of the house may have been brought about by the recent interview of Senator Lodge who said that the president was in favor of enacting a law at the extra session in November that would give the desired relief that the financial situation of the country demands. Personally, Mr. Cannon does not think the country needs any relief in this direction and he is not favorable to the passage of any law along these lines. But when the president let his view be known, it behooved Mr. Cannon to go slow if he wished to avoid getting into a position directly opposed to the president, which might prove embarrassing, and so he has let it be known that he will not obstruct.

Representative Cannon calls attention to the fact that money conditions in Wall street are now sound and argues that the present depression in stocks and securities has no connection with the supply of money in circulation throughout the country. The fact that the circulation of national banks has been greatly increased by the refunding operations of the treasury department is brought forward by the Illinois statesman as evidence that nothing further is needed. In fact, while not consenting to be quoted upon the subject, Mr. Cannon wants it understood that while he is personally opposed to any financial legislation at this time, he will not use his power as speaker of the house to prevent the passage of a bill that has the sanction of the president and his Republican leaders of congress.

Mr. Cannon expects to remain here until tomorrow afternoon when he will go to New York. It is reported that when he reaches that city he is to be sought out by some of the financial leaders interested in additional legislation, who will attempt to show the next speaker a great light. It may be that he will visit President Roosevelt at Oyster Bay, but he would not say today whether or not he would make the pilgrimage. After his New York visit he will go to Boston. After that he will seek out some resort on the Atlantic coast at which to spend the dog days. L. W. STRAYER.

Rivermen Look for Good Coal Stage to Make Heavy Shipments.

The river reached 8½ feet at the Davis Island dam yesterday afternoon, and six tows of 17 barges each were sent down the river. The steamers to leave were the Mariner, Charlie Brown, Cruiser, Jim Wood, Pacific No. 2 and Tom Dodsworth. These were 6,530,000 bushels in the shipment, all of which was sent out by the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company.

The indications are that a coal stage will be reached today. If nine feet is reached about 30 light boats will be sent out, and if the water rises to 10 feet at the Davis Island dam 200 heavy barges will go south. There are 7,000,000 bushels in the harbor and pools and enough steamers to take it all out. To the scores of steamers already prepared were added the Hornet, Ed Roberts and John Moren, which arrived last night. The Sam Brown is due to get in today, and other steamers are nearing this port.

The stage of water at Davis Island dam at 9 o'clock last night was 8.1 feet, and the river was stationary.

NEWS OF THE RIVERS.

The James Moren went to Brownsville yesterday to have new chimneys put on.

The Kanawha arrived from Charleston with a big trip and leaves this afternoon at 4 o'clock on her return.

Vice President Evans Jenkins of the Marine Engineers' Beneficial association left for Gallipolis yesterday. He will organize a new association of engineers at that place within the next few days.

The Bessie Smith was the Parkersburg boat yesterday. There is enough water now to insure a safe trip for the Ben Hur, which will resume her regular trips Thursday. The Bessie Smith had a big trip and crowded going back.

The Keystone State was the Cincinnati packet yesterday. A heavy fog delayed her at the foot of Deadman's island for several hours, and she did not get in till 9:30. She had a full list on her return to Cincinnati in the afternoon.

Capt. Lawrence McMackin is confined to the Marine hospital at Louisville with lung trouble.

The five steamers of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company have passed Vicksburg with their tows. The J. B. Finey, which leads the fleet, will arrive in New Orleans probably on Thursday.

Pool boats coming into the harbor with tows yesterday were materially delayed at Lock No. 1. The hurry to get loaded coal barges and boats out of the pools brought several tows to the lock at once, and the insufficient capacity of the locks for the trade was again demonstrated. The annual report of Maj. W. L. Sibert referred to this matter, and improved appliances will probably replace the present locks in the near future.

MADE NO CONTRACT.

Herman Staude Denies Owing Real Estate Firm Commissions.

An affidavit of defense was filed yesterday by Herman Staude in the suit brought against him by Black & Baird, in which the defendant avers he is not in debt to the plaintiff in the sum of $137 50 or any other sum. He says that Alexander B. Black, as an agent of the firm, called on him and tried to persuade him to sell the property at No. 1012 Carson street, and was informed that the property had been placed in the hands of George A. Jones, a real estate agent.

The answer continues: "Notwithstanding this, Black offered several written agreements and after several attempts to persuade the defendant to sign an agreement for sale, which the defendant refused to do, he then notified him he would take the said property out of his hands, relying upon said George A. Jones."

The defendant states that he made no contract with the plaintiff, either verbally or written; that he notified them at their officer to that effect, and that he would not sign anything only on the advice of his lawyer.

Suit was entered by O. A. Patterson against William Hunnewell for $5,000 damages. The men are life insurance agents for different companies and the plaintiff avers Hunnewell made use of the terms "crooked" and "crooked" during the week of May 11 in a manner intending to damage plaintiff's reputation.

Suit was entered by Michael Lorenzo against Nick Mrazo to recover $1,000 damages due to an alleged false arrest. A capias was issued for the defendant's arrest and bail was fixed at $800. Lorenzo claims he was arrested on a charge of perjury on a warrant issued by Alderman Charles McGeorge, and that he was kept in jail for four days before being given a hearing, at which he was discharged. He says his good name has been injured, that his business has been interfered with and that he was put to considerable expense.

Suit was filed by the Hollywood Land Company against the Pittsburgh & Connellsville Railroad Company for $75,000 damages for the taking of the plaintiff's land in Versailles township. It is alleged that the plaintiff owns 102 acres of land and that the railroad company has appropriated a portion of it fronting on the Monongahela river.

Strikers Return to Work.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Thousands of members of the unions which have signed the employers' plan of arbitration, returned to work today after being out of work, in many cases, since May.

The first necessity of athletics is a sound stomach. Food is the source of all physical strength, but to extract and assimilate the strength from food requires that the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition should be in a condition of good health. What is true of the athlete is true of every man and woman; physical health and vigor depend upon the digestion and assimilation of food.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, and by enabling the perfect digestion and assimilation of food, builds the body up with solid flesh and muscle.

"I used ten bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and several vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets' a year ago this spring, and have had no trouble with indigestion since," writes Mr. W. T. Thompson, of Townsend, Broadwater County, Montana. "Words fail to tell how thankful I am for the relief, as I had suffered so much and it seemed that the doctors could do me no good. I got down in weight to 125 pounds, and was not able to work at all. Now I weigh nearly 160 and can do a day's work on the farm. I have recommended your medicine to several, and shall always have a good word to say for Dr. Pierce and his medicines."

The Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 large pages in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

EASTERN STOCKS AGAIN DEPRESSED

Railway Shares Sympathized With the Weakness in the Industrials and the Whole Market Closed Near the Lowest.

By JOHN O. EAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The eastern stock market was again depressed yesterday, and as usual of late the movement was accompanied by nothing more substantial than rumor to account for it. Nearly a score of stocks declined to the lowest prices of the year, and some of them to the lowest ever quoted. In this list were the following: U. S. Steel common at 25, Amalgamated Copper at 44⅝, Rock Island common at 28 and the preferred at 65¼, American Locomotive common at 18 and the preferred at 85¼, United Realty Construction at 12⅝ and the preferred at 50. These were not only the lowest prices of the year, but the lowest in the history of the various corporations. American Sugar at 112, Brooklyn Rapid Transit at 46, Peoples Gas at 93¼, Republic Iron and Steel preferred at 70, Missouri, Kansas & Texas preferred at 39¾ and Pacific Mail at 22⅞, represented the lowest prices of the year. The heaviest pressure was against this group of stocks, and as the market for a number of them is comparatively narrow, the liquidation was attended by some sharp breaks. This was particularly the case with Sugar. Under ordinary conditions a small fraction covered the fluctuations between sales, but yesterday several large blocks of the stock were thrown overboard apparently without regard to the price. The weakness extended to the railroad list, and a number of prominent investment stocks declined to within a point or so of the lowest touched last Wednesday. During the morning session there was apparently no effort to support the market. London quotations averaged lower, and the dealings for foreign account were on a smaller scale than for some time past. London advices were to the effect that the Wall street market was the dominating factor, and that foreigners were disposed to await further light upon the situation here before again buying freely.

* * *

The most disconcerting feature about the market was the extreme weakness in Amalgamated Copper and U. S. Steel common. The former is looked upon as a Standard Oil specialty, and the break of nearly 3 points to 44¾ was construed as meaning that the "Standard crowd" was not yet through with the bear campaign. This stock and U. S. Steel are now the leaders of the industrial list, and their heaviness pulled down the entire market. The situation was aggravated by the break in St. Paul to 130¾, or within a fraction of the low point touched last Wednesday, because movements in this stock are also supposed to reflect Rockefeller sentiment or interest in the market. The decline in the Rock Island securities was thought to represent a leveling down process, and the street is still bearish on this group. It will be recalled that in the re-organization, $100 of old Rock Island stock received $80 worth of 4 per cent bonds, $100 of common stock and $50 of preferred stock of the new company. The current market value of these three new securities represent about 148⅛ for the old Rock Island stock for which they were exchanged. This old Rock Island stock paid 5 per cent on par from 1899 to February last year, when the exchange took place. With stocks like Pennsylvania and St. Paul, which pay 6 and 7 per cent respectively, selling at 8 to 25 per cent below the parity of the old Rock Island, the professional traders naturally concluded that the new Rock Island securities are still quoted too high.

* * *

In the afternoon there was evidence of supporting orders in U. S. Steel, and the bears gave up the attempt to break the common through 25. A slight recovery occurred in some of the leading railroad shares, but while these were rallying, others were hammered. A conspicuously weak feature in the late dealings was Missouri Pacific, which broke to 96⅝, or within a small fraction of last week's lowest price. Wabash preferred, another Gould stock, broke to 38, and Union Pacific to 75¼, the latter only one-half per cent above Wednesday's lowest. General Electric, which had sold off to 163½, recovered a small fraction, and Colorado Fuel & Iron, control of which was recently acquired by Rockefeller interests, after making a new low record by selling at 50, recovered about a point. At the close the market was unsettled, but final prices were near the lowest of the day. The sales reached 733,000 shares.

* * *

The money market remained unchanged, time loans being firm and offerings scarce, while call loan rates were easy at 2½@3 per cent, closing with the last loan at 2 per cent. The rumors of the day related chiefly to corporations which were said to be in the market for loans similar to those negotiated last week by the Union Pacific and Burlington. It was reported that in preparation for impending transactions of this kind there had been some calling of loans in the street, and inability to renew the same elsewhere on favorable terms led to the liquidation of the collateral in the market. Since last Friday the banks have gained $1,284,000 through sub-treasury operations.

* * *

The local stock market was entirely dominated by the tone of Wall street, with the principal activity in the steel stocks. As a rule opening quotations were the highest of the day. Nearly 2,000 shares U. S. Steel common changed hands at prices ranging from 26⅝ down to 25, the stock rallying to 25⅛ at the close. The preferred declined to 76¼, but closed at 76⅜ bid. Crucible Steel common sold down to 11⅛, but recovered to 11⅝ bid at the close. The preferred opened firm at 77⅞ and sold off to 76⅛, closing at 76¼ bid. The movement in this stock followed very closely that in U. S. Steel. Westinghouse Electric opened firm at 88½, declined to 87¼, and was offered at the latter price at the close. Air Brake declined a dollar a share to 154. Natural gas stocks were dull and heavy. Manufacturers Light & Heat declined to 35⅝, but recovered to 35¾, and closed at 36¼ bid. Ohio Fuel Supply declined to 40, but closed at 40¼ bid. Philadelphia Company declined to 40½. The report of the latter for the month of June showed an increase in gross earnings of $130,000 and an increase in net of $67,500. Pittsburgh Coal common was one of the weakest of the list, declining to 26½ and closing at 26¼ bid. There were no transactions in the preferred, which closed at 85 bid. River Coal preferred was a fraction higher, selling at 39. Fire Proofing declined to 22½ for the common and to 34 for the preferred.

In the bank and trust company group the principal activity was in North American Savings, which broke to 140, but recovered to 148. A small lot of German National bank sold at 250, a decline of 35 points from the last previous sale. Iron City Trust advanced 2½ per cent to 147½. In the bond list Philadelphia Company 5s sold unchanged at 110, and River Coal 6s declined ¼ to 113½.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

More than half the total transactions on the local stock exchange yesterday were in Crucible Steel and United States Steel. Brokers kept an eye on the posted quotations coming over the New York ticker, and raised or lowered their bids and offers in accord with the fluctuations occurring in the eastern market. There were no transactions in Crucible in New York, and there have been no sales there for months, but the stock sympathized with the movement in United States Steel. A considerable proportion of the dealings in the latter during the past week or so has represented purchases in the New York market and the resale here at a fractional advance.

National Fire Proofing common declined a fraction to 22½. At this price the stock pays about 13 per cent. United States Steel common at 25 pays 16 per cent.

The market for Pittsburgh Coal common was apparently left to take care of itself, and the decline to 26½ was rather rapid. The total sales were less than 300 shares. Last Friday the stock rallied from 28 to 28 on sales of about 4,000 shares. There were no transactions in the preferred yesterday.

River Coal preferred on light trading advanced to 39, a net gain of ⅜ over the last previous sale.

Westinghouse Airbrake declined a dollar a share to 154 and closed at 152 bid. Electric sold off to 87¼ and closed at the lowest.

North American Savings broke to 140, but later recovered to 148.

Copies of the financial statement of the Philadelphia Company and affiliated corporations for the month of June were mailed to the stockholders by Auditor C. S. Mitchell last night. The figures are as follows:

	Month Ended June 30, 1903.	1902.
Gross earnings	$1,206,999	$1,076,846
Expenses and taxes	755,354	692,702
Net earnings	$ 451,645	$ 384,147
Miscellaneous income	18,825	14,016
Total earnings and income	$ 470,491	$ 398,163
Fixed charges	319,291	307,070
Total income	$ 151,200	$ 91,093
Accrued dividend on pref. stock of Phila. Company	23,936	23,935
Net income—surplus	$ 127,263	$ 67,158

For the six months of the calendar year the gross earnings were $7,728,567, the net $3,442,942, and the surplus $1,642,862. For the corresponding six months of 1902 the surplus was $1,820,787.

Old Rock Island stock sold on the New York exchange yesterday at 147, as compared with 200, the last preceding sale in January. The stock is still considerably above the parity of the other standard railway issues. The weakness in the new Rock Island securities was based upon rumors of a new divisional arrangement of the system which would necessitate a heavy issue of refunding bonds. It was also believed that Rock Island stock issued for acquisition of control of the San Pedro road was coming on the market. The losses of speculative stock in Rock Island securities have been nearly as great as those in Amalgamated Copper. Both these stocks were favorites in Pittsburgh, and both proved to be a case of a "dead sure tip" going wrong.

When a banker or a broker is asked if in his opinion there is likely to be a panic in the stock market the answer is almost invariably in the negative. Two or three months ago there was some apprehension on this point. Since then the decline has been almost continuous and in the aggregate the shrinkage amounts to an enormous sum. The basis of the feeling that there will be no panic is the fact that stocks are from 10 to 100 points above the high level of last year, and from 5 to 40 points below the level of six months ago. Ample time which preparation has been made seldom or never occurs before any important expected event. Some observers of the market, who perhaps have a weakness for playing the role of prophet, are predicting that the present movement will culminate in a sharp panic. They base their prediction on the fact just referred to, that the public generally feels no panic is possible after the enormous shrinkage that has taken place in the market. If time shall prove that this market is the result of a campaign planned by Standard Oil interests for the purpose of acquiring the Rock Island, the Pennsylvania and the New York Central systems, then a tremendous drive against values as the culminating stroke would be in perfect accord with Standard Oil tactics, which are recognized as merciless.

After the close of the market a prominent Wall street house wired its Pittsburgh correspondent: "The entire situation remains unchanged, the financial situation being the principal factor, and from present indications it will take quite a while before all the discouraging factors are eliminated and a more sound basis established. A great many of the institutions that have been carrying stocks with non-salable securities must have house-cleaning, and the people who own them must sacrifice the salable articles. Again it is apparent that the large investment interests are not satisfied to make a turn of 3½ per cent to 4 per cent for their money, but they want more, and if they expect to realize 5½ to 6 per cent it looks as if prices for securities still too high. Our present hope is good crops, but this will take a few months before we know what the return from them will be. Until such a time we advise caution, as we will have a narrow market with a good many ups and downs."

Directors of American Glue Company have declared a semi-annual dividend of 1¼ per share on the preferred stock, payable August 1.

The Guarantee Title and Trust Company of Cincinnati has recently been investigating the financial situation in the state of Ohio. Especial attention has been given to the condition of affairs in country districts. Through 500 letters sent to country banks an almost unanimous disposition to strengthen reserves was found. Not over 3 per cent of the banks are now talking of outside paper of any length of term, though quite a few are taking demand paper from their city correspondents. The investigation shows well for the state of Ohio, for not over 25 per cent of the banks report such a demand at home as will always keep in use the local deposits, while out of the entire 500 institutions only two were desirous of disposing of securities. Almost without exception the country banks are increasing their reserves, investing their surplus reserves, if at all, in demand loans easily convertible into cash.

Delaware, Lackawanna & Western broke 11½ points to 236 on a single transaction, rallied several points and then sold off again, touching 235, the lowest price of its year, and within four points of the low level touched in the November panic last year.

Few persons realize the importance of life insurance companies as great holders of securities and immense lenders of money. The last report of the state insurance superintendent of New York shows that the companies have the enormous sum of $287,582,000 invested in stocks and bonds. In addition they have $241,818,000 invested in bonds and mortgages, $118,414,000 invested in real estate, $32,481,000 loaned on collaterals, and $30,857,000 loaned on policies.—N. Y. Commercial.

THE MONEY MARKET.

There is no change in the local money market. Six per cent is quoted on call and time loans, and the supply is not equal to the demand. Eastern exchange continues scarce and settlement of current balances made to New York. Clearing house comparisons:

FOURTH AVENUE CORNER LEASED

Beneficial Trust Company Rents Christy Drug Store Building for Six Years.

PENTECOST BUILDING SOLD

Two Good Sales in Sewickley Heights District—Hungarians Will Build Church at Glenwood—An East End Sale of $10,000.

The Beneficial Trust Company, which received its charter about June 1, has secured for its home the building now occupied by Christy's drug store at the southeast corner of Fourth avenue and Smithfield street. This choice assures Fourth avenue of another strong financial institution and gives to the Beneficial what is generally admitted to be the best available corner for banking purposes in the city. By an arrangement made last Friday with the Walther-Robertson Drug Company, the trust company takes over its six year lease on the building, paying for it $6,000 a year, and also bearing the expense of moving Christy's drug store, which is owned by that company. The building is a four-story brick, owned by Samuel Ewart. It has a frontage of 19.3 feet on Smithfield street and 42.6 feet on Fourth avenue.

The trust company will probably take possession September 1, when it will remodel the entire building at a cost of $10,000 or more. The first floor will be used for the banking quarters of the company and the upper floors for bookkeeping headquarters for private bankers. This will make four large financial institutions at this corner, the Bank for Savings across the street, the American Trust Company in the Hartley block and the Dollar Savings bank at the rear of the Ewart building. Added to the prestige which this banking center will give it, the Beneficial will be directly opposite the postoffice. Its capital of $1,000,000 has already been three-fourths subscribed and an increase to $2,000,000 is proposed. The company is assured of strong support, as it will have the active co-operation of 13 fraternal orders and will be reserve agent for 12 outside banks.

Office Building Bought for $41,000.

A price of $1,548 a front foot, or $18 26 a square foot, was established for upper Fourth avenue property yesterday by the sale of the Pentecost office building at No. 510 for $41,000. H. A. Shaffer & Co. made the deal, and the buyer is a prominent Fifth avenue business man, who gets title to the property from Charles B. Frieberg. The building is a three-story brick structure, 26.5x85 feet, and is located at the south side of the avenue between Grant and Ross streets. It has been used for offices, a favorite for attorneys and brings an annual rental of about $2,900. The present buyer takes it for an investment only and contemplates no improvements at present. Incidents for property holders on upper Grant street are more numerous of late, and since the announcement that the Maloney office building was going ahead a good offer is said to have been submitted for an office building in the upper side of Grant street, near Fourth avenue.

Good Prices on Sewickley Heights.

Two more sales in the Sewickley Heights district indicate the substantial boom that is "on" in that fashionable suburban neighborhood. Fifteen acres belonging to the late Mc-Laughlin estate, and located on the Glen Mitchell road, one mile from Osborn station, were sold for $15,000, or $1,000 an acre. A log house is the only building on the farm, which is directly across from the W. P. Snyder holdings. Another plot of si acres was sold yesterday to Dr. Frank Wilson, of Bellevue, for $6,000, or $1,000 an acre. It is on the Beaver road, adjoining the property of Judge J. W. Over, near the East property, and one mile from Haysville station. Both plots were bought for country residents, who will improve them with handsome residences for country places.

Another sale reported yesterday was that of the farm of Dr. R. M. Hann, at Blackburn church, on the Watson road. It consists of 66 acres, and is directly across the road from the property which Clara E. Hussey recently bought for $950 an acre. It was learned last night that no deal has been closed for the Hann property, although an offer of more than $950 an acre has been submitted within the last few days.

New Church for Glenwood.

Estimates are being taken by Architect Titus de Bobula for a church for the First Hungarian Reform congregation of Pittsburgh. It will be a brick and stone structure, seating 500 persons, and will be built in Elizabeth street, Glenwood.

Architects Macoubray & Co. are taking bids on a $10,000 school house to be erected in Stowe township for the Norwood school.

Julius F. Zinke has the contract from Architect F. G. Scheibler, Jr., of Wilkinsburg, for building a brick and stone store block in McClure avenue, Woods Run, Allegheny, for R. L. Mathews. The building will cost $25,000.

Architect C. M. Bartberger has awarded the contract to W. O. Wright for building a brick residence in Atlantic avenue near Harriet street for Robert Lewin, to cost $15,000.

The West Penn hospital received a permit yesterday for erecting a brick dormitory and workshop at Twenty-eighth street, to cost $2,500.

Other building permits were granted as follows: W. P. Dilworth, trustee of the estate of J. S. Dilworth, seven-story brick warehouse, Nos. 340 and 342 Second avenue, $34,000; Mary E. Cox, frame dwelling, Floanoy street, Twenty-seventh ward, $2,200; Mrs. Carolina Coleman, brick-veneered dwelling, Race street, Twenty-first ward, $3,750; William Jacoel, brick addition to frame dwelling, Allen street and Washington avenue, Thirty-first ward, $2,000; F. K. Meyer, brick dwelling, Fairmount avenue, Twentieth ward, $6,500; F. Schaffer, frame dwelling, Floanoy street, Twenty-third ward, $2,400; W. J. Payne, brick dwelling, Beltzhoover avenue, Thirty-second ward, $4,000.

An East End Sale of $10,000.

O. A. Williams has bought from Minnie O. Knight, an improved property, 33x160 feet, on the West side of Murray, 171 avenue, Twenty-second ward, for $10,000.

Locust street: The Columbia Realty Company sold for Mrs. Pauline Kuntz to Mrs. Etta Mandelstein, No. 1814 Locust street, a nine-room brick house, lot 24x95 feet, for $7,800.

Verona: John P. Rush sold for Dr. John Bailey to Frank S. Rush, a seven-room frame house and two acres of land at Verona for $4,212.

Oakland: M. J. Ehrenfeld of the Consolidated Real Estate Company sold for George Cushwa to Edwin N. Venton of North Dakota an eight-room frame house, lot 25x100 feet, on the east side of Ward street, Oakland, for $4,000.

Bentleyville: Joseph Zapp & Co. sold for the Rev. H. D. Morewood to W. E. Patton a lot 38x102 feet at the northwest corner of Centennial and Nevin avenues, Sewickley, for $1,500.

Vegetables Sell at Figures of Last Week—No Change in Creamery Butter.

Cantaloupes continue to arrive freely, and there is a steady decline in prices, which has now brought quotations down to a very moderate range, and many are selling. Watermelons went to a slightly lower level at the close of the week, since which time there has been no change in prices. Demand for watermelons this season has been up to the average. Huckleberries are in very liberal receipts, and quotations are lower, while blackberries are not coming forward so freely, and are holding firmly to former figures. California peaches and plums are lower in price, while cherries from the same state are about done.

Vegetables changed but little yesterday from figures Tuesday at the close of the week. Home sorghum syrup sells again at $1 a gallon, and prices are lower. Unexpectedly a small lot of home grown green corn made its appearance on Saturday, and was quickly bought up. Whether this was of the best of its kind for quality, and if it is likely to be in considerable quantities coming from now on until the season is fully on, which may probably be about the first of next month, remains are strong from position, but demand is also growing, and there is no change in prices.

Receipts of hay and grain are light, and quotations all hold firm. Oats were in very moderate supply, and the downward tendency of the market was checked, temporarily at least. But little corn came in, and the very strong prices of last week are maintained. Hay remained steady, but without special feature.

Wholesale grocers are keeping flour at the same quotations as ruled at the close of the week, and are adhering closely to list prices except where sales of five-barrel lots are made for short haul. Where any concession is made it amounts to only 5 cents a barrel. Coffee is unchanged, although there is some talk of its advancing owing to stronger conditions which have prevailed in primary markets for a week. Receipts at Brazilian ports have been very heavy, but preparations are being made for an unusually large consumption, as the demand is increasing every year, and dealers really profess to believe the outlook is for stronger quotations, notwithstanding the immense production. Sugar is unchanged, and canned goods are just about in the same condition as last reported.

There is no easing up in the poultry market yet, and the high figures which ruled last week continue to rule. Small transactions. Chickens are still very scarce, receipts being as light now as they were a week ago, and the demand is more than sufficient to absorb all offerings.

No change was made in butter prices by the Elgin board of trade, and quotations of last week continue to prevail. The market is quiet and just about steady. Cheese is easy, and a little decline in prices would not be surprising at any time. Eggs held at former prices on account of heavy losses in handling at the present time. Demand is quiet.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

The Daily Judge mill is handling about 200 tons of ore per day, concentrating from four to five tons into one. The revenue from the mine should therefore be not less than $1,500 a day. This warrants the expectation of dividends before the close of the year. Nothing definite is yet announced as to the probable amount of the dividend.

The shipments from Park City last week amounted to 2,000 tons. Of this the Daly West shipped 500 tons, the Silver King about 1,000 tons, and the rest was shipped by lessers. Report comes from Uintic district that the Semi-Ganges property has encountered a big short crosscut from the 850-foot level of the shaft. Some very fine ore bodies are being developed in the Victor ground. The Star Consolidated Company is now breaking ore from the 400-foot level with Burleigh drills.

The Tonopah rock and the Comstock rock are apparently similar in composition and probably are also in point of age.

The work of installing the new machinery at the Yankee mine is being pushed rapidly, and the vicinity of the mine is the scene of bustling activity. The officials of this company have regretted the delay in receiving the new machinery, but this delay has been unavoidable. It is noted that a few minor and other equipment have been received, so time will be lost in clearing the mine of water and recommencing sinking operations, which were temporarily discontinued some time in February last.

The Lake Superior copper mines during the first half of 1903 produced about 98,000,000 pounds of copper. The increase from the new mines during the remaining six months should more than compensate for the decreased output from one of the largest producers, and bring the year's productions up to 200,000,000 pounds, the largest on record, and exceeding the 1902 figures by 30,000,000 pounds.

A dispatch to the Denver News from Pueblo says: "Chief Engineer Hinsdale of the Denver & Rio Grande and Chief of the Fire Department E. O. Ringer and one or two other Pueblo citizens are the sole owners of the rich mining claims in Fremont county, Colorado, county about three miles east of the town of Pitkin. Assays made of the ore show a value of $70,175 20 a ton to gold. A ton of the ore has already been sacked and is on its way to the mill. Mr. Ringer left this morning with several others for Pitkin. The property lies in the Tomichi Dome country and is not far from a number of other valuable properties. Several specimens which Mr. Dun has exhibited are thickly sprinkled with free gold. The metal is in evidence from the size of a pin head to that of grains of wheat. J. C. Ewerhardt, an old mining man, is the principal discovered the deposit. He was staked by Mr. Dun, who holds a half interest in the find. The owners claim that the strike is the largest one made in many years."

MISS SHAW TALKS ON WOMEN'S RIGHTS

Eloquent Advocate of Female Suffrage Lectures at Chautauqua.

CONDITIONS IN OLD ENGLAND

The Rev. R. J. Campbell, of the City Temple, London, Tells of Non-Conformist Resistance to the New Education Law.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., July 20.—Interest at Chautauqua today has been about equally divided between the Rev. Reginald John Campbell, the brilliant young exponent of the gospel of love as the City Temple, London, the most commanding pulpit among the English Non-Conformists, and the Rev. Anna H. Shaw, vice president of the National Women's Suffrage Association, who is not only a pioneer in the agitation for woman's right to vote, but is probably the first woman to earn both the medical and theological degree.

On the program were also two prominent educators, Prof. Earl Barnes of Philadelphia and Mr. Melvil Dewey, director of New York state library and for many years secretary of board of regents.

Miss Shaw insisted as usual that the constitution guaranteed women equality with man; that government derive their just powers from the consent of the governed and the refusal to give her a vote is unconstitutional, and she argued with such force that women are far better qualified for the suffrage than any class of male voters when they received the ballot, notably the negro. Miss Shaw is as forceful as ever and delighted a large audience of yellow ribboners.

The Rev. Mr. Campbell discussed the English educational act and passive resistance. England has no uniform national school system and prior to the act of 1870 had no elementary schools except through voluntary agencies, though these received some government help. That act authorized the formation of local school boards but only where existing denominational schools did not fully supply the needs of the locality. Under this act the government paid one-half the expenses of the denominational schools and the clericals soon worked the proposition up to four-fifths, but in 1900 the clergy could not provide even the one-fifth for the maintenance of the denominational Anglican schools. The government party had been put in office with the help of the Non-Conformist vote simply to finish the war. The campaign was fought on the war question solely, and if any hint of an intention to meddle with education had been given, the elections would have gone far different... But, being in straits, the government made a bargain with the bishops, in return for whose support they brought in an educational bill last year, which was a most exasperating surprise to the Non-Conformists. Under the new act public funds entirely support schools which are in private and sectarian hands, a most abominable thing. Objection to paying rates directly into the pockets of denominational authorities to support a form of religious instruction in which they do not believe, the Non-Conformists are risking imprisonment and actually suffering the loss of their goods through refusal to pay the tax. But the conscience of non-conformity is being stirred as never before, and a recent mass meeting in Hyde park to protest against the act numbered 325,000 people. If the general elections occurred tomorrow the government would be swept out of office and when the time of reckoning comes the victory will be more complete because delayed.

CLARK PREVENTS TWO DROWNINGS

Atlantic City Veteran Goes to Rescue of Two Venturesome Bathers.

HE HAS SAVED MANY LIVES

Dr. Cyrus Adler of Washington, D. C., Addresses the Jewish Chautauqua on "American Jewish History"—Several Other Interesting Papers.

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Young's Ocean Pier,
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 20.

Harry Schultz of Philadelphia and George Schurtzenderfer of Bristol, Pa., were rescued near the steeplechase pier today by Capt. Clark, the veteran lifesaver. The men were almost exhausted when the captain reached them. He had several children in bathing when he heard the cry of the two men for help. He immediately donned a cork jacket and went to their rescue. The captain was of great assistance to the lifeguards yesterday when he assisted in the rescue of four persons. He was on Young's pier and held the four up by means of a buoy until Guard Parker came with the boat and brought the party ashore.

Capt. Clark is perhaps as well known to

WHO IS HE?

A Pittsburgher—he must have been because he said so in the note he left—called at The Gazette bureau to express his appreciation of the great Pittsburgh newspaper in the absence of the correspondent and left the above silhouette of himself. Some think it is the city editor of a Pittsburgh afternoon newspaper, others that it is a well-known Pittsburgh lawyer, and still others are so far mistaken as to take it for The Gazette correspondent, which it is not. But who is it?

Atlantic City visitors as the mayor of the boardwalk. He is always attired in a velvet coat and red flannel shirt. He is perhaps the oldest living lifeguard and has saved many persons from drowning.

Address on Jewish History.

Dr. Cyrus Adler of Washington, D. C., made a lengthy address before the Jewish Chautauqua assembly this morning on "American Jewish History," showing wherein the Hebrew has distinguished himself in the social, financial and political movements of this country during the century. The session was devoted to a discussion of the Jewish student and his attitude toward Jewish problems.

Ralph J. Schwartz of Tulane university, New Orleans, delivered a lecture on "The Attitude of the University Man to Religion." A paper relative to the status of the Jew at the University of Pennsylvania was read by Horace Ston of that institution. He stated that as far as he had observed there was no racial prejudice against the Jew there. Jews are members of the faculty and Jewish students have carried off high honors. He scored Jewish students, who, on account of defects of character, are cut by classmates, attributing it to the fact that they are Hebrews.

Buried in Potter's Field.

The dead body of C. V. Turner, the Englishman who committed suicide 10 days ago, was buried today in a pauper's grave in Potter's field, Pleasantville. The body has been on view at Crowley's undertaking establishment, but nobody called to say, "I'll bury it." The man always had money before death; it came by check, regularly. Now it does not come. The body of Rene Stretti, the musician, who was drowned in the surf last week, was also buried. The Theatrical Mechanics' association will pay for his interment. The badge found on his coat identified him.

A TRANSACTION OF IMPORTANCE

Another Big Mining Deal in the Warren Mining District of Arizona Reported. Principal Purchasers Michigan Capitalists. Property Located Adjacent to Bisbee-Arizona Gold Copper Mining Company's Holdings.

Another large deal was consummated in Pittsburgh a few days ago, the full particulars of which cannot be made public for a short while, but this much is known, that in the transfer the control of a well known mining property adjacent to the property of the Bisbee-Arizona Company passes into the hands of the largest capitalists of northern Michigan. When the full details are made known this will have the effect of closing out all of the stock of the Bisbee-Arizona Gold & Copper Mining Company and of advancing its stock fully 100 per cent if not more. This part of the Warren district has attracted considerable attention for the last year, but this is the largest deal so far consummated.

The full import of this transaction cannot be realized at this time by those not familiar with the Warren district, but when it is borne in mind that six months ago the Standard Oil interests secured all of the property they could near the Bisbee-Arizona property and that now such capitalists as those purchasing controlling interest of a large property on the opposite side of them, it can be seen that this company's holdings are right in the heart of the most desirable part of this rich portion of the Warren district. The stock of the Bisbee-Arizona Gold & Copper Mining Company can still be had at 50 cents per share, but as large sales are being made in Pittsburgh and elsewhere an advance may be looked for any day.

On account of being unable to accommodate enquirers during office hours and to accommodate purchasers who cannot call till after business hours I have arranged to keep the office of the Investors' Brokerage Company, 907-8 Keystone Building, Fourth avenue, between Wood and Smithfield streets, open from 7:30 to 10 o'clock p. m., on Tuesdays and Thursdays and Saturdays.

WOMAN PENSION CLERK WINS SALARY INCREASE

Miss Anne E. Shirely Proves Herself Valuable as Public Employe.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The highest salaried woman employed in the pension bureau is Miss Anne E. Shirley of the assistant chief clerk's office, who has just been promoted to the grade of fourth-class clerk, drawing $1,800 per annum.

Miss Shirley is regarded as one of the most remarkable women in the government service. She was appointed 25 years ago, and during the greater part of her service she has been attached to the office of the assistant chief clerk. For years it has been her duty to make up the bureau pay rolls, and she has had exceptional opportunity to meet every clerk employed in the office. So well has she made use of her opportunities that today she knows by name and appearance every person employed in the bureau, whether he or she is stationed in the city or not.

Not only this, but Miss Shirley knows by name and appearance every person who has ever been employed in the pension bureau since she has been there. She is regarded by the commissioners of pensions who have been in office since she was attached to the bureau as one of their most valuable assistants. Only one other woman ever received the salary of $1,800 per annum in the pension office.

GOULD GETS CONTROL OF THE LEHIGH VALLEY

Rumor in Wall Street Busy With Names of Railroads and Financiers.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 20.—Renewed vitality was today imparted to the rumor that George Gould had secured control of the Lehigh Valley railroad. Wall street heard from sources usually well informed regarding Gould railroad matters that a formal statement is to be issued very soon announcing an amicable settlement of the differences between the Goulds and the Pennsylvania railroad. Incidental to this settlement, it was asserted, a controlling interest in the Lehigh Valley system was to be sold to George J. Gould. The transfer of the control of the road to the Goulds, it is alleged, has the sanction of the Vanderbilts and also of J. P. Morgan.

Since the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul system has come practically under the domination of the Rockefeller interests, the suggestion of a combination between the Missouri, Kansas & Texas and the St. Paul has been discussed as one of the probabilities of the near future.

The Rockefellers own the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, and it is believed arrangements are in progress to unite these two systems. By uniting the two roads the Rockefellers would form a new north and south system of far-reaching influence and with nearly 10,000 miles of railroad. This would be a formidable competitor of the Rock Island-Frisco combination, and inasmuch as the Rockefellers and the Goulds are very friendly, it may be taken for granted that pleasant relations would be established with the Missouri Pacific system.

ENGINEERS' DEAD CHIEF WAS BURIED YESTERDAY

Simple Service Over Remains of P. M. Arthur at His Late Cleveland Home.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CLEVELAND, O., July 20.—The funeral of the late Chief P. M. Arthur of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers took place this afternoon from the family residence, No. 1429 Euclid avenue, the Rev. Dr. Paul F. Sutphen, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Vernon Harrington. The floral offerings were in great profusion, the casket being almost hidden by immense banks of flowers.

Hundreds of railway men, representing all sections of the country, were present to pay their final respects to the memory of the dead chief. Among these were the heads of the various railway brotherhoods. The services throughout were marked by extreme simplicity, in accordance with the life and habits of the deceased. The six members of the brotherhood who escorted the remains from Winnipeg were the active pall-bearers. The honorary pall-bearers were: Col. Myron T. Herrick, Dr. E. D. Burton, Capt. Percy W. Rice, W. S. Dodge, P. M. Hitchcock, T. S. Ingraham, Charles H. Salmons, Deloss Everett, William B. Frenter and W. E. Futch. The interment was private in Lakeview cemetery.

We name some who have bought over 100 barrels of American Cold Japan: Oliver Iron and Steel Company, Philadelphia company, Carnegie Steel Company, Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company, American Window Glass Company, Valley Supply Company No. 1, and others. Why? Because they find it the best and cheapest for tin, iron and steel roofs, hot and cold stacks, etc. Office and warehouse, No. 2207 Penn avenue.

$5,000. Reward for the Arrest and Conviction of——the parties who originated and circulated, the rumor that "Force" Food contained drugs or other injurious ingredients.

$5,000. additional will be paid to anyone proving that "Force" does, or ever did, contain any drug or other injurious or unhealthful ingredient, being composed solely of Wheat and Barley, with a seasoning of table salt, steam cooked, flaked, and roasted.

Do us the justice, if you question the absolute purity or healthfulness of "Force," to send a package to the Health Department of your city for analysis.

BOSTON, June 25, 1903.

The "Force" Food Company, Buffalo, N. Y.:

GENTLEMEN.—A rumor having reached me that your product, "FORCE," contained injurious ingredients, I took the occasion to analyze it, in the interest of my own family and of some friends who are liberal users of it.

It may interest you to know that I found it consisted exclusively of Whole Wheat, Barley and Salt, and is absolutely free from any injurious elements whatever.

Permit me to express my sincere regret that such a serious and baseless rumor should gain footing with the public.

You are free to use this letter in any way that will help to do your product justice.

Yours truly,
WILBUR L. SCOVILLE.

Massachusetts College of Pharmacy.

BOSTON, June 30, 1903.

To Whom It May Concern:

At the invitation of The "FORCE" Food Company, of Buffalo, I have visited their Mills and made a careful examination of the materials from which "FORCE" is prepared, and the processes which convert it into its finished condition.

I found that "FORCE" consists exclusively of what my previous analysis indicated, viz.: Whole Wheat and Barley, with a flavoring of Table Salt, flaked, cooked and sterilized by 300 degrees of heat.

A feature of the manufacture which impressed me considerably was the fact that the process is entirely mechanical, the food being prepared, cooked and boxed by machinery, without ever coming in contact with the hands or clothing of the mill operatives.

I was also gratified to note that an experienced Chemist daily supervised the entire output, and that each day's manufacture was also tested by an expert cook.

Signed, WILBUR L. SCOVILLE,

The "Force" Food Company, Buffalo, N. Y.:

GENTLEMEN.—In view of the rumors regarding the alleged adulteration of "FORCE," it has been a satisfaction to me to visit your Mills, investigate, and analyze your product.

You are free to publish this statement made over my signature, that I found "FORCE" to be absolutely pure, consisting solely of Whole Wheat and Barley, flavored with table Salt, and free from any injurious substance whatever.

I examined, in detail, the various steps in the manufacture of your product, such as the steam cooking, the flaking and the roasting, as well as the packing, and find all to be remarkably clean and of absolute healthfulness. The final roasting is done at a temperature above 300° F., which, with the steam cooking, completely sterilizes the product, and the entire process, from the first step to the final sealing of the package, is a mechanical one, the product at no time coming in contact with the hands or clothing of the persons handling the machines or packages.

Very respectfully,
HERBERT M. HILL,
Chemist to the City of Buffalo.

See page 148 of "Cereal Breakfast Foods," Bulletin No. 84, of the Maine Experiment Station, a State Institution, which has analyzed "FORCE" with other foods, in the public interests.

Copy will be mailed free on request.

Refer also to Canadian Government Bulletin 84 on similar subject, pages 6 and 29, for analysis showing that "FORCE" consists solely of the most wholesome and nutritious ingredients.

Any inquiries concerning this subject will be cheerfully answered by
